MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

April 10, 11, 13, 14, 15 and 16.

THE BEST PEOPLE USE IT: C. Oliver Iselin; W. Butler Duncan, Jr.; Capt. Charles Barr; Capt. Rhodes; Capt. "Lem" Miller; Capt. Robert Wringe; Capt. Archie Hogarth; William Fife, Jr., etc.

NONALYKE preserves the famous Yachts,—Reliance, Défender, Constitution, Shamrock, etc., and adorns and preserves the walls of many famous buildings, including THE METROPOLITAN LIFE BUILDING.

C. OLIVER ISELIN says: "The Paint supplied by you is the best I have ever had."

THE IDEAL ENAMEL PAINT!

"NONALYKE" can be applied to bare wood or plaster without using White Lead, Zinc, or other primers. It makes an enamel surface which never cracks, and is impervious to germs of disease.

BLACK OR WHITE, OR COLORS

Send for samples, prices or estimates to the J. L. MITCHELL PAINT CO., 1 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Work is now well under way for the erection of the new engineering building for Rutgers College, which is to be located at Seminary pl and Bleecker pl, opposite the Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church. The building is to stand some distance back from the street line to allow for a number of tennis courts. These are now being laid out. The structure, when completed, will cost something like $50,000.

Stables.

NEWARK, N. J.—The contract to erect the city stable on South 8th st, Newark, has been awarded to Walter Issets, 16 N. 13th st, at $18,068.

Theatres.

ASBURY PARK, N. J.—The general contract for the new Casino, which is to be built on Fourth av and Beach st, Asbury Park, has been awarded to I. R. Taylor & Co., of that place. E. A. Arend, Asbury Park, is the architect.

Warehouses and Factories.

NEWARK, N. J.—The Celluloid Company will alter a warehouse at 55 to 59 Magazine st, Newark, expending about $20,000 for the same.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—J. E. Crossley has received a building permit through Frank Grad, architect, to erect a brick warehouse, three stories high, and 25x100 ft, at Broome and Mercer sts. The estimated cost is $25,000.

FLUSHING, L. I.—Work will be pushed on the new factory, 3 and 5 stys, brick, to be erected on Jefferson st, n s, 600 w Lawrence st, Flushing, by the Hemrich Franck Shore Co. Wm. Birkmire, Manhattan, is the architect; 46 x 193, cost, $60,000.

NEWARK, N. J.—The contract for the erection of the 3-sty brick factory for Max Hertz, on Oliver, near McWhorter st, Newark, has been issued to the Lewis Parker Building & Construction Co. Jas. S. Pigott is architect. The estimated cost is about $19,000.

Government Work.

Fort Totten, N. Y.—Sealed proposals will be received April 29 for addition to wharf here. Chas. A. Clark, 1st Lieut., C. A. C., Q. M.

No. 2154. Steam Turbines and Gas Generators.—A report has been received from an American consul in a European city, in which he states that an inquiry has been made at his office for steam turbines and gas generators. The turbines are wanted for paper mills and should have 2,000 horsepower. Twelve are required for immediate shipment and the name of the person to whom communications should be addressed has been forwarded by the consul.

No. 2158. Doorknobs, Locks, and Door and Window Fixtures.—An American consular officer in Northern Europe reports that a firm in his district has expressed a desire to be placed in communication with American firms manufacturing doorknobs and locks, as well as factories engaged in the manufacture of door and window fixtures.

No. 2160. Public Works and Improvements.—Consul-General Richard Guenther, of Frankfort, Germany, reports that the Municipal Executive Board of Frankfort has presented a plan for public improvements, including the enlargement of the city's electric plant, the building of additional tramway lines, the extension of the water, gas and sewage works, construction of harbor works, depots, an electric testing station and other electric appurtenances. The improvements will call for an expenditure of $12,400,000. The city of Wiesbaden has received permission to issue a loan of $5,500,000 to be expended for the following improvements: Construction of electric tramway lines, extension of the municipal gas, water and electric works, the building of a new hospital, a museum and a new bathing house. The city of Mainz, Germany, will build a new hospital to contain 650 beds, the estimated cost of which will be $942,000.

Vol. LXXXI. APRIL 25, 1908. No. 2093.

THE most encouraging aspect of the present business situation is undoubtedly the increasing ease with which railroads are beginning to float new issues of securities. The success of the Pennsylvania Company in placing $40,000,000 of bonds is conclusive upon this point; and the inevitable result of this ability on the part of the railroads to obtain the money necessary for improvements will stimulate the gradual resumption of such operations and the consequent revival of general business. There is not a large railway system in the country that was not obliged last fall to shut down on extensions and improvements, necessary either to develop traffic in sight or to handle in a more economical way existing traffic, and the managers of these corporations will understand how desirable it is to resume such improvements during a period of slack business. Fortunate indeed is the corporation or the individual who can afford to place permanent improvements on their properties at a time like the present. The majority of business men are obliged to do their building when labor, materials and money are all expensive; but the economical time to build is when labor, materials and money are relatively cheap. All these necessary implements of large constructural operations, while not so cheap as they were some years ago, are assuredly less expensive than they were last year, and are also less expensive than they will become a year or two from now. The present is the time to place improvements upon property—even if such improvements do not offer an immediate opportunity of large profits. The people, who make money in good times, are the people, like Mr. Carnegie, who can afford to prepare during bad times for the inevitable recurrence of greater business activity. It is scarcely necessary to add that this principle applies just as much to house-builders as it does to railroads. The man who has the money to make a desirable improvement to a piece of real estate during the coming summer will make more money than the man who prefers or is obliged to wait a year or two. The quoted prices for labor and materials offer no accurate indication of cheapness of contemporary building operations compared to what they were a year ago. A shrewd purchaser, with cash to pay, can obtain bargains in almost every service or material he needs, and his building will cost him a substantially smaller sum than the buildings with which it competes. He can afford, consequently, to get along with only a few tenants for a while, because he knows that when his building does fill up he will be earning a much higher percentage on his improvement than will his neighbors who made their improvements either at an earlier or a later date.

THE proposed amendments to the Rapid Transit Act have passed the Legislature; and while there is no reason to suppose that they will not meet with the Governor's approval, property owners should not cease to exercise effective influence until the lines are actually in course of construction. Every property owner must understand how much hangs upon the early construction of new longitudinal subways. They are necessary for the Bronx, or else that borough will lose to Brooklyn and Queens thousands of inhabitants, which would otherwise have contributed to the prosperity of its business and the value of its real estate. They are just as necessary to Manhattan, because without additional underground roads the increased business created by improved means of transit to Long Island and New Jersey cannot be properly handled. As soon as new subway contracts are let, if not before, real estate speculation will revive; and the millions spent upon the actual construction will help to stimulate local business by giving employment to thousands of unemployed laborers. Neither is there any reason to suppose that the terms which the Public Service Commission will be in a position to offer purpose. A contract extending fifty years should be an purpose. A contract extending fifty years should be an extremely profitable one for any corporation able to meet the necessary conditions. Every dollar invested in such a road would be returned two or threefold to its owners, and by the time the Commission is ready to advertise for bids there should be plenty of money available for investment in such an enterprise. Capitalists will not forget that the Interborough Company, before its fatal alliance with the New York City Railway Company, was one of the best and most profitable railway properties in the United States, and a fifty-year franchise, offered in 1908, should look much more attractive than did a seventy-five year franchise offered ten years ago. If the bill becomes a law, as it probably will, the early construction of new subways by private capital is almost a certainty, and the only cloud upon the situation will be the doubt whether the Interborough Company will be able to raise the capital which would enable it to be an effective competitor for the new franchises.

THE proposal to exempt bonds issued for the construction of subways from inclusion in the debt limit met with less opposition in the Legislature than was expected. The prospects are good that it will be approved by the next Legislature, and also that it will finally be endorsed by popular vote in the fall of 1908; and if this result is ever brought about, it will emancipate the city from a restriction which gravely embarasses its freedom of action. For the last fifteen years the inability of the city to issue bonds for subway purposes has been a hindrance to the construction of an improved rapid transit system. The impediment has been evaded by various devices, but the time has come when such devices will no longer serve. At present the city cannot build subways without depending exclusively on private capital; and, of course, capitalists under such conditions will exact terms favorable to themselves. It is much better at the present time to pay the price which is necessary to tempt private capital to lend its assistance, but the city must not continue to be placed in such a position. It must be free to build the subways it needs whenever its interests demand such action; and the only way such freedom can be obtained is to place bonds issued for subway construction in the same class as bonds issued for improving our municipal water supply. Plenty of subways are just as vital to the city's prosperity as is plenty of water. Money invested in the former offers a larger percentage of profit, and it is absurd as a matter of accounting to charge the bonds issued for a remunerative subway as a liability without charging the subway itself as an asset. It was Mr. Bird Coler who first denounced the absurdity of such a method of bookkeeping, and if this financial reform is ever consummated he will deserve a large share of the credit attaching to it.

WHATEVER may be thought of Mr. Thomas F. Ryan's defence of the financing of the Metropolitan Street Railway system, it is at least conclusive upon one point. The financial methods of the managers of the property were not the most important cause of the receivership. At the time when the system was in process of formation and when its existing financial burdens were placed upon it, its managers counted upon an increase in business and income similar to the increase in business and income which had taken place during the earlier years of the history of the consolidated system. If such an increase had occurred, the earnings of the street railways would have been abundantly sufficient, not only to pay all fixed charges and the regular dividends, but also the additional burden of taxation imposed upon the property. It was the necessity of paying increasing charges and burdens out of what was practically a stationary income which caused the bankruptcy of the corporation. The capitalization had been based upon what seemed to be a reasonable anticipation of increasing earnings, and when no increasing earnings occurred, the result was necessarily a receivership. Mr. Ryan, in his defence, charges the diminished income chiefly upon the undue extension of the transfer system; and many newspapers have agreed with him that the issue of transfers was carried further than the company could afford. The Record and Guide believes, however, that this opinion has been too easily accepted. The increased issue of transfers undoubtedly cut down the average fare per ride that the company received, but all past experience in street railway management testifies to the truth that a better and a cheaper service of this kind stimulates traffic to an extent which reimburses the street railway for the cost of its better service. The transfer system would not have hurt the Metropolitan system provided it could have continued to carry its increasing number of passengers economically. The system has broken down because it could not handle its increasing business efficiently and cheaply. The congestion of street traffic caused continual delays in operation, and augmented the number of damage suits; at the same time the constantly overcrowded condition of the cars enabled conductors to steal with impunity, and passengers to evade payment of their fares. If the company could have increased the number of cars operated in proportion to the increase in passengers and if these cars could have run on a fixed schedule without constant delays and accidents, the extension of the transfer system would have been a benefit to the company as well as to the public. It is essential that this point should be clearly understood, because, if the prevailing opinion is allowed to pass uncriticized, it will prevent the future development of the transfer system. The courts may be justified in diminishing the number of transfers issued, but the only warrant for such an order is, not that transfers necessarily mean a loss to the company, but that they are costly only when they create traffic, which for other reasons cannot be economically carried.

LIVING ROOMS IN BASEMENTS.

ONE of the necessary conditions that must be present when an owner receives permission at the Tenement House Department to alter cellar or basement rooms for living purposes, is that his ceilings must be at least 4½ ft. above the level of the street. In a recent case a firm of owners, holding to the opinion that the height should be measured from the surface of the ground surrounding the house, appealed to the courts and were overruled, the last decision being from the Appellate Division.

The buildings which were involved in this case consist of fifteen high-grade houses on the southerly side of West 140th st, between 7th and 8th avs, and occupying a plot 575 feet in width and 99 ft 11 in. in depth. Through the middle of the block, running from 7th to 8th av, is a private way 26 ft. in width, whereof one-half consists of the rear of the relators' land. This way is created by a covenant which runs with the land for at least ten years from 1905, and thereafter as to each part of the premises upon which a building is constructed until such building shall be demolished and entirely removed.

Each of the buildings is 38 ft. 4 in. wide in the front and runs back at that width for a distance of 28 ft. 6 in. For the remainder of the distance each building is 25 ft. 4 in. in width, leaving unbuilt upon each side of each lot a space or court 58 ft. 5 in. deep, by 6 ft. 6 in. in width. The buildings are so constructed that two of these courts come together, leaving between the rear portions of each two buildings an open space, half on one lot and half on the other, 13 ft. wide and 58 ft. 5 in. deep.

The surface of the right of way is at the same level as 140th st and 7th and 9th avs, being at the grade known throughout the Tenement House Act as the curb level. The surface of the open courts between the houses is depressed 7 ft. 6 in. below the curb level, terminating at the rear end in a stone retaining wall, which upholds the right of way, from which iron steps lead down into the courts. In each of the houses there are rooms at the level of the bottom of the depressed court with windows opening out upon it. It is these rooms which the owners desired to adapt for living purposes, and as the Commissioner refused to give his approval to the plans and specifications, a proceeding was brought to compel him to do so.

The owners insisted that they were entitled as a matter of strict legal right to the approval of their plans. The first objection which the Commissioner made to the plans was that the ceilings of the rooms are only two feet above the street surface at the curb, whereas they should be four feet six inches above that level. The ceilings of the rooms are nine feet high, but, as the street surface is seven feet higher than the floors of the rooms, the ceilings are only two feet higher than the street level. As the buildings were erected since the passage of the present Tenement House Act, therefore the application was governed by Title 1 of Chapter IV of the Act, which, in Section 91, relating to rooms in basements altered for living purposes, prescribes that "The ceiling of such room shall be at least four feet and six inches above the surface of the street or ground outside of or adjoining the same." The relators' contention was that the words "surface of the street" and "ground outside of or adjoining the same" are used alternatively, and that the requirements of the statute would be met in the case of the rooms which they desired to convert into dwelling rooms, because their ceilings would be more than four feet and six inches above the surface of the sunken court, which, as they claimed, is the "surface of the ground immediately adjoining" the rooms, within the meaning of the statute.

Of course if this were the true construction to be given to the statute it would be quite possible, as Judge Scott says in the opinion handed down by the Appellate Division, for the owner of some other building to sink a court much deeper than seven feet, six inches, and the rooms opening upon it would be, within the law, if their ceilings extended to four feet six inches above the bottom of the well-like court thus created.

The Tenement House Commissioner, through Corporation Counsel John F. O'Brien, on the other hand contended that the street level, or as it is termed in the Act, the curb level, was intended as the primary determining factor regulating the height to which the ceilings of basement rooms must extend, and that they must also extend four feet and six inches above the adjoining ground, if the building be not built upon a street, or if the conformation of the land be such that a ceiling four feet and six inches in height above the curb level would not be that much above the surface of the ground immediately adjoining. In order to place this construction upon the statute the Court was asked to read the sub-division as if the word "and" were used instead of the word "or," so that the subdivision will read: "The ceiling of such room shall be at least four feet and six inches above the surface of the street and ground outside of or adjoining the same.

The Appellate Division concurred in this view, saying that the words "and" and "or" when used in a statute are convertible as the sense may require. "The substitution of one for the other is frequently resorted to in the interpretation of statutes whe nthe evident intention of the lawmakers requires it."

And the Court further says:

"In the interpretation of statutes the great principle which is to control is the intention of the Legislature in passing the same, which intention is to be ascertained from the cause or necessity of making the statute as well as other circumstances. A strict and literal interpretation is not always to be adhered to, and where the case is brought within the intention of the makers of the statute, it is within the statute, although by a technical interpretation it is not within its letter. In the construction of a law, every part of it must be viewed in connection with the whole. . . .

"Taking the Act as a whole, therefore, and bearing in mind the evils which it was designed to prevent, we find ourselves unable to accede to the construction contended for by the relators', which would go far to nullify the beneficent purposes of the Act. We are of the opinion that in usingthewords 'or ground outside of or adjoining the same' following the words 'surface of the ground,' the Legislature did not intend to permit the use for living purposes of rooms wholly or more than one-half below the street level."

The foregoing reason was considered sufficient to dispose of the owners' claim, that they were entitled as a matter of right to the approval of the plans, but there were other objections as well to the plans submitted.

LABOR UNION LAWS.—A member of Union No. 12, in the National Association of Heat, Frost, General Insulating and Asbestos Workers, was fined $50 by the authorities of the union. He appealed to the Supreme Court (Second Department) and Justice Marean has handed down a decision, in favor of the member. In the written opinion the Court says: "The trial and conviction of the plaintiff was contrary to the provisions of Article III of the by-laws governing the defendant association, which reads: 'Any member working against the interests of the local in case of strike or any trouble between local and an employer shall, upon satisfactory proof being furnished, be expelled.' The plaintiff was tried for abusive language about and interference with the business agent, but there was no strike, nor was there any trouble between the local and the plaintiff's employer; therefore, there was no offense under this section justifying punishment. Although convicted the plaintiff was not expelled, but fined $50. No authority was given to fine as the penalty for violating Section 2 is expulsion. The sentence was, therefore, improper and illegal. As the plaintiff has property rights resulting from his membership, the by-laws or agreement controlling him must be carefully followed before he can be deprived of these rights."

—Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, will offer for sale on Tuesday, May 5, at 11 a. m., 246 lots of the Wolfe estate, on White Plains road, Boston av, Bronx Park East (Bronx boulevard), north of Pelham parkway and opposite Botanical Gardens in Bronx Park. Property can be reached by taking 3d av "L" or subway to 177th st, then by trolley on White Plains road direct to property. Titles insured by Title Guarantee and Trust Co. and free to purchasers; 70 per cent. may remain on mortgage for one, two, or three years. See advertisement in to-day's issue for further particulars.

CONSTRUCTION

THE LAST WORD ON INTERIOR TRIM.

INTERIOR TRIM in relation to the modern office building, apartment houses, and buildings of other descriptions, of today, throughout this metropolis, has been making rapid strides towards a more practical and serviceable style. In other words, the trim of today has been well thought out and in the case of the office building in particular is pretty firmly established on sensible lines, both as to general design and kinds of woods used.

F. S. BOSWORTH.

Some years ago, the idea prevailed that the more woodwork put into a building, the better the building. This practice, however, has to a great extent been done away with, and the present tendency is to use a good serviceable trim, which will both look well and stand well under all ordinary wear and tear.

The better class of office buildings are being trimmed generally with African mahogany, and especially with selected veneers for the principal parts of the building and special offices. In these principal portions also is put a trim of special design, and in some instances, carving is introduced to give an artistic tone to the work.

In the upper portions of these buildings, or what is termed Typical Portion, a uniform trim is introduced, plain yet pleasing to the eye. This mahogany trim, together with suitable wall and ceiling decorations, constitutes the ideal office.

This particular treatment is confined mostly to the downtown districts, and has only lately been introduced, the previous idea being that all office buildings should be trimmed in oak. Notable examples of this mahogany treatment are: the Trinity Buildings, the U. S. Realty Building and the Trust Company of America Building.

Quartered oak is also used in this class of office building with good effect. In some instances the lower or principal portion of the building is trimmed with mahogany, and the upper or typical portion in oak.

In buildings of this class over 150 ft. high, in the past few years, fireproofed wood has been introduced with a view to making the buildings more fireproof, and still at the same time retaining the beauty of the graining of the different woods. This fireproofed wood, when properly treated, is undoubtedly a great fire retardent and adds to the safety of the building.

Taking into consideration the short time in which these skyscrapers are being constructed at the present time, makes it quite a problem to get together the enormous quantities of wood required to complete the trim for same.

When we stop to consider that close to two million feet of mahogany was specially imported for the three buildings some idea is obtained of what is being accomplished in the interior trim line today in this particular class of building, and it necessarily follows that the factory coping with this class of work must be large and well equipped and up to date in every particular, thus giving it proper facilities to produce the material in the shortest possible time consistent with good work, this being the essence of the greater part of these contracts.

TRIM OF THE MODERN APARTMENT HOUSE.

Regarding the trim for the modern apartment house, this also has changed considerably in the last few years. The tendency now is to treat each principal room in the various apartments in some representative style, introducing, for instance, Louis XVI. in enamel finish for drawing rooms, Elizabethan in quartered oak for dining rooms, and the bedrooms generally treated in simple Colonial style, enamel finish and mahogany doors.

In some cases, mahogany constitutes the finish in dining rooms and libraries, these combinations as to styles and varieties of woods being varied to suit the architect or owner.

This treatment practically puts these buildings on a private house basis, and for this reason, such apartments are very attractive and much sought after. Notable examples of this class of building are the Langham Apartment House, 73d and 74th sts and Central Park West, and the new Park View Building, now being erected at 66th st and Madison av.

The trim for the better class of private houses at the present time can be considered as all special work, as the speculative element has practically been eliminated, and the architect under present conditions has more scope to show his individuality as to special treatment of the principal rooms, etc., and almost invariably produces some very fine effects, introducing carved and composition ornament, with special designs of trim.

Undoubtedly this condition of affairs puts buildings of this character on a higher plane than ever before. Red mahogany, white mahogany, quartered oak, Circassian walnut, etc., are the woods generally used, the oaks being treated in many special finishes.

In addition to the above enumerated buildings, there is also the trim required for speculative buildings, such as apartment houses, two-family houses, etc., for the upper section of the city, which covers a large field.

Taking the trim business as a whole today, it is firmly established on a good working basis, and the up-to-date factories manufacturing work for all classes of buildings keep fairly busy.

F. S. BOSWORTH,
(Mgr. Batavia and New York Woodworking Co.)

EMPLOYEES SHOULD CONCEDE MORE.

"WHAT is needed now is concession in labor wages," said Mr. I. A. Hopper, president of the Building Trades Employers' Association, when discussing the cost of buildings and its relation to the labor question. "Formerly it was a case of reduction of wages. Before the time when employers and employees were organized the employer would reduce the wages of his mechanics according as circumstances required, not giving much consideration to the effect that such reduction would have on the general welfare of his men. If the cost of construction work rose and he found that he could not build with a profit he would arbitrarily lower the wages. If the workmen did not like it there would be others who could and would take their places.

"But conditions are different now. With the organization of employers and employees to look after their respective rights and interests there has followed the conference between the opposing sides and, as in New York, arbitration. But the object of arbitration committees cannot be carried out unless there is a spirit to concede something when there ought to be a concession, and to concede voluntarily.

"At present this concession should come from the employee. There ought to be more horse sense used in settling difficulties. Wages now are practically fixed by agreements between employer and employee by the year, a plan that has advantages. But in following this system there must be a liberal spirit of cooperation. We should change from reduction to concession. The employer no longer reduces wages as he did, and the wage-earner ought to meet him more by making concessions.

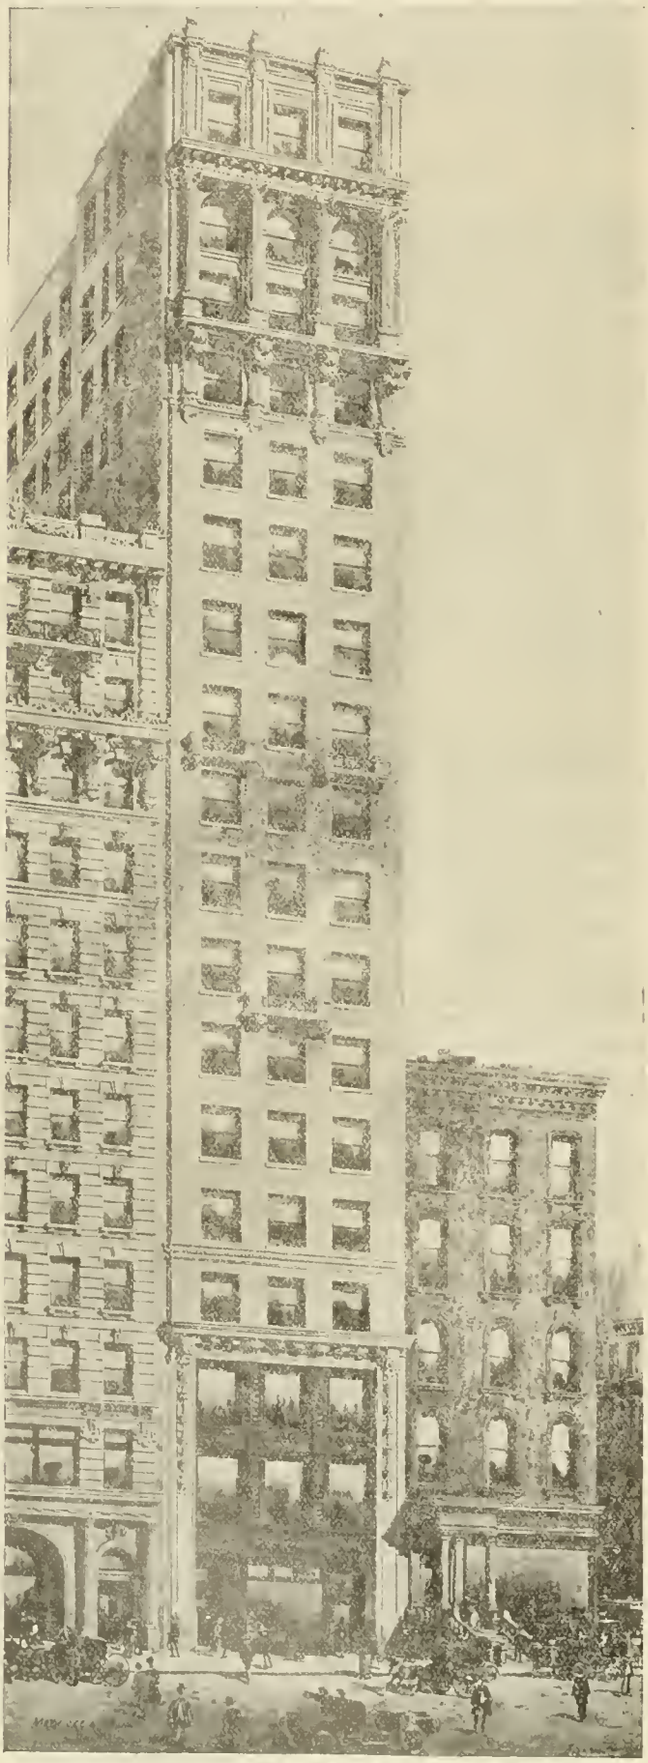
"I could not attempt to undertake a bricklaying contract now unless I engaged to pay 70 cents per hour. In fact, it is hard now to tell who is the capitalist. The laborer making $1.50 or $1.75 a day looks up to the mechanic making $5 or $6 a day as a wealthy man. From this view it is a question who is the capitalist—the man who receives $5 a day, or the one who is able to pay it.

"We have to be prepared for a good many emergencies. I remember a case several years ago when unforeseen circumstances sent the price of brick up from $7 to $14 a thousand. It all happened within the space of two months. These things we have to take more or less of a chance on, and when such unexpected circumstances arise there ought to be consideration on all sides."

INTEREST IN MATERIAL EXIBITION.

THERE are so many persons coming to the exhibition department to make inquiries about space and the conditions for making a display that it will not be long before I will have to spend all of my time in the office," said Mr. J. J. Conor, director of the permanent exhibition of building material, started by the Building Trades Employers' Association on the second floor of the new Builders' Exchange Building, 33rd st. "Every day sees new concerns signing contracts, and the spaces are going in an encouraging way. It will not be a great while before there is a waiting list. These exhibitions have been successful in all of the cities where they have received the support of the members of the associations operating them, and with that as a basis the New York exhibition ought to be one of the most successful of any in the country, as the support of the members of the Employers' Association has been assured in more ways than one.

"The installation of exhibits will start at once. When they begin to arrive the floor will have a different appearance. Some of them promise to be both costly and attractive. All of them will be instructive. The facilities provided in the location selected are of the best."



THE ARCHITECT
WHAT HE HAS DONE RECENTLY AND WHY HE DID IT.

HIGH BUILDING ON A NARROW PLOT.

In this building attention is directed to the extraordinary height for the width of base, and where special steel construction to overcome wind pressure was adopted. The whole structure is to be fireproof, including the wood. The floors will not be of wood, but will be of concrete finish. Three rapid running elevators will be provided, and from the second story up the building will be divided into offices—six to a floor. The first four stories of the front are to be of limestone with ornamental iron window frames. The upper part is to be of brick and terra cotta, and some granite will be used in the base.

The work is to go ahead immediately. The building will have a total height of eighteen stories and will cover a plot of 37 feet on 5th av, by 100 feet in depth. The cost will be in the neighborhood of $250,000. The Improved Property Holding Company, 341 5th av, of which Henry Corn is president and the lessee, will erect the structure. The land is owned by Eliza L. Parsons, Schuyler L. Parsons, William Barclay Parsons and Harry de Berkley Parsons. Messrs. Maynicke & Franke, 298 5th av, are the architects.

The site is on the east side of 5th av, second door north of 42d st, and was occupied by a 4-sty dwelling, with stable in the rear. Excavating has commenced. Adjoining on the north is a 12-sty office building now about finished by the Fleischmann Realty and Construction Co., from plans by Messrs. Buchman & Fox.

NO DARK ROOMS HERE.

The Clarendon apartment house is situated on the southeast corner of 86th st (Park st, 100 ft. wide), and Riverside drive, having just been finally completed by Ranald H. Macdonald & Co., of 29 West 34th st, owners and builders. The building is twelve stories high, of steel construction and absolutely fireproof, and is cleverly arranged for two housekeeping apartments on each floor, consisting of ten to twelve rooms, with four bathrooms to each apartment.

The great feature of this house, aside from its architectural beauty, is the light and air given to the bedrooms. The living rooms are unusually large, being 22x30 and 19x23 ft., with dining rooms 19x20 ft. The rooms in all cases are grouped around the foyer hall, and in no case is it necessary to pass through a bedroom to enter a room, a very important point. There are two electric elevators, one freight and one passenger. The facade is made up of limestone on the first four stories, with

METHODS USED IN A CONCRETE CONSTRUCTION.

THE Eastman Kodak Building at Nos. 235, 237 and 239 West 23rd st, Manhattan, is an interesting example of the use of reinforced concrete for an office and loft building. This structure was designed by McKim, Mead & White, architects, and the general contract was let to M. Reid & Co. The Turner Construction Co., of No. 11 Broadway, was awarded a subcontract for practically the entire building. They worked up the detailed structural design and completed the building in 110 working days.

The general dimensions of the building are 60 ft. by 90 ft. in plan, eight stories and basement in height. The story heights vary from 12 ft. 6 in. to 14 ft. 0 in. The basement being 10 ft. in depth. The interior columns are of hollow cast iron, circular in section. The walls, wall columns, and the rear center columns are of reinforced concrete, as are also the floors, roof, partitions, stairs, and the fireproofing of the cast iron columns. Owing to the peculiar front detail it was found necessary to use steel girders at the floor levels on the front of the building, with the exception of a massive reinforced concrete front girder at the roof level. This girder carries the ornamental cornice by means of a cantilever slab. The front of the building consists of terra cotta tile with granite trimmings on the first and second floor levels. The cornice, as will be noticed in the accompanying photograph, is also of terra cotta tile.

REINFORCED CONCRETE OFFICE AND LOFT BUILDING.

The method of construction followed was "skeleton." The columns and floors being run up first, similar to steel cage construction, and the concrete walls followed after the floors as soon as practicable. The reinforced concrete partitions and the stairs were built in quick succession. The speed obtained after the first floor and basement were completed averaged a story every six days.

The building was begun on the day after Labor Day and the roof put on in late November. Owing to the severity of the winter of 1906-07 the completion of the walls and partitions was delayed a little, but the contract time of 110 working days was beaten by two days.

This building is used on the first floor for the headquarters of the Larkin Soap Company, who maintain there exhibition rooms for their premium prizes. Above the first floor the tenants largely utilize their space for offices and store rooms. The three top floors of the building are occupied by the Eastman Kodak Company as their New York wholesale quarters.

The building has been in use now about a year, and Mr. Snow, the manager of the Eastman Kodak Company, is the authority for the statement that he finds the reinforced concrete construction for a building of this character satisfactory in every respect.

EMPLOYERS' ASSOCIATION MOVING.

Although the time for the moving of the Building Trades Employers' Association from its old quarters at 889 Broadway to the Builders' Exchange Building in 33d st was scheduled for May 1, such progress has been made by the house committee in preparing the new quarters that Secretary Wm. J. Holmes and J. J. Conor, manager of the material exhibition department, are already installed in their new offices. Mr. Conor moved last Monday and Mr. Holmes yesterday. It has been decided to move the cafe, general offices, parlors, etc., on April 28.

Most satisfactory progress is being made in starting the exhibition feature added to the work of the association. Mr. Conor has his quarters adjoining the elevators, so that he will be in immediate touch with every one who visits the second floor. The installation of exhibits has started. Mr. Conor states that indications show that there will be a steady stream of these and that the exhibition of building material will soon be worth visiting. Everything is ready for setting up the displays. The platforms and aisles between them have been sandpapered and oiled.

On the top floor, which will be devoted to the business and social quarters of the association, has been transformed into offices and social rooms. A large range has been placed in the kitchen to provide for the wants of the inner man at lunch time. Judging from the present appearance of this floor there will be nothing left for the members of the association to wish for. The flood of light is one of the best features of the new location.

NEW ELEVATOR PROBLEMS.

The question of putting two elevator cars in one shaft to save space in costly office buildings is one that is being discussed by elevator manufacturers and engineers. Queries as to the possibility of this being accomplished and the effect it would have are being received from time to time from owners who contemplate erecting high office buildings. Mr. P. R. Bolton, consulting engineer, 527 5th av, received one recently from a large real estate owner in Chicago.

"This question brings up new problems," said Mr. Bolton, in speaking of the matter, "and they are going to be difficult to solve. There is such a strong desire to economize every inch of space in costly business buildings that the necessity of having two cars in one shaft is one that will have to be taken up as a serious proposition very soon. This emphasizes the necessity of having more frequent changes in the code relating to such subjects."

WHO'S WHO IN BUILDING—6.

ONE of the familiar and well-known figures in contracting circles in New York City, with a wide acquaintance and reputation throughout the country, is Franklin Remington, president of The Foundation Company, 115 Broadway, New York City, with whom is associated in this business Daniel E. Moran, C. E.; Edwin S. Jarrett, C. E.; Louis L. Brown, C. E.; John W. Doty, C. E., and Edwin F. Kellogg.

FRANKLIN REMINGTON.

Mr. Remington is a man who is not without honor in his own State, as well as in other States of the Union. His personality and solid type are regarded as identifying him with the highest class of contracting work, and, therefore, make him eligible to be considered one of the leading contractors of America.

Franklin Remington was born in Utica, N. Y., Nov. 16, 1866. He is a son of Samuel Remington, who is universally known as the president of the Remington Arms Co., familiar throughout the world as the manufacturers of rifles, shotguns, etc. Franklin Remington attended St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., and Harvard University. He was graduated from the latter institution in 1887. After spending a couple of years in traveling throughout the United States and abroad, he took up farming.

The collapse of the real estate boom in Kansas City wiped out what fortune he had accumulated. In 1892 he went to Chicago and started in the contracting business. With him was his brother, Carver Remington. This company undertook a considerable amount of work in the way of waterworks construction. The first contract was made for construction of the waterworks of the City of Hammond, Ind. Mr. Remington built the electric elevated railroad at the World's Fair, Chicago, 1893, which was the first road to use the third rail system. Mr. Remington was also engaged in the construction of the Chicago Drainage Canal.

In 1902 he came to New York City, and with Messrs. Moran and Jarrett organized The Foundation Company, with a view to making a specialty of difficult foundation work, particularly compressed air work. The members of this company have executed a number of important contracts.

Mr. Remington lives at Greenwich, Conn., and is a member of various clubs, such as the University Club, Harvard Club, Indian Harbor Yacht Club, Racquet and Tennis. He has a large acquaintance with prominent men of affairs, engineers, contractors and architects, and has been able to build up his business largely through his acquaintance. This speaks eloquently for the personality which we present. He is one of those kind of men who rise above their business and who influence others by sheer force of personal magnetitsm. A man rarely succeeds in technical or mechanical lines if there is not placed in him that confidence necessary to the stability of business. After all, it is the men and not the desks and office furniture which are the assets of our great contracting companies. Mr. Remington has accomplished a great deal, and this with comparative ease, when one realizes what prestige his company has gained since its organization only six years ago. He is also president of the Waterproofing Company.

Those associated with Mr. Remington esteem him for traits of character which are truly estimable. He impresses one as being scrupulously honest and fair in his dealings. He has a real sense of justice, and seeks quickly equitable adjustments. He is pleasantly informal, and at the same time earnest, conservative and generous.

He has a beautiful home and aside from business is somewhat domesticated. He is known to be absolutely fearless in the pursuit of his favorite sport—sailing. It is understood that he will sail anywhere, at any time. He has a great appreciation of healthful out-door exercise as is shown in his robust physique and constant application to yachting when his time permits.

A VISITOR FROM BALTIMORE.—Mr. Frank Bennett, a general contractor of Baltimore, Md., was a visitor at the Building Trades Employers' Association this week. Mr. Bennett's father, B. F. Bennett, might be called the Nestor of the builders of the Monumental City, he having been a contractor in that place for several generations, and still attends to his business, although an octogenarian. Mr. Bennett put up many of the finest structures in Baltimore. When at the association rooms Mr. Bennett was the guest of Mr. Chas. A. Heil, of the Stanley Hoisting Company.

NEW YORK CONTRACTORS VISIT TEXAS.

Frederick B. Tuttle, of the Tuttle Roofing Company, 522 East 20th st, and Frederick R. Usher, who is with John Downey, the builder, 410 West 34th st, recently returned from a long and interesting trip through several of the Southwestern States and Mexico. Messrs. Tuttle and Usher, who are interested in the new railroad that is being constructed from Kansas City to Topolobampo, on the west coast of Mexico, were the guests of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad Company, which is building the line, on a special train going over that part of the road which has been completed. Mr. A. E. Stillwell is the promoter of the new enterprise.

Some interesting facts regarding the construction of the road over the Sierra Madre Mountains in Mexico are told. The great problem was to overcome the obstacle raised by this range in the path of the railroad. It is estimated that fully $1,000,000 was spent for surveying alone. It was impossible to tunnel through the mountains, as they are many miles in width, being surmounted by a plateau extending at least 50 miles east and west. The bed was finally laid at a grade of 2½ per cent. in order to climb to the plateau 8,000 feet above the sea level.

At one point a straight line drawn for two miles will cross the tracks four times. Between two tracks, at one place, there is but 100 feet, notwithstanding which one is 170 feet above the other. The road passes through the States of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and the States of Chihuahua and Sonora in Mexico. It taps a rich agricultural country and the mountainous region is said to be full of valuable minerals. When completed it will be 1,658 miles long, including all of the loops required in ascending the Sierra Madres.

Messrs. Tuttle and Usher visited several cities in Mexico. They saw several modern buildings in Mexico City, all of them being put up by American contractors. A post office building is now in course of construction. Beyond these few structures the material generally used is "dobe," a kind of mud, which is moulded into fairly large cakes about two feet long, one foot wide and six inches thick. With this material three stories appears to be the limit in height, and it is nearly always used in the construction of dwellings.

CONCRETE EXHIBITION BOOMING.

The success of the exhibition of the Concrete Association of America on the eleventh floor of 225 5th av is cited by President Isaac A. Hopper, of the Building Trades Employers' Association, as a good reason why the permanent exhibition of building material undertaken by the Employers' Association should prove what is expected of it.

"When I saw how well the concrete exhibition was getting along," said Mr. Hopper, "I felt sure that the one proposed by the Employers' Association would be a success from the start."

When Secretary Davis, of the Concrete Association, was asked what the prospects were for the exhibition of which he is in immediate charge, he said:

"We have very few spaces left and these are fast filling up. It will not be long before there will be a waiting list. What is very encouraging is the character of the displays. Some of them are costing a big sum of money, and all will be both attractive and instructive."

Mr. Davis' reference to the appearance of the exhibits is justified, as they are exceedingly attractive, many of them being as artistic as the aim of the display will permit.

CHEFS WILL COMPLAIN NO MORE.

"There were times in our old quarters at 889 Broadway when the chefs said that limited facilities prevented them from preparing properly some of the dishes desired by members," said a member of the House Committee of the Building Trades Employers' Association yesterday. "We thought of these complaints when the kitchen appurtenances were being installed in the new quarters on the top floor of the Builders' Exchange Building, and decided to leave no room for any more. One of their grievances was that the gas stoves were not suitable for certain cuisine preparations. In order to meet them in this regard we have provided three kinds of stoves in the new building—gas, coal and coke. Gas is quick, but coal gives a better heat for some dishes. On the other hand, for broiling coke is most desirable. The very best pattern of each kind has been placed in the kitchen, and the most seasoned epicures among the members of the association ought to have no reason to complain for variety and quality of anything put on the table."

—A Mexican journal states that a contract is being drawn up by the authorities and a new company for the construction of a new dock at Acapulco, on the Mexican Pacific coast. It will be of wood, but replaced within a few years by a modern iron wharf. The company guarantees to equip the harbor with all the apparatus needed for the convenience and safety of ships, including railroad tracks, cranes, buoys, beacons, lights, etc., and also to dredge channels.

THE MAN ON THE STREET.

WHEN one looks up at a high building, numerous men are seen working on the edge. You may try and put yourself in their places and realize that they are used to the heights, and that with any kind of care the dangers are not so great as imagined. While there are casualties now and then, the proportion to the number of men employed is comparatively small. The average workman keeps a level head when at work.

A much greater danger lies in our modern concentrated civilization to the man who is working on the "nervous edge." Architects who do their arduous professional work in the daytime and have multitudinous social duties at night with an eye to "acquaintances" are an example. There are also many builders who carry heavy technical or financial responsibilities, and fail to leave them in their offices when they close their roll-top desks. Not that hard work generally hurts anybody, but many people cannot work unless they worry too. So follow excesses to maintain the balance—brain-fag, nervous prostration and a whole brood of evil spirits.

There is one successful contractor who has eliminated all this. He has in spite of everything maintained his poise, and his face and form show the serenity of a mind able and active, and he goes about his multitudinous tasks with calmness.

It does not take much fuss to handle material as we do it now. A big four-horse truck drives up the street and, gee whiz, before you know it tons of steel are sailing skyward. Is it necessary to move a tool house? Presto! it is going elsewhere. Great blocks of stone obey the magic wand of the boom. Just watch the men of the guide line. They can almost shave a hair's breadth. Ex-sailor men these, often, from the way they handle the ropes. On these high buildings of ours, it's pretty nice work, and when the wind blows strongly it takes a good, strong arm. It also shows the excellent quality of wire cable that is manufactured. Now and then a man goes up on the load. The crowd thinks it a great stunt. Not so, he is just part of the game. Familiarity breeds contempt for danger and it saves steps, any way, for the man on the load.

What a good thing to the eye it is to see precision of action, as a swinging sledge in the hand of an adept, and the man holding the drill, never doubting the accuracy of the blow; the deft stroke of the stone-cutter at work on a moulding, the ringing blow of a front brick-layer making nice joints; and think of the training it takes to acquire this dexterity. This is indicative surely of clear thinking.

It is why workmen are generally pretty straight in speech as well as sure of motion. Perhaps it is why in Germany they put architectural students through courses of practical work. It makes for the well-developed man. Sometimes it seems as if it would be well also if the men of the pen could have the advantages of such a training. However, they always try to get as close to it as possible, and draftsmen have to any way. Pretty nearly every drawing is fairly accurate, even in these blue-print days, with washing and shrinking. Figured dimensions take preference to scaling.

Don't be sure, fellow citizens of the building trades, that the next decade or two will not see women superintendents on the structures where now men reign supreme. The basis of this possibility is a little incident which shows the manner of girl who is coming along.

Our suburban train had pulled out of the station quite rapidly. Through the window I saw a form flying down the road. It was a girl about eighteen years old, of the typewriter kind. She did not hesitate a jiffy, even as she was lost sight of close under the window, for speedily she composedly entered our car from the platform. Everybody expected a catastrophe, and each man was ready to reach for the bellrope.

In a relieved tone one man gasped, "What do you think of that?" "She's a bird," came spontaneously the answer. Do you think such a feminine proposition would hesitate at climbing ladders or riding on hod-hoists, or giving guilty foremen straight, if soft voiced, dressing downs, long to be remembered? Better stop rolling cigarettes, boys, and get down to your practical technology in actual material. Something will be doing with our little sisters ere we realize it.

This year Easter Sunday fell on April 19, the anniversary of Lexington and Sumter. The latter was the parting of the ways for Abraham Lincoln. When one looks on the features of this man it is hard to eliminate the thought that if instead of being a master of statecraft, he had been of our trades. Think of the work he would have accomplished, the organization he would have brought together, the innovations and reforms he would have put through, and as years came on and his intense activities had abated somewhat as a public-spirited citizen, how he would have counted in movements for municipal improvements, parks, buildings, and other civic advances. All of this is possible when you realize the potentialities of this heroic figure, but it was not so to be.

ARCHITECTURAL EXPOSITION NEXT FALL.

THE first annual National Architectural Exposition will be held during the week of September 14th to 19th at Madison Square Garden. By a combination of all departments in Architecture, Engineering, Painting, Sculpture, the Trades, Manufacturing and Craftsmanship pertaining to the construction, equipment and decoration of buildings, as well as landscape and garden effects, this coming function is intended to be a radical departure from the usual form of exhibitions.

Its attractiveness and importance should bring visitors, especially from the professions, the manufacturers, the trades, students, lovers of art and science in every section of the United States, and it will be of special interest to people of wealth and culture—the purchasing public. Manufacturers of the newest and best in building construction and materials, in articles of equipment and decoration, will be able, conveniently and interestingly to present their products to the professions, the trade and the public by exhibition, demonstration and application. Raw material and manufactured goods entering into the construction of buildings, engineering effects, decoration, landscape and garden features will be shown. No space will be allotted to exhibits possessing no special features of novelty, utility, originality or beauty.

The management announces that many architects of prominence will aid and co-operate and will exhibit in the salon models, casts, drawings and photographs of unusual interest. This display of valuable and artistic models of great edifices, the results of much thought and study by the leading architects, together with drawings and photographs of special interest will prove of infinite educational value to the students and lovers of art and science and to the technical and general press and the laymen.

The salon will be a separate and distinct department of the exposition, occupying the high elevated promenade platform twenty feet wide, surrounding the entire arena. On this platform there will be forty studios of equal size, about 16 ft. × 7 ft., affording three walls in each studio for hanging and ample room in the center of each studio for models. These architects, who are the patrons of the first National Architectural Exposition will arrange and hang their own collections.

Sculpture and paintings will be features of the exposition, and many masterpieces of art have been promised by individuals and societies, and the management is arranging with representative organizations to place in separate rooms and departments exhibits that are allied to architecture and in keeping with the plan and scope of the exposition.

The exposition will open on the Saturday preceding the week of September 14th to 19th; this opening night is to be an invitation inspection to the press and the professions, a society event, a dress rehearsal with band concerts.

The general manager has had experience in successfully organizing and directing large expositions in industry, art and science, and with the co-operation of the Madison Square Garden Company this first annual National Architectural Exposition will be carried forward on an elaborate, generous and artistic scale.

light brick, limestone and terra cotta trimmings above, topped with a flat tile roof. The site is one of the most attractive and desirable locations on Riverside drive, commanding a magnificent view of the river. Macdonald & Co. were the general contractors, issuing all sub-contracts. The Otis Elevator Co. furnished the elevators, and the Eastern Steel Co., 71 Broadway, had the structural steel and iron work. Charles E. Birge, of 29 West 34th st, being the architect.

A VALUABLE SUGGESTION.—To make paint adhere to galvanized iron is usually a difficult matter, and numerous experiments have been made in order to surmount the difficulty. The United States government has adopted a mode of procedure in this direction which is giving quite satisfactory results. Vinegar is used in washing the surface before painting. Its action roughens the metal, causing the paint to adhere more closely.

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT.

And News Regarding Source of Supply

Lumber Yard Management.

Mr. J. S. Davis, president of the New York Lumber Trade Association, was an honored guest and speaker at the recent annual meeting and banquet of the Philadelphia Lumbermen's Exchange. In his address he referred to the tendency to increase the volume of sales without due regard to the volume of profit. He then said:

JAS. S. DAVIS,
President of the N. Y. Lumber Trade Association.

"One of my friends, as astute a man as I know, tells me that the worst competition a retail yard has is its own outside salesmen, for they are constantly endeavoring to meet the other man's prices, which are always obtained from the customer, and usually by word of mouth. Another man equally qualified to judge thinks that this trade obtained by our outside salesmen amounts to about 25 per cent of the total trade, and that the untoward effort put forth to get it causes the entire volume of business to bring in a return from 5 to 10 per cent less than it otherwise would bring in. Though I am not inclined to accept the conclusions of these gentlemen as accounting entirely for the present condition, I do accept them as one of the influences which work detrimentally to the securing of reasonable profits.

"My own experience leads me to believe that much of this trouble lies in our ignorance of the actual cost of doing business. We have a more or less vague idea that it costs us a certain percentage of our sales to turn over our business, say 15 to 20 per cent. on our sales or from three and a half to five dollars a thousand to take our lumber from the whart or cars and get it back into cash again. Where and how this money is expended in our operating expenses and general charges is not got at with sufficient detail and accuracy. I believe we should formulate our general system of accounts, separating the general and overhead expense from the direct expense. Let the general expense account include such items as general supervision, rent, insurance and interest; let direct operating expense be subdivided into perhaps some such general heads as purchasing and receiving expense and selling and delivering expense, allowing the lumber in the pile to be the dividing line between these two classifications. In other words, charge under the head of purchasing and receiving expense all the outlay entailed in buying our lumber and getting it into the pile. And under the head of selling and delivering expense charge our outgoing cartage, stable expenses, outside salesmens' salaries and expenses, and all those hundred and one items that go into the selling and delivering of lumber. Then I would suggest that we go further and begin our fiscal year either the first of April or the first of May, and at the end of six months take an inventory and balance our books, and then again at the end of six months do likewise. By keeping a record of the number of feet we receive and also the number of feet that we sell we can readily divide the expense of doing our business by these totals, and obtain the cost that the general expenses bear per thousand to the whole business; and also the cost per thousand of purchasing and receiving and the cost per thousand of selling and delivering. Such a classification and handling of accounts I think would work out results that would be anything but an agreeable surprise to the yard dealer."

Wrecker a Misnomer.

"I think that the name of our business is a misnomer at times," said Mr. John Rheinfrank, president of the Rheinfrank House Wrecking Company, 620 East 14th st, the other day. A representative of the Record and Guide had been escorted over the large storage space used by the company adjoining their office in 14th st, and the appearance of the place justified Mr. Rheinfrank in his statement. Almost everything required for the construction of a business building, dwelling or church was stored there. "When a wrecking company undertakes a contract now to demolish a structure it pays for the privilege, getting its money back in the disposal of those parts of the building which can be used over again. Fine mantels, exquisite old marble, handsome plumbing fixtures, colonial doors and woodwork, antique decorative works, ornaments from church interiors, costly glazed windows and so on almost ad infinitum are found stored away until the time when an artist, owner or contractor comes along and finds use for such things.

"The wrecker saves much of what he removes. In this respect he is the very opposite of a wrecker," said Mr. Rheinfrank, "and I sometimes wish that this were indicated in the name of the business. There are things secured from buildings that cannot be replaced for money. We destroy only what is useless, what cannot be put to any further use in the construction or decoration of buildings."

GOOD YEAR EXPECTED.—"We are closing up quite a number of small contracts," remarked Mr. Chas. A. Heil, of the Stanley Hoisting Company, 620-630 West 25th st, "and we expect that these will be followed very soon by big ones. The big ones will depend upon the amount of large undertakings to be put on the market this year, and from present indications it looks as if the number of these will be more than expected last winter when the industrial depression was at high water mark."

Mr. Heil states that there is very little activity in Baltimore at present, and that there could be more construction work in Washington than reported. His company had its share in the rebuilding of the "burnt district" of Baltimore after the great fire several years ago, so many contracts being signed that Mr. Heil was in that city most of the time for many months after the conflagration.

Chas. M. Straub, architect, has removed from 122 Bowery to his new offices southeast corner 4th av and 14th st.

Interlocking Tiling for Railroad Cars.

The tiling department of the New York Belting and Packing Company, 91 and 93 Chambers st, has received an order from the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad to place the interlocking tiling in nine more of the new cars put into operation on that railroad. This tiling is in use in a large number of the cars of the same road.

This order recalls the fact that practically all of the big trunk lines in the country have decided in favor of the interlocking rubber tiling for the aisles of their better cars, and for the entire floor of the dining and club cars. After a thorough test extending over many years this kind of covering for public and semi-public corridors and social rooms has proved its durability, and its use is rapidly increasing. The same rubber tiling, supplied by the New York Belting and Packing Company, has been in service on one of the ferry-boats between Manhattan and Jersey for nine years. It is still as serviceable as ever, although the design does not stand out so clear as when it was first laid. By interlocking the little units of this rubber tiling the entire borough of Manhattan could be covered as if by a single piece. There are no seams, the joints of the interlocking parts disappearing.

One of the best effects ever produced in an office building with this kind of flooring is that to be seen in the new offices of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company on Broadway. The appearance of the tiling is in accord with the magnificent interior designed and executed for the company.

Japanese Quick to Imitate.

"The Japanese are quick to imitate," said Mr. John C. Upton, secretary of the New York Metal Ceiling Company, 539 West 24th st, in speaking about foreign trade. "We shipped some goods to Japan before the war with Russia and it is hard to say whether they were used in the construction of buildings or for samples to be imitated. From reports I have heard they do not need to have models in many cases, so quick are they to pick out the important points involved and copy the design or method. Apparently the struggle with Russia affected business conditions in the country, as we are not receiving so many orders from that part of the world."

Mr. Upton said that foreign trade was not so good at present, but that he expected it would pick up with the opening of summer.

"Domestic business could be better. The installation of metal work in public schools, especially when they are being repaired, is increasing. There is some relationship between disastrous fires in buildings where people are congregated and the decision to use metal ceilings or other material for protection against fires, but the effect on business after such conflagrations is not felt for some time."

—The Vapor Heating Company, of Philadelphia, which has moved to 503-507 North American Building, of that city, has issued a booklet illustrative of the Broomell Vapor System. The publication is exhaustive on the subject and is worth reading. There are many new things on vapor heating not so generally known as they should be, and the information given by the Vapor Heating Company is a guide in this respect. The New York office is at 1123 Broadway.

PRICES CURRENT

BRICK.—Prices are unsettled and quotations nominal. Most of the Hudson River building brick now being disposed of in this market bring $5.25 to $5.75 for Hards. Occasionally a load of common Hards brings the latter figure, but most of the sales are at $5.25. Any price under this would not represent what is termed in the trade good brick, and any price over $5.75 would indicate a selected cargo. Occasional sales of selected stock are made at $6.00. Light Hards are quoted at $4.00, and sales of mixed cargoes are occasionally taken at $4.75@$5.00.

Last week 47 barge loads of Hudson Rivers were distributed, and 37 for the week ending April 11. The average is about fifty per cent of normal business.

The members of the Hudson River Brick Manufacturers' Association met at Newburgh on Thursday afternoon. The matter of towing rates was discussed; also the advisability of aiding a new line. Whatever is done will not be by the association, but by the manufacturers in their individual capacity. A plan for extending the service of the Shamrock Towing Line was presented at the meeting. As has been announced in the river papers, the Cornell Steamboat Co., which does the bulk of the towing of the Hudson River, recently raised its rates. As the brickmakers are materially affected by the advance in rates, they began to talk up an opposition towing line.

CEMENT.—Business from the suburbs for domestic cements shows a little improvement, but Manhattan work continues dull, but with good prospects for the immediate future. Manufacturers report better business in other sections of the country than in the metropolitan district, and very nearly a full revival from the panic. This business has put all the mills at work, though, of course, by no means at their full capacity. Quotations are unchanged in this market.

IRON, STEEL, ETC.—A large amount of structural steelwork is projected, both here in New York and throughout the country, and new projects are coming forward in plans filed. When this work begins to come out with regularity there ought to be a fair amount of work. Railroads are increasing their purchases of structural material for bridges. Among the work to come out presently is a large tonnage for the Staten Island ferry terminal, for which bids will be received on May 7. The Pennsylvania Steel Company has taken this week two contracts for railroad bridges in New Jersey.

A tide of improvement is setting in at the mills, especially those in the Pittsburgh district. Official pig-iron quotations may or not be a joke, but there is no question that those on structural material have been well maintained by the large interests. Small fabricators, however, make sacrifices, but there is no organized effort being made to pull the prices of shapes down.

The Iron Age says that on a recent Brooklyn contract for a manufacturing plant for which cast iron columns are to be used, the fabricating work being of a simple character, a price of $42 is said to have been made. The general foundry business continues weak. A large requirement in tinplate of all grades is reported. Black plates are not moving slowly, but there is a fair business in galvanized sheets.

A member of the firm of P. Delany & Co., manufacturers of steam boilers and tanks, remarked this week that he found large apartment house work still continuing slow. Though the number of plans filed was increasing and money gradually loosening up, actual results had not yet begun to show in his line.

Builders' hardware has been in a condition corresponding to the inactivity of the building trades, but within a fortnight there has been an improvement noticeable in some hardware stores, attributable to the revival in suburban building, where most of the trade is coming from at present.

LIME.—Since the re-opening of a number of banks which were closed in Brooklyn, building activities are more numerous in that borough. In fact, the lime trade is better in all the boroughs. Quotations on standard brands continue unchanged.

"I think that we will have a good fall," said Mr. Orin F. Perry, manager of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Company, Fuller Bldg., the other day. "Business dropped back somewhat as a result of the general industrial depression, but it is picking up now. We are looking forward to a more active summer and bright conditions in the fall."

Mr. Perry's statement is echoed by many contractors and supply dealers. Those who do business on a more or less small scale report more optimistically about the present, but the big contractors and dealers, such as the Rockland-Rockport Company, give a reliable gauge of every branch in building circles as the character of structures in the erection of which they participate usually indicate prosperity and confidence.

LUMBER.—In the suburbs carpenter work is clearly multiplying, with a corresponding improvement at the retail yards.

Secretary Daniel Featherstone of the Manhattan District Council of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, said this week that carpenter work, so far as Manhattan borough was concerned, is picking up, and that Manhattan was the dullest spot in the district. In the outskirts business was looming up very well, but Brooklyn was not quite what it ought to be. Some Manhattan carpenters were finding work in the suburbs.

Secretary Featherstone estimated that in Queens and Richmond carpenters and joiners are all at work, in the Bronx 10% are idle, in Brooklyn 15% and in Manhattan 25%.

In midwinter Mr. Featherstone estimated for the Record and Guide that the percentage of employment in his trade for the whole city was but 50%.

Statistics given out this week from Albany regarding selected trade unions, in various lines, state that practically one out of every three union men in this State was idle at the close of 1907. In New York city the percentage was 34.2, as compared with 32.7 for the rest of the State.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford officials have, since the first of the month, been paying 5 cents less for railroad ties. They now pay 50 cents for No. 1 grade and 30 for No. 2 grade.

Considerable concessions continue to be made in the general market in the matter of prices on various lines. There is an element of forced liquidation, and there is an element that will not give way. On well manufactured stock in hardwoods there is still firmness in prices, and when a builder gets concessions it is very likely to be on something that fits the price. This is more particularly true of hardwoods than of some other lines.

The market on high-grade stock on yellow pine, North Carolina and hemlock is suffering much less from keen competition than the low grades.

The quotations given in this list are the wholesale prices to the retail trade on well manufactured and graded stock, according to the inspection rules at present obtaining. It is not practicable to give a line of retail quntations thoroughly reliable, because terms of sale and other factors influence prices.

STONE.—The Woodbury Granite Company has obtained the contract for the stone work of the West Side Market house, Cleveland, O. The granite will come from the company's pink quarry on the Maine coast. It is to be polished and to do this work additional polishing facilities will be added to the large plant. The pink stone is to be shipped from Maine and finished at Hardwick. It will be a quarter of a million job with about $150,000 for the granite work. The company also has the contract for the base, approaches and steps of a postoffice to be erected at York, Neb. Another job that will come from the Woodbury quarries this season is the Cummer-Diggins office building at Cadillac, Mich. The base of this building will be in polished granite.

A report that the superintendent of the quarry of the Benvenue Granite Company had been instructed to dismantle the plant at Maromas, Conn., was affirmed by Mr. Smith at the New York office of the company, 41 Park row. The equipment is to be removed to Maine, where the company operates a large quarry. Much of the work for some time at the quarry had been trimming granite shipped there in the rough state from the Maine quarry. At one time over 200 men were employed in Maromas.

Medina sandstone is to be used to a considerable extent for paving and curbing in Bay Ridge and Flatbush. In every case where blue stone, cement or sandstone was mentioned as a possible material for curbing, Medina sandstone was selected. It was also selected for the paving. Following are the streets for which improvements were voted: 74th st, 58th st, 44th st, 63d st, 54th st, Bridge st, Concord st, Tillary st, Duffield st, Chapel st.

Mr. Johnson, of the E. J. Johnson Company, slate manufacturers, 38 Park Row, returned this week from a brief visit to several out-of-town points. He found business picking up a little, although there is much room for improvement.

"A large portion of the work in progress now seems to be municipal contracts or construction for public enterprises," said Mr. Johnson, when seen after his return. "As a result business in slate blackboards is better than it is in other kinds of slate, such as roofing. We are doing a lot of estimating, and this ought to develop into construction activity. The demand for our product is increasing appreciably, and we are looking forward to a brisk summer and fall."

The installation of slate blackboards is increasing in all kinds of schools. Its permanency and fine quality as against some compositions are being recognized more and more. Even school children notice the difference in blackboards, preferring to write on those which do not crack.

Fire Curtain Was Effective.

At a weekly meeting of the London County Council the Theatres Committee made the following statement: "We have to report that the stage portion of Drury Lane Theatre, with the exception of the enclosing walls, was almost wholly destroyed by fire in the early morning of March 25th, 1908. The fire brigade was notified of the fire by telephone at 4.27 a. m. The fire curtain, which is composed of two sheets of asbestos cloth on an iron frame, but is not packed with slag-wool or silicate cotton, as is the case with the curtains at new theatres, was down when the firemen arrived at the theatre, and although it buckled slightly with the draught from the auditorium, it enabled the brigade to restrict the fire to the stage portion.

"The armored doors in the theatre also withstood the fire satisfactorily, but the solid iron doors buckled.

"We have since visited the theatre, and we were greatly impressed by the clearness with which the result of the fire demonstrates the value of some of the principal precautions against the spread of fire insisted upon by the Council in places of public entertainment."

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Palmer & Hornbostel Win Contest.

Announcement is made that the first prize for the best general plan for the group of buildings, that the Western University of Pennsylvania proposes to erect on the site recently purchased in the Schenley Farms district, has been won by Messrs. Palmer & Hornbostel, of No. 63 William st, Manhattan, and Pittsburgh. The actual prize given to Palmer & Hornbostel is the contract for drawing plans for the first individual building of the group, that for the School of Mines, which will be erected at a cost of $175,000. There will be thirty buildings in all and they will be arranged in five secondary groups or divisions, namely, Mining and Engineering, College, Professional, Dormitory and Library, and Museum. The main entrance to the grounds will be at Bayard st and Grant boulevard. It is proposed to start work this year on the first of the mining and engineering buildings. It will be three stories, accommodate 300, containing 5,000 sq. ft. of area, and is to be ready for occupancy by Jan. 1, 1909. The cost of the whole group of thirty buildings completed, according to rough estimates, approximates between $8,000,000 and $25,000,000, according to the materials and decorations used. Messrs. Jansen & Abbott, of Pittsburgh, won second place, and the Allegheny county prize of $1,000. Third place and $1,000 prize money were awarded to Allison & Allison of Pittsburgh. Other winners are: Fourth, Lord & Hewlett, Manhattan, $1,000; fifth, Whitfield & King, Manhattan, $1,000; sixth, Belquist & Lee, of Pittsburgh; seventh, Haight & Githens, of Manhattan; eighth, Heacock & Hokasan, of Philadelphia; ninth, George B. Post & Sons, Manhattan, $1,000 invitation fee; tenth, Ripley, Russell & White, Boston. The committee which made the awards was composed of George H. Clapp, chairman; Dr. John A. Brashear, Benjamin Thaw, W. L. Scaife, T. H. B. McKnight, J. B. Eisaman, A. J. Kelly, Jr., S. B. McCormick and S. B. Linhart, secretary. Prof. Warren P. Laird, of the University of Pennsylvania, acted as advisor. Messrs. Palmer & Hornbostel also recently designed the Carnegie Technical Schools and the proposed Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Home.

BUILDING NOTES.

Cash is "pouring into the banks." Get ready to catch some of the overflow.

The E. A. Carpenter Const. Co. will remove in a few days from 299 Broadway to 103 Park av, corner 41st st, Terminal Building.

Mr. J. J. Murphy, president of the Murphy Const. Co., has returned from his trip to Virginia, having entirely recovered from his recent illness.

John T. Williams & Son, manufacturers of barytes, barium and zinc products, have changed their sales office from 27 William st. to 114-118 Liberty st.

The two labor organizations in the marble industry have agreed to submit their differences to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor for arbitration.

A public hearing will be held by the Building Code Revision Committee on Sky and Electric Signs in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall, Wednesday, April 29, at 2 p. m.

Forty millions more for the Pennsylvania to spend on improvements. That will put a lot of mechanics at work. The money comes easy, too. Must be getting plentiful again.

Cash continues to accumulate in this market, notwithstanding the exportation of gold to Europe. Time money rates are at the lowest point in a year. High grade commercial paper is being discounted at 4 to 4½ per cent.

The National Elevator Company has moved its offices from 400 West 23d st to 24 Stone st. It was desired to have the offices in a more central location and more room was needed to handle the increasing business of the company.

The John P. Kane Company, on account of the large increase in its business, has been obliged to move to larger quarters. They have been located at 4th av and 22d st for the past 15 years, but are now on the 8th floor of the Terminal Building, Park av and 41st st.

An announcement that should be of interest to contractors who have occasion to use clean steam cinders in quantity has just been issued by the Starr Co., 302 Broadway, to the effect that they have entered into a contract for the entire output of the Brooklyn Edison Co.

May 1st the Fleischman Bros. Co., consisting of Gustave J. and Leon Fleischman, will take over the construction work of the Fleischman Realty & Construction Co., 170 Broadway, which will discontinue active building. Fleischman Bros. Co. will be located in their new building, No. 507 5th av.

The New York State Civil Service Commission, Albany, will hold examinations on May 9 for the following positions: Assistant civil engineer, $5 to $6 a day; bridge designer, $1,500 to $2,100; bridge draughtsman, $1,200 to $1,500; leveler, $4.50 to $5 a day; mechanical draughtsman, $900 to $1,500.

The store at No. 1135 Broadway, for the decorations of which the Havana Cigar Co. paid upwards of $50,000, is about to be abandoned. The store, it is rumored, never paid expenses, and is now to be converted into a tailoring establishment for Stewart & Co., successors to Sharpe & Co., at present in 5th av Hotel building, who will take possession about June 1.

Much of the success of the International Employing Plasterers' Association, whose headquarters are at 74 West 126th st, is due to an efficient Business Agent. His business is to negotiate settlements for the employing plasterers with builders in matters where misunderstandings arise. John F. Niebuhr is the business agent for the association. Mr. Niebuhr started in life as a law clerk, but changed his mind later and learned the plastering trade with Michael McCormack. Eight years ago he began business as a contracting plasterer. Mr. Niebuhr is a director in the Builders' League of New York and was re-elected to the office of business agent of the International Employing Plasterers' Association at their meeting on Jan. 8. He is a charter member of this organization and since its inception has been one of the hardest and most earnest workers in its ranks.

—Delay in the work on the Academy of Music in Brooklyn has prevented Salagona & Co., 306 West 13th st, from starting on the marble mosaic work, for which this concern has the contract.

—A catalogue has just been issued by Warren Webster & Co., of Camden, N. J., to describe the Webster system of steam circulation for heating purposes. The information given and the profuse illustrations are both interesting and valuable to those to whom this subject appeals. The advantages of the Webster system are treated from several standpoints, including economy, simplicity, control and noiseless operation. A catalogue can be had for the asking.

PROJECTED BUILDINGS

The first name is that of the ow'r; ar't stands for architect; m'n for mason, c'r for carpenter, and b'r, for builder.
When character of roof is not mentioned, it is to be understood that the roof is to be of tin.

THE WEEK.

The volume of business reported showed a slight falling off, though there were a number of interesting sales put through. On the whole, brokers are somewhat encouraged. The mortgage market is in better shape than it has been for a long time. The sales reported show a demand for Manhattan and Bronx realty by the investing public. For the past month or so the speculative element has been prominent. Smaller holdings are now in demand, which is always a good sign. Brokers would rather sell ten small parcels to ten different men, than one piece which aggregated the same amount. The sales were quite evenly distributed. All sections of the city came in for their share of transfers.

In the Fifth av section, James B. Clews, a nephew of Henry Clews, bought from the New York and Harlem Railroad Co. the northeast corner of Fifth av and 85th st, 25x100. This was formerly part of the old car barn site. The 6-sty elevator apartment house, Nos. 2 and 4 St. Nicholas pl, 74.11x100, known as "Audubon Court," also changed hands. The new owner is Henry J. Lange. This house is admirably located at the junction of this street and St. Nicholas av. There is a triangular park in front of the building, which adds greatly to its value. Permanent air and light is assured. The 6-sty elevator apartment house, 3485 and 3487 Broadway, 50x100, was sold to an investor by the Cabot Real Estate Co.

The northeast corner of Rivington and Suffolk sts, known as 146 Rivington st, 34x75, also figured in a deal, together with the adjoining houses, 119 to 123 Suffolk st. The two 4-sty stables, Nos. 320 and 322 West 16th st were disposed of to Charles de Casanova. These buildings are on a plot 37.6x40x irregular. A sale of some importance was consummated in the Bronx. The Sykes Realty Corporation bought the northwest corner of Prospect av and 160th st. It is reported that the property brought close to $80,000. The size of the parcel is 77x148 on the street. This price establishes a new record price for this section of the Bronx.

Among the mortgages recorded was one of $49,000, due date and rate as per bond, affecting the property 127 and 129 West 125th st. This plot was sold recently by the New York Operating Co., P. H. Lynch, president, to John D. Beals, who resold it to the Robert Reid Co. The property is subject to two mortgages aggregating $126,000. Another mortgage recorded during the week was one for $60,000 at five per cent due April 1, 1913, on the property 257 6th av. This house is on the west side of the avenue, about 46 feet north of 16th st. The United States Trust Co. of New York was the lender and Charles J. Smith the borrower. Joseph Wittner secured from Charles Laue a building loan of $100,000 on the property at the northeast corner of Eighth av and 21st st. This mortgage is due April 11, 1911, and bears interest at the rate of 6 per cent. J. H. Davis borrowed from the Realty Mortgage Co. $210,000 for one year at 6 per cent on the property on the north side of 143d st, 100 feet east of Broadway. This was a building loan.

The market all told is in a healthy condition. Certain people who bought property in the outlying sections, and paid the asking price, many times without even taking the trouble to look at what they were purchasing, are still the owners of record. These are the people who are loudest in their denunciation of the realty market. When closely questioned, however, in most cases, they are willing to admit that they did not use ordinary business judgment. Many people who had never owned real property suddenly became active operators. In the majority of instances they did not know even the rudiments of the business. They cannot get rid of their holdings, because the price paid was out of all proportion to its worth.

Many professional speculators have disposed of some of their realty by means of a trade. Trading is a dangerous thing, unless one is familiar with every detail of the real estate business. There is an old saying that in a trade one of the parties gets the worst of it. While this is not always true, still in the main it holds good. The builder is really the legitimate man to deal in exchange. He can sell a finished building to an investor and take in part payment some lots with the intention of improving them with a suitable structure, but the uninitiated nearly always get the wost of the bargain. Most brokers believe that by fall confidence will be entirely restored.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The auction market is still in an unsettled state. There has been but little improvement shown lately. It is in better condition than some months ago, but still the forced sales are as a general thing knocked down to the plaintiff in the action.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day the southwest corner of Hamilton pl and 144th st, a 6-sty apartment house, was to have been sold, together with the northwest corner of 143d st, but was withdrawn. These properties were put up for sale at auction early last January and were knocked down to the Realty Transfer Co., the plaintiff in the action, for $821,510. The former property was reported sold to a Mr. Schwartz on April 11. All told there were thirty-one parcels advertised for sale. Of these seven were sold, three were bought by party in interest, four were withdrawn, six were adjourned, seven to the plaintiffs in the various actions, two bid in and two knocked down.

A year ago a notable sale was held at this time. It was the sale of 891 lots belonging to the Ogden estate. The total amount obtained was $1,670,675. The average price per lot disposed of was $1,873. It was commented on at the time that comparatively few parcels went to speculators. In the main investors were the bidders. The sale was considered a great success. Should a sale of this character be advertised today, what would the result be? It is not a pleasant thought. Suffice it to say that none is scheduled.

There will be offered next week several properties at voluntary sale. A 15-year lease of the 5-sty business building 262 Fifth av is going to be offered to the highest bidder. The lease calls for the payment of $9,000 per annum, taxes, water rents and insurance. The 4-sty and basement dwelling 206 Lenox av will also be put up for sale.

LAW DEPARTMENT

DECLINED TO TAKE TITLE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A recent decision by a city court judge in a suit for commission will be of interest to brokers. The facts are as follows:

The properties involved in the case were two adjoining dwellings in West 13th st belonging to two estates closely related. The broker had proper written authority from the trustee who represented both estates. During negotiations, which spread over about a fortnight, the property was treated as one, the expressed purpose of the intending buyers being to improve the plot. The price and the terms of sale were finally agreed upon by the trustee and by the intending buyers. In drawing the contract the attorney for the seller discovered that, although the houses were two of a row and were divided by a party wall, the distance from a common monument in the two descriptions made an apparent gap of two inches between the two houses.

This was due, obviously, to an error in a former deed, which could be (and in fact has since been) corrected. The intending buyers, however, required that the contract stipulate that the two properties were contiguous. This was done. It was further stipulated in the contract that if on this or other ground the title should prove unmarketable the contract should be void, and the first payment thereunder, together with a stated sum to cover the cost of search, should be paid by the vendor to the vendees.

Contracts were signed and exchanged. The search by the title company revealed first, that a corrective deed would be required before the contiguity of the properties would be guaranteed; second, that there was a restriction against building on the front eight feet of the lot. On these grounds the intending buyers declined to take title, and the payments made under the contract and the stated sums agreed upon were paid to them.

The trustee declined to pay the brokerage, on the ground that there had been no sale, his contention being that the agreement signed was in effect an option which the other parties might or might not take up. The broker's contention was that the agreement was a contract; that he, having had proper authority from the trustee for offering the property for sale, had found the buyer; that he had brought about an agreement between the trustee and the buyers as to the price and the terms of sale, and that the intending buyers were ready and able to carry out this agreement; that the subsequent discovery of the defect due to incorrect former deed, although it was made before the contract was executed, and the revelation by the search of the restriction as to building above mentioned, in no way affected the fact that an agreement to sell on the part of the trustee, and to buy on the part of the intending buyers, had been brought about by the broker, and that he was, therefore, entitled to the regular commission.

The decision was rendered in favor of the trustee, the defendant in the action.

Without any intention of reflecting upon the legal acumen of the eminent justice who rendered the decision, the writer, and, he believes, other brokers also, would be interested in your views on the subject. D.

There are a good many details in the foregoing statement of one of those frequent and confusing differences that are constantly arising between owners and brokers, respecting the right to a commission on a sale that fails.

Many of these details lead to an impulsive decision at first hearing in favor of the brokers, as that it was understood by all concerned that the properties were to be contiguous—in all respects one plot with no gap anywhere between.

But there is nothing in the statement as respects the employment of the broker which makes such a fact, or presumed fact, any part of the selling details given to the broker. The fact that all parties so understood, and that two separate estates were thereby bound, seems to be negatived by the decision of the Court, and in this we are inclined to concur; but for the above reason and not on the defendant's theory of the sale being a mere option.

When we come, however, to deal with a restriction of the front eight feet of each lot, the case stands on the usual law as to commissions, "that if title fails on the part of the seller the broker is entitled to his commission, unless that defect had been disclosed to him in the representations of his employment." —Ed.

GARAGES NOT A NUISANCE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Can you tell me in what number of your publication there appeared a decision in a real estate case, where a party erected a small 1-sty building (to house an automobile) on rented property in rear of house tenanted by him, and owner or landlord objected, as well as one other property owner adjoining, claiming that the private auto garage was a nuisance. I am told there are several such cases that have been heard in court, and that the tendency has been to favor the automobile owner. One of these decisions at least, I am told, you printed in your paper.

ANSWER.—We do not recall the case supposed to have been so cited in a previous issue. There is a case on the subject generally (Stein v. Lyon, 91 App. Div., 593) holding that the construction and maintenance of an automobile station or garage in a neighborhood occupied by expensive residences does not constitute a common law nuisance.—Editor.

REAL ESTATE FIRM INCORPORATES.—The firm of Gardner & Co. has been incorporated, with offices at 1531 Broadway. They will conduct a general real estate business on Long Island, in Manhattan, Brooklyn and New Jersey. They will buy, sell and develop tracts and will form syndicates to carry on large improvement operations. Frank J. Gardner is the president; Frederick J. Quniby, vice-president and general manager of the wholesale department; J. Walter Bitting, former manager for the McVicker, Gaillard Realty Co., treasurer and general manager of the retail department. A Western syndicate of capitalists bought from this company a tract comprising 1,700 acres of land at Stanhope, N. J. This property extends from Lake Hopatcong to Budd's Lake, and has large frontages on both these bodies of water. A summer residence colony will be formed and the property improved under the supervision of Gardner & Co., who will also act as general sales agents.

WHEN BUYING REAL ESTATE.

THE WISDOM OF EMPLOYING COMPETENT COUNSEL.

The same papers are usually employed in buying as are used in selling a piece of real estate, viz., the contract of sale, the deed covering the premises in question, and in most instances one or more sets of purchase money bonds and mortgages. In every case the title of the seller should be examined by the attorney for the purchaser. Each of the above will be considered in their natural order.

BEFORE THE CONTRACT OF SALE.

In the first place, before entering into a contract to purchase a piece of real estate, the buyer should ascertain by actual survey the exact dimensions of the property he is about to buy, in order that the contract and deed may contain a description of all the property intended by the purchaser to be included in the transfer.

As an illustration of the result of a failure to do this, I have in mind a piece of property in Orange, N. J., where there was included in the contract and deed but fifty feet of a sixty-foot plot. After the transfer had taken place and the seller had refused to buy the other ten feet, which, of course, he supposed he had originally purchased, the original owner fenced off that ten feet, and it has been allowed to remain in a neglected condition for fifty years.

The purchaser should also ascertain before entering into the contract how the intended grantor acquired title to the premises, since if he acquired it within three years by will, or as an heir, in a case where there was no will and three years have not expired from the time when letters of administration were granted, it would be practically impossible for the purchaser to obtain a loan upon the premises or to sell the same until the aforesaid periods had expired, in as much as lawyers generally consider such a title to be unmarketable. Nevertheless, despite these facts the purchaser, once having executed a contract to buy the premises, could be compelled to take them in an action for specific performance.

CONTRACT OF SALE.

As I stated in the former article, the contract for the purchase and sale of real estate is equally as important as the deed by which the property is actually conveyed. This is true from the standpoint of the purchaser as well as from the standpoint of the seller. The description of the property; the covenants of warranty; the exceptions to the title; the terms of payment of the bond and mortgage are all absolutely determined by the contract.

It will thus be seen how important it is that the contract be prepared by some one familiar with the laws of the State in which the property is situated, and having the interests of the purchaser in view all of the time. The description as stated above should cover all of the property which the buyer intends to purchase, and should consist of as full a description of the premises as possible, being particular to give the street and the properties of abutting owners as boundaries.

Following the description should be inserted a list of the only encumbrances subject to which the property is to be taken. If mortgages, they should never be assumed by the purchaser where he can possibly avoid it; if restrictions, they should be fully set out in the contract; if taxes, the years and amounts should be given. If title is to pass shortly before the taxes for the current year become a lien, it is frequently possible where the request is made at the time of signing the contract to have the seller pay his proportionate share of the taxes, and the saving thus effected will frequently more than pay for the charges of the attorney for services rendered in connection with the entire transfer. Referring again to the mortgages which are liens against the premises, the purchaser should ascertain before entering into the contract when they become due and, if in the near future, he should require the seller to obtain extensions of the same at the same rate of interest for a reasonable time; otherwise the buyer may find himself compelled to obtain new mortgage loans, the seller's assurances that he could renew the old mortgages to the contrary notwithstanding.

If the property is to be taken subject to restrictions, the buyer should also familiarize himself with these before signing the contract, since he may find that he will not be allowed to use the premises for the very purposes for which he is buying them. It is frequently necessary to the culmination of the purchase that the title be satisfactory to the institution or person loaning the money with which the buyer expects to partly pay for the property, and in such a case the contract should contain a clause to the effect that the title must be satisfactory to such attorney or institution.

The clauses to be contained in the contract with reference to the deed and the bonds and the mortgages and the preparation of the same will now be considered under their respective headings.

THE DEED.

Care should be taken to see that the seller agrees to give a full covenant warranty deed, and in cases where another kind of a deed is agreed upon the contract should explicitly state such kind, and the buyer should be aware in every case of the

BROOKLYN RENTALS.

Frequently stocks listed on the New York Exchange that pay large dividends do not sell for a price commensurate with these dividends in comparison to the better known stocks, but after a while the public learn of these steady dividends and the stock commences to have friends, and the price steadily rises until it takes its place among the old reliable line of securities and becomes eminently respectable and a conservative investment. Flats and tenements in Brooklyn, erected on a given price for a lot, rent for more money than similar flats and tenements erected on a lot in New York, that cost more than two or three times as much.

VENNETTE F. PELLETREAU.

The investor is slowly but surely appreciating this state of facts, and the small merchant, who has from three to eight thousand dollars saved up, is buying the property in Brooklyn, in preference to the 5-sty flats sold heretofore in Manhattan, to this character of people.

The drawback to the property in Brooklyn is the transit facilities. Brooklyn as a home city has many more attractions than Manhattan has to offer. There is nothing in this borough of the "hoi polloi"; nothing of the Times Sq. district; nothing of the "nouveau riche."

Several times adventurous citizens have been bold enough to erect theatres and to fit up clever restaurants in Brooklyn, but they have been failures. This borough is essentially a City of Homes, excellent schools, excellent churches, excellent parks and drives and every other attribute of health for the welfare of conservative citizens, and above all is the cleanness and purity of the social life in Brooklyn, the more distinctly emphasized with the borough's juxtaposition to Manhattan, and just as surely as the transit is given to Brooklyn, just so surely will the value of flat and tenement investments rise to the same level as Manhattan.

But a little while ago Harlem was looked upon as the last place ever made and one that was never finished, but to-day Harlem is scarcely heard of, as it is entirely swallowed up in Greater New York, and the stigma of Harlem is erased. Brooklyn, Williamsburgh, East New York, Flatbush, Brownsville and all the other smaller and local centres of this borough will be forgotten in a few years and all be rightly termed the City of New York, "the best possible place to invest," and the people will not ask whether it is the Bronx, Harlem, Queens, Flatbush, Richmond, Brooklyn, or Manhattan, but will seek the best return on their investments and will buy accordingly; and the sentimentality of owning a piece of New York real estate will extend to embrace all these boroughs, and there will be no distinction as to what originally was the town or village that eventually was merged into the contiguous whole of New York, which is the fact to-day existing in the city of London, which is the amalgamation of thirty-three small towns and hamlets.

When this equalization of values comes to pass it would seem to me that it will be a matter of wonder that this condition was permitted to exist as long as it has, without the present real estate buyer taking advantage of it.

Such a condition will not long continue. Some of the wise operators in New York are purchasing holdings in Brooklyn. It is idle to dwell upon the well-known rise in East New York, particularly the locality known as Brownsville—that sounds like an Oriental fable. Lots that four years ago were used for cultivation of corn and potatoes are now selling for from five to twelve thousand dollars a piece, and why? It is because the Hebrews, the shrewdest and ablest people in handling real estate, appreciated that they could get more for their dollar in this location, with its comparative nearness to the centre of New York, than the purchasing power of that dollar could buy elsewhere within the same radius. They had no sentimentality, you had to "show them," and therefore they settled where they did, and the rents there to-day are equaling the East Side of Manhattan, per square foot and per room; and the sagacity of this particular race of people has created a staple value in this one spot in Brooklyn which is but the forerunner of what the entire borough will be in point of value in a few years hence, when the tunnels and proper and adequate transit is extended to Brooklyn from Manhattan. When this will be I do not know, but I do know that it will only be when the people of Brooklyn will get together as a whole and not fight among themselves as to where a certain subway will go and subdue the egoism and selfishness in their natures sufficiently to comprehend the fact that every subway and every improvement in transit

MONROE AV.—Martin Goldfarb bought through E. J. Reynolds the southwest cor of Monroe av and 173d st, 95x95.

REAL ESTATE DIRECTORY SUPPLEMENT.

The Supplement of the Real Estate Directory is now being issued to all subscribers of the Real Estate Directory. This is a handsomely bound cloth volume of 150 pages, and contains in geographical and alphabetical order a list of all the property conveyed during the year 1907, with the addresses of the new purchasers, and something like 5,000 changes and corrections of addresses, which have been made since the 1907 Real Estate Directory was issued.

During the year a letter, under a two-cent stamp, was sent to every name in the alphabetical list, and all the undelivered letters were carefully laid aside and a search made for the owners. The correct address was secured in ninety-five per cent of the cases. These new addresses all appear in this Supplement.

The Supplement was issued in compliance with the demand of the subscribers to the Real Estate Directory that the proper time to bring out the Real Estate Directory was at the beginning of the busy season, namely, September 1st. At a considerable additional expense, the Realty Records Co. decided to issue two volumes during the year 1908, without an additional charge to their subscribers.

The Real Estate Directory, the Supplement, and the Checking Index, the last copy of which is furnished free to all new subscribers, bring the record of conveyances down to date.

SPRING RENTING CONDITION.

SATISFACTION EXPRESSED IN OUTLYING DISTRICTS, WHILE IN THE BUSINESS SECTION THERE ARE MANY VACANCIES.

THE moving time in the downtown section is well under way. There are many new buildings open, and they are rapidly being tenanted. There are comparatively few changes in the uptown section. Each year there are less families moving in the spring, until now the fall is the acknowledged time. There are many vacancies in the new skyscrapers, but there is generally a feeling of optimism. As a general thing the amount of tenanted space ranges from 60 to 80 per cent. in this class of structure.

When one considers the great amount of building that was done during the two previous years, it is really remarkable that the percentage of vacancies is so small. To be sure in some instances inducements have been offered, but only on long-term leases. It is a great thing to get a good class of tenants, because they will remain if treated properly.

BUILDINGS WELL RENTED.

Mr. E. T. Platt, treasurer of the United States Express Co., said: "We are well satisfied with the renting condition of our building, No. 2 Rector st. There is fully 85 per cent. of the space taken. We have reserved one entire floor to accommodate any prospective tenant who may desire a large amount of room. The prices obtained by us range from $1.25 to $2.50 per square foot. In some cases we made slight concessions. For example, in several instances we allowed tenants time, rent free, where they had unexpired leases. All the doors and trim in this building are of steel. We do our utmost to please our tenants and do all reasonable repairs promptly and well. Leaving out the location of our building and its advantages of light and air, I attribute our system of dealing with our tenants as the reason of our success."

Mr. K. B. Conger, renting agent of the Hudson and Manhattan Terminal Buildings: "We are about 60 per cent. rented. Times are certainly improving. We have closed more leases during the past fifteen days than we did in the previous forty-five days. We had our building ready for occupancy fifteen days prior to the contract date. We are very proud of this fact. The first tenant, the United States Steel Product Co., started to move in April 9. They occupy an entire floor in the Courtlandt st building. It occupied three days to get them installed. Since then the system that we have put into use to aid the tenants in getting settled has worked admirably."

THINKS CONDITIONS UNSATISFACTORY.

Joel S. De Selding, of De Selding Bros.: "The renting conditions in the downtown office business section have been affected this year by several unusual causes, which have produced results not entirely satisfactory to the owners of buildings.

"The first cause was the general business depression of last fall, and its continued effects are seen in the curtailment of space by firms who have felt the pressure of the hard times.

"Second cause: The over anxiety on the part of owners of some of the new buildings to find tenants at any price, irrespective of their schedule and the real market value. Their inducements have been so great and the canvassing so strenuous that tenants have been allowed to believe that they could name their own price and get the offices.

"The opening of the new tunnels and rapid transit facilities, and general business improvement, will, in time, fill all the buildings that now show vacancies, and we look for a bright future within the next year."

SLIGHT OVERPRODUCTION.

Lewis Phillips, of L. J. Phillips & Co: "Renting in the uptown section is quiet. This is to be expected, as the renting period is in the fall. The downtown business district indicates that there is a slight overproduction at present. The natural increase in demand will, however, in my opinion, fill the vacancies. The owners of new buildings have in several instances offered inducements to prospective tenants. Old leases in a number of cases were assumed. Concessions in rentals were also made. The old buildings which are centrally situated have, however, not been affected. These new buildings are not drafting the occupants from the older structures. This situation has existed before in New York and has righted itself. It will do so again."

HEIGHTS AND BRONX SATISFIED.

Charles Griffith Moses: "Washington Heights renting conditions are very good. There are hardly any private dwellings vacant, and the demand is good. Well built elevator apartment houses well located are renting splendidly. There are few vacancies. This also applies to the '6-sty walk-ups.' The remarkable part of it is that in many cases the top floor rents first. The section in most demand is Broadway, from 135th to 167th sts."

Emil Leitner, of Jacob Leitner & Brother: "The renting in the Bronx is good. I wish that the mortgage condition and the selling market was keeping pace with it. Our vacancies hardly reach five per cent. The houses near the transit stations, say within a radius of five blocks, naturally go first. We are not making as many concessions as we did a few months ago.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

The Schwab Realty Co. will move its offices to 261 Broadway on May 1.

Abram Bachrach announces that he will move his office on April 28 to 64 East 91st st. He has been located for the past five years at 128 Broadway.

S. DeWalltearss, auctioneer and real estate broker, announces that he will remove his office on May 1 to 135 Broadway. He has been located at 171 Broadway for the past 22 years.

The duplex apartment, on the southeast corner of 7th av and 58th st, owned by the Stuyvesant Co-operative Buildings Co., Walter Russell, president, has been purchased by the Alvin Construction Corporation. This property has been in litigation for some time past.

Lohbauer's Park, a resort on the shore of Pelham Bay, well known to thousands of Bronx residents, is to be sold at auction by Joseph P. Day under orders from the owners, the Lohbauer Park Improvement Co. The sale, which will cover 700 lots, will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 19 and 20.

The studio and hotel building on the south side of 77th st, 150 ft. east of Columbus av, which has been in litigation for some time, has changed hands. Walter Russell sold his interest to the West 77th St. Co. Messrs D. Canavan and Lewinson, who are in the iron business, are members of the company. The structure was built from plans of Harde & Short, 3 West 29th st, and was started in the early part of 1906. The approximate cost was $1,000,000.

The partnership heretofore existing between James N. Wells and William J. Wells, having been dissolved by the death of Mr. James N. Wells in February, it is announced that the real estate and insurance business established in 1819 by the grandfather of the late partners and conducted for the past 73 years at the present location, will be continued by the undersigned under a new partnership, retaining the old firm name of James N. Wells' Sons. They are members of the Board of Brokers.

Bryan L. Kennelly, auctioneer, will offer for sale Tuesday, May 12, at 12 o'clock, Exchange Sales Rooms, 14 Vesey st, Manhattan, Oakdale acreage divided in four and five-acre plots. A permanent right-of-way to shore of Great South Bay will be included in sale. The property lies adjacent to Idle Hour, the beautiful estate of W. K. Vanderbilt, and opposite Oakdale depot. Property restricted. Title insurance free; 65 per cent. can remain on mortgage for three years at 4 per cent.

Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, will offer for sale, Tuesday, May 12, at 11 a. m., at the Exchange Sales Rooms, 14-16 Vesey st, Manhattan, by order of the Hunts Point Realty Co., 369 choice Bronx lots, with valuable water front. This property is accessible now. Improvements are there. Only one block east of Southern boulevard and Simpson st subway station. Title policy free and savings bank books accepted; 70 per cent. may remain on bond and mortgage at 5 per cent for one, two or three years. See advertisement elsewhere in to-day's issue for further particulars.

LEGISLATIVE DIGEST.

The Rapid Transit act introduced by Assemblyman Robinson was passed by both houses and now goes to the Governor. Mr. Allan Robinson, president of the Allied Real Estate Interests, said in reference to this bill:

"The passage by the Legislature of Assemblyman Robinson's bill amending the Rapid Transit Act brings nearer to New York the realization of better transit facilities, but the work is not by any means completed. If the Governor signs this bill, as he is expected to do, the way will be open for private capital to come in. This doesn't mean that private capital is sure to bid for subway franchises. It is understood, for instance, that the present traction syndicate is in no position to undertake any new ventures. No other capitalists have as yet intimated their desire to build any new subways. It is possible, of course, that with better financial skies, money can be found to build subways this spring or summer. The public ought not to be surprised, however, if we have to wait a few weeks or months until the effects of the late panic have ceased to be felt.

"The Allied Real Estate Interests took up this work with the idea of securing something more than mere legislation, and it purposes to continue its efforts until in the popular phrase, 'the dirt is flying.' If the effort to sell the subway franchises fails, then the city must undertake the work of construction, and with the added inducements now offered by these new amendments, private capital may surely be found to operate a subway even if it might not be willing to undertake the construction of one."

The Senate, by a vote of 26 to 19, passed the Torrens system of recording real estate transfers, introduced by Senator Greene. The bill, which has already passed the Assembly, now goes to the Governor for his signature. Its adoption was recommended by a Commission appointed by Gov. Hughes last year to investigate and report whether it was practical in this State. The country Senators, as a rule, voted against the bill. Senator Cassidy (Republican) cast the deciding vote.

The New York Central Railroad bill, under which the city authorities could grant a perpetual franchise to the railroad for franchise rights on the streets in the Bronx was killed by a vote of 90 to 36.

Senator McManus had passed out of its order the bill reducing the fare to Coney Island to 5 cents. Senators Agnew, Cassidy, Davis, Dunn, Hinman, McCarren, White and Wilcox voted against the bill. The final vote was 36 to 9. The bill now goes to the Governor for his approval.

REAL ESTATE BROKER APPOINTED RECEIVER.—David H. Hyman, of 313 East 57th st, was appointed receiver of the New York Building Loan and Banking Co. This company went into enforced liquidation in September, 1903. At that time Charles M. Preston was made receiver. On his application Supreme Court Justice Dowling accepted his resignation and appointed Mr. Hyman in his stead. Ill-health is given as the reason for Mr. Preston's resignation.

DEARTH OF 50 PER CENT. MORTGAGES.—Fifty per cent. mortgages on modern, well located brick or stone residences, flats and store buildings, in New York City, are becoming more and more difficult to obtain. They are usually secured by constant advertising and soliciting, and offer the best security for idle funds.

A SATISFYING OPINION.

In a written request of Comptroller Metz to the Corporation Counsel for an opinion respecting certain matters relating to the installation of water meters the writer asked the following question:

"Under what conditions can a property owner be required to install a meter? In other words, what classes of property are exempt from the provisions of the Charter giving the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity authority to install meters?"

Answering this query, Acting Corporation Counsel G. L. Sterling replied that the classes of buildings in which the Commissioner of Water Supply is authorized, in his discretion, to place water meters are thus stated in Section 475, viz.:

"All stores, workshops, hotels, manufactories, office buildings, public edifices, at wharves, ferry houses, stables, and in all places in which water is furnished for business consumption."

Mr. Sterling also affirmed that the Commissioner may also cause in his discretion, water meters to be placed in the following classes of buildings under Section 475, "if authorized thereto by resolution or ordinance of the Board of Aldermen": "All apartment houses, tenements, flat houses and private dwellings."

In qualifying his opinion, Mr. Sterling reasons that it is evident that close questions of fact may arise in many cases as to whether or not a particular building is within one of the classes enumerated in the section mentioned, and that all that can be stated generally is that if any building is not within the classes named, then the Commissioner has no authority to cause a meter to be placed therein, and any charge therefor does not constitute a valid lien.

CLOSING REAL ESTATE LECTURE.

The last lecture of the Real Estate Class of the West Side Branch of the Y. M. C. A. was delivered by Joseph P. Day on Tuesday evening last at the club rooms in West 57th st.

Three different courses have been given. The first one was held on Tuesday nights. There were twenty-five lectures in this course, given by twenty-five different men. The second course consisted of twelve lectures on real estate law. These were held on Monday evenings and were delivered by Henry F. Miller. The third course was a series of twenty-five lectures on the Management of a Real Estate office by Ronald C. Lee. These classes are going to be continued next fall. Mr. Day on last Tuesday night said in part as follows:

"You are to be congratulated upon having had the opportunity of listening to men who are considered as great leaders in different lines of the real estate business. Just think of how much further advanced we are to-day than even five years ago! How is it possible for us to complain of our opportunities of to-day?

"What good does it do us if we know all about realty matters, but do not make use of the opportunity to test our knowledge? The best way to begin business life is to broaden our field of acquaintance as much as is in our power. The larger your circle of friends, the more opportunities will arise to make good use of what you have learned here.

"The broader the mind the better the salesman. Ever remember how much you have been favored with opportunities here for broadening your mind, by listening and getting life experiences from the accepted leaders in every profession of the real estate field."

NEW YORK, October 4th, 1907.

GENTLEMEN: After your supervision of our Brooklyn property for a period of some months we are pleased to note the saving in the consumption of water, sometimes amounting to nearly 50 per cent. Your reports show a thorough and careful supervision, and we feel that the result will pay us many times over for the amount of your charges.

Very truly yours, G. TUOTI & CO.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assesment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) Signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against corporations, etc., will be found at the end of the list.

THERE is one rule which always seems to apply to really important movements in the stock market. They usually take place when the majority of professional speculators least expect them. This is conspicuously the case with the recent advance in prices. It was not predicted in the newspapers; and its possible occurrence was not suggested in the brokers' letters to their customers. Its arrival found the professional brethren with very few stocks on hand, and in the beginning, consequently, they fought the movement. But they were soon obliged to yield; and their lively efforts to get on board had much to do with the rapidity of the advance. Undoubtedly the movement was engineered by a strong party of speculators, who had been waiting their oppportunity for some time; but this party was as limited in numbers as it was shrewd in judgment and powerful in resources. It remains none the less true that the speculative public were, in general, taken by surprise; and such, as we have said, usually seems to be the case. The speculative public acts under the influence of general business conditions. It feels bullish when business is active, and bearish when business is dull. But the course of prices in the stock market leads rather than follows the waves of industrial activity and depression. Over a year ago the stock market was first to feel the effects of an excessive business activity and an overstrained credit system, and stocks fell sharply in price, even though, ostensibly prosperity still prevailed. They fell, of course, precisely at the time when the majority of speculators were loaded up with stocks; and they fell largely because of that fact. Recently they have been rising for the opposite reason. Bad as business is, the effects have been fully discounted in the prices of securities. Their owners had no further reasons to sell them; and anybody who had money to invest had many good reasons for buying them. Money could be invested more advantageously in good securities than it could be in business. Consequently the time came when prices began to advance on a comparatively small amount of buying; and as they advanced the rise was not checked by any large amount of profit-taking. The advance cannot go beyond a certain point without more signs of a business revival; hut, on the whole, it is just as plain an indication that the business revival is coming as the break in stocks over a year ago was a prophecy of business recession.

A PUBLIC HEARING is scheduled on Wednesday next, May 6, at 2 P. M., in the Aldermanic Chamber, which is of vital importance to thousands of people interested in real estate and building. On that date the sub-committee of the Building Code Revision Commission, having in charge the matter of the discretionary power of the Superintendent of Buildings in each borough, invites every one to come and air their views. Few people realize the importance of this provision, for as long as the charter remains as it is the regulations governing this discretion can make or mar New York's new building code. Even if the technical features of the new code are all that could be desired, without changes in the manner of using discretionary power, the way is left open for easy evasion, and the abuses of the past are likely to be continued in the future. The discretionary power is conferred by the charter, in Section 410, and gives the Superintendent of Buildings, with the approval of the President of the Borough, authority to modify any existing law or ordinance relating to the construction, alteration or removal of buildings "where there are practical difficulties in carrying out the strict letter of the law, so that the spirit of the law shall he observed, and public safety secured and strict justice done." We do not understand that architects and builders, as represented by their chapters and associations, object to the discretionary power, but they consider that the method provided for using it is clumsy. The decisions given by the Superintendents are supposed to be matters of public record, but it is not always possible for an applicant to find them. Therefore, at the coming hearing, it will be strongly urged that all the decisions of the superintendents having the effect of modifying the code should be published in the City Record within a week after, and may be cited as precedents in future cases. This was recommended in Section 2 of the code reported by last year's commission, and the architectural profession desires to see this section retained. It would insure to every citizen the fullest amount of information as to previous rulings and interpretations, and secure equal justice for all.

THE announcement that a new theatre is to be built in Thirty-ninth street, just west of Sixth avenue, comes as something of a surprise. For over ten years all the new theatres have been situated in Forty-second street or north thereof; and it has been generally considered that the district south of Forty-second street was no longer available for an enterprise of this kind. Even before the Subway was opened for traffic the streets south of Forty-second street had been abandoned as sites for theatres; and the Subway, which carries so many of the passengers to and from the places of amusement, has inevitably worked in favor of Times Square and the streets north of it. The fact that the route of the Subway turned at Forty-second street made the streets to the south of Forty-second street less accessible than the streets immediately to the north. Just why the prevailing tendency in the favor of Times Square as the centre of the theatre district has been ignored in the present instance, we do not know; but certainly some very good reasons can be urged in favor of a revival of the district south of Forty-second street as a possible location for new theatres. There can be no doubt that the completion of the terminal improvements south of Thirty-fourth street will be of the greatest benefit to all places of amusement in their immediate vicinity. The trolley, the Pennsylvania and the Long Island tunnels will enable thousands of people, who now find it very difficult to reach theatres in Manhattan to attend afternoon or evening performances in that borough. There should consequently be a large increase of business from these sources as soon as the new tunnels are in full operation; but this business will naturally attach itself to the neighborhood of the tunnel terminals. People who come in from New Jersey or Long Island to the theatre will still he separated from their homes by tolerably long journeys, and they will wish to avoid much of an additional journey in Manhattan. It may be expected consequently that the northward drift of the amusement centre will during the next few years be checked, and that new theatres, restaurants and hotels will be started south of Forty-second street.

THE completion of the new tunnels will in this respect introduce a wholly novel condition in the development of Manhattan real estate. Hitherto the drift of business has been steadily northward along the central ridge of the island; and this drift was, of course, due to the fact that the bulk of the population was also finding their habitations ever farther north. It was the one direction in which the geographical condition of Manhattan permitted free expansion. The most important lines of transit ran north and south and the lack of diagonal thoroughfares impeded the business growth of those streets to the east and west which were off the main stream of traffic. The consequence was that the ever-expanding wholesale trade was constantly pushing the big retail stores and the theatres farther north. After the war, Union Square became the center of the amusement and the shopping district. By 1880 Madison Square had taken its place, and during the last twenty-five years, theatres, restaurants and stores have pushed up well above Forty-second street. If transit conditions had remained the same there seems to be no reason why this process should not have been indefinitely continued, with the result eventually of making Columbus Circle the location of Manhattan's most important places of amusement; but hereafter transit conditions will no longer be the same. While the bulk of the traffic will still travel in a northerly or southerly direction, a stream of traffic scarcely less considerable in volume will set in to the east and the west. This stream of traffic will counteract the hitherto unimpeded expansion of business northwards, towards the Harlem River. It will be more difficult for people living in New Jersey and Long Island to reach locations north of Forty-second street. Shopkeepers and the managers of hotels, restaurants and theatres will find situations near the line of this eastward and westward traffic much to their advantage, and the consequence will be a cessation of the northward trend of business development. Furthermore, in order to find sufficient room for all the business which will have to be transacted near the intersection of these two streams of traffic—that is, at Greeley Square—important business enterprises will necessarily seek locations farther to the east and the west. Fifth and Sixth avenues and Broadway will not be the only thoroughfares adapted to expensive improvements. Fourth and Seventh avenues, and the side streets leading immediately from them, will be increasingly available for large shops, hotels and loft buildings. The business of this part of Manhattan, instead of being distributed along a line will radiate from a centre, and that centre will be, roughly speaking, the intersection of Broadway and Thirty-fourth street.

IF it is true that the business development of the middle district of Manhattan will hereafter radiate from a centre, that fact should have an important effect upon speculative activity during the next few years. There can be little doubt that vigorous speculative buying will break out somewhere during the course of the current year. The increasing ease of money, the steadiness of speculative real estate values during a period of unexampled dullness, and the comparative economy of building operations—all of these causes will co-operate to bring about a revival of speculation; and the only question is as to the district which will be the chief scene of this renewed campaign in favor of higher real estate values and business development. In our opinion, speculative interest will be concentrated chiefly on the margin of the area bounded by Fourth and Seventh avenues, Twenty-third and Forty-second streets. In the financial district down-town, there has been an over-production of office space, and several years must elapse before any renewal of building operations and speculative buying will be justified. Neither is there much reason to expect a revived interest in real estate on Fifth avenue and its vicinity in the near future, because the retail trade of that area is particularly affected by the business depression. The only part of Manhattan's business district which looks promising as a field for speculation is the part centred around Greeley Square. This is the one district whose business availability will be very much improved by the completion of the tunnel terminals, and which consequently can be made a subject of speculative exploitation even during a period of business inactivity. It is improbable that any speculative movement will begin until next fall, because the season is so far spent that the improving financial conditions will not have any chance to exert their effect on real estate. But after the election is over there is every prospect of a renewal of real estate trading, distributed chiefly over the district that will be affected by the Pennsylvania, Long Island and trolley terminals.

SKILLED MECHANICS DISAPPEARING.

"Apprentices of today are little better than helpers, generally speaking," said Mr. Ross F. Tucker, chairman-elect of the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association and an engineer of some repute. "This is due almost entirely to the conditions dominating labor organizations, whereby skill is not taken into consideration when the question of payment for services comes up. There is little inducement, from a financial standpoint, for a mechanic to devote himself entirely to his chosen calling with the object of becoming thorough in every detail. If his heart is in his work he will excel But if his incentive is to secure the highest remuneration for his skill (and this is almost invariably the incentive), he is quickly discouraged when he finds that a workman who is a member of the same organization receives just as much pay, no matter how inferior his work may be. Place the really skilled mechanic beside the one who is skilled in name only. Why should the former slave night and day to excel if his indifferent companion receives just as much for an hour's labor?

"The wages are set, regardless of the varying ability of the members of a labor organization. The result has been that the man who would make an effort to perfect himself in his line loses interest and falls to the level of those who are endeavoring to accomplish as little as possible for as much as possible. The indifference among apprentices is apparent everywhere. When they begin their term they are assigned to one who may or may not know his business. The graduating from the apprenticeship period is more a question of putting in time than displaying skill. Few apprentices execute their work well, and still fewer can design. Their methods are slipshod, and if anything out of the way occurs in the course of their duty they are at a loss what to do. They are unable to meet emergencies.

"How true this is can be readily observed when one happens across a mechanic who is a relic of the thorough apprenticeship system followed in England generations ago. From the time of the guild down to the period when labor organizations became known as we now know them the apprentice in England was bound to his master and was taught every detail of his trade. He lived with his teacher, was part of the household, and even his social life was restricted. He grew up in the atmosphere of the trade he intended to follow. The outcome of this was that the English mechanic could not only execute in a way that is rarely paralleled now, but could design as well. He was paid according to the class of work he produced. There was some incentive for him to develop the best that was in him. I have met a few of these old-school workmen in this country, but they are few and far between. One of the best examples of the type I have seen is Geo. Beck, whose work is well known to all concrete men in New York. He is at once an artist and a highly skilled workman.

"The Mechanics Institute is making a splendid effort to restore and maintain the high standard of workmanship which formerly prevailed. Few people in New York realize the great work that it is doing. It is 105 years old, and ever since its establishment it has been trying to follow the old standard as far as new conditions would permit. About 1,600 boys and young men attend its classes to prepare themselves for their trade. The technical education, which is gratis, is invaluable. But how many more would take advantage of such an opportunity if they knew that the product of their skill would not be placed on a par with that of the mechanic who was indifferent during his apprenticeship."

The Mr. Beck to whom Mr. Tucker refers is a wonder in some ways. He was associated in England with Ernest L. Ransome, who was interested in the first strictly modern use of concrete. Mr. Beck is the personification of the old English thoroughness in mechanical work. After he came to America he was in the employ of Fred. Ransome, who introduced into the United States the concrete system followed by his father in England. Mr. Beck moved around the country a great deal, and it is only through occasional incidents that his extraordinary ability has been disclosed. One illustration will indicate this.

When Mr. Tucker was in San Francisco he admired a magnificent crystal chandelier suspended in the Grand Opera House of that city. The design and execution were such as to command attention. Mr. Tucker described the beauty of it to Mr. Beck when he ran across him in New York. His surprise can be imagined when Mr. Beck casually remarked that he designed the chandelier and superintended putting it together. Mr. Beck was for many years chief designer for the Mitchell-Vance Company, and is now employed by a local high-class plasterer. He designs most of his own work. An excellent exhibition of his artistic sense and fine skill is seen in the beautiful panel in the display of Tucker & Vinton in the rooms of the Concrete Association of America, Brunswick Bldg., 5th av and 26th st.

The growing scarcity of skilled mechanics has caused the National Association of Builders' Exchanges to take up the question of industrial education. Letters have been sent out by the secretary, Alex. E. Pearson, to employers' associations. Mr. Wm. J. Holmes, secretary of the New York Building Trades Employers' Association, received one of these communications this week, and it shows the lively interest being aroused over the decrease in the number of first-class mechanics. The letter states in part:

"Will you kindly furnish the committee all the data in your possession on the subject of industrial education, together with full information as to your experience regarding the growing scarcity of the skilled mechanic, and how far the scarcity is recognized and discussed by employers of labor in your locality, particularly by members of your association; also, what action, if any, has been taken to relieve this condition and to provide ways and means whereby the American youth will receive a trade or technical education. In the event of there being trade schools or similar institutions, we would like full data as to their operation, how they are financed and the methods whereby they operate, with such information as may be in your possession showing what results have been obtained.

"We would also like information as to what attitude is taken by labor organizations in reference to the apprenticeship question. In a general way we know how they stand, but as enforcing these conditions is mainly local we would like to secure information as to the local conditions.

One of the "thorough" mechanics to whom Mr. Tucker refers called at the office of Mr. Holmes early this week, seeking employment as an engineer. He had been working for 12 years in government employ in Jamaica. He knows an engine "backwards and forwards," displayed unusual intelligence as a mechanic and was anxious to enter a big plant where the best and latest machinery was operated and where "thoroughness" would be recognized and appreciated.

CONSTRUCTION

BUILDING COST REDUCED.

An Investigation of the Changes That Have Taken Place, Since Boom Times, in Labor Conditions, Material Prices and Contractors' Profits.

ALMOST any kind of a building can be erected cheaper this year than last year, and there is a still wider difference in building costs between now and when the boom was on, two years ago. Consequently this is a particularly advantageous time to build—when competition for work among builders is keen, when journeymen understand the necessity of doing their best and contractors can drive bargains with the supply houses. If investors fully comprehended the rare opportunity now presented there would be a quick revival in the construction field.

This opportunity does not consist merely of the chance to make a real estate investment at figures not to be obtained again in years, once the depression has been passed; but connected with it is the probability of filling the house, or whatever sort the building may be, at the maximum rent rates of a generation. Thus, extremely low building costs are now found in combination with the largest obtainable income from most classes of property, and this in a selling market that is rapidly regaining its normal standing.

Just how much cheaper construction can be obtained for is the purpose of this statement. Building costs are composed of three factors, namely: (1) material prices, (2) journeymen's wages and (3) contractors' profits. All must be estimated in any analysis by which it is hoped to arrive at a final expression that will actually represent the reduction in cost, and yet two of the factors are indefinite, and in actual practice the third (wages) is problematical also.

Any one can take a list of quotations for materials and compare it with the quotations which obtained one year ago or two, and note what the apparent reduction has been in each ite.. figure the percentage of reduction, and strike an average if he can; and then he will have the two most determining factors yet to estimate. The experience of a firm of American contractors in Dublin is in point.

They had figured the work on the American basis and obtained the contract. When their representative had got started on the job he soon perceived that he could not get through at all on the American cost basis. The masons could or would lay only eight hundred bricks a day, and he reported to his firm in London.

"How much wages do you pay?" they asked him, and he replied that he paid the regular Dublin wage of eight shillings a day. They decided to try the effect of American wages.

The representative returned to Dublin and announced that he would pay five dollars a day for a full day's work. The men would hardly believe it and insisted for awhile on seeing the money and getting paid off three times a day. When they found it was all true they buckled down and laid three thousand a day to a man, and the final result to the firm was that the local rate for bricklaying was virtually cut in two.

Wage schedules have not been disturbed in New York, but in practice it is found that a superior class of workmen are available for the work that is now coming out, and this makes a great difference in the cost of a building. We know of a job put through last year which was estimated to cost $90,000, but the actual cost was only $70,000. In other terms, twenty-two per cent. of the expense faded away under the pressure of competition among workmen and sub-contractors. In another reported case the estimates taken for a building differed so widely under the varying necessities of the bidders that the difference between the two extremes was enough to put up the building.,

Building costs have been dragging on the bottom for a year. The thing that controls the situation is not the prices of building materials, but the economical fact that there are in this city building organizations having a capacity for two hundred and fifty million dollars' worth of work a year, and not enough work to keep them going. These organizations cannot be switched to other large centres, though some are finding a measure of work elsewhere, and they must depend on New York for their preservation. Under the circumstances many are willing to take work almost without consideration of profit over actual running expenses.

During an investigation of present building costs the Record and Guide has been favored with the counsel of some of the most experienced men in building—contractors, engineers, architects and estimators, and has been aided to certain conclusions.

NET RESULTS.

Office buildings of the first class can be built for nearly fifteen per cent. less than they could last year. Apartment houses of good type can be erected at a cost from ten to fifteen per cent. less than a year and a half ago, and other types of buildings as will hereafter appear.

We have in mind a residence on Park av, near 86th st, which cost to build in 1906 $105,000, or at the rate of 38 cents per cubic foot. It could be duplicated to-day for 33 cents per cubic foot, in the opinion of one of the city's most expert estimators.

An office building now in course of erection on 5th av will cost only 28 cents per cubic foot. Two years ago the same building would have cost 32 cents per cubic foot, or 14.3 per cent. more.

A fireproof factory building in Jersey City of ordinary rough construction will be completed this year in Jersey City at a total cost of $162,000 or at the rate of 9 cents per cubic foot—exclusive of the lighting and heating. The building is fireproof throughout. Two years ago it would have cost 15 cents per cubic foot, or 77 per cent more.

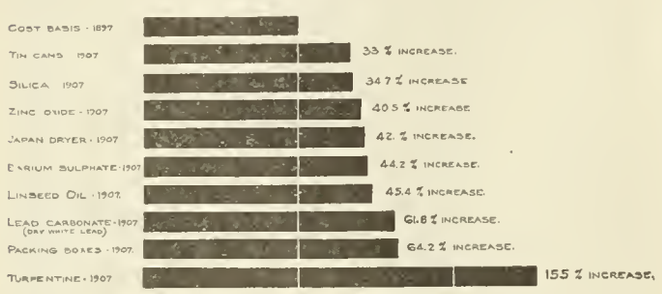
The New York Custom House cost 57.9 cents per cubic foot; the Appellate Division Court House, 74 cents, exclusive of sculpture and painting; the east wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, 26.5; the Jersey City Library, 23.5, exclusive of bookstacks; the Martinque Hotel, 45 cents; the Clearing House, 45 cents; the Hotel Gallatin, 70 cents; the Yale Club, 40 cents; office building at Cedar st and Broadway, 60; the Mutual Life Building, 80 cents; the Broad Exchange, 50 cents; the Atlantic Mutual (Wall and William sts), 35 cents, exclusive of excavating and architects' fees.

Next to the intense competition among general contractors the strongest influence at work for lower costs is to be found among the men who contract for parts of the building, as the structural steel and iron, interior trim of various kinds, the plumbing, heating, power, stonework, wiring, roofing and tiling. These sub-contracts include the three factors of material, labor and profits, and the estimates that are being turned in show large reductions, which could not be represented by cheaper materials alone. The manager of one of the largest estates in the city, who has been taking bids for a Broadway improvement, said he was surprised to note the difference between estimates made for the same work two years ago and these actual tenders. In his opinion the reduction was not only in the prices of materials, equipment and manufacturers' profits, but also in something that stood for labor. But the official wage schedules have not been changed, and in most trades they have been enforced strictly since the Arbitration Agreement went into effect. One effect of the depression has been to put out of business many small and independent sub-contractors and dealers in various lines, leaving the fittest to compete with each other on a more equal footing.

THE DECLINE IN MATERIAL PRICES.

Architects find that window glass was never so cheap as now, the ruling discounts being 85, 20 and 5 per cent. Contractors for electrical work are bidding very low. There are bargains to be had from small fabricators of structural steel that would surprise the Steel Trust. Metal covered woodwork is subject to varying conditions difficult to express in a sentence. Manufacturers in this line having good stocks of lumber have not derived any benefit yet from the price-cutting by the lumber shippers. Sheet copper is low, but the reduction in iron and steel has been small. However, we hear of cases where manufacturers of metal-covered trim have found themselves able to make concessions from former prices amounting to ten per cent.

Doors, sash and blinds in the rough show a recession in price of five to ten per cent, when the buyer is able to take advantage of the market, and is not stocked up at the old prices. Hardwoods are the stiffest proposition in the lumber catalogue; as prices on well manufactured stock are well maintained; and if a buyer finds something in the nature of a bargain the material will be something corresponding to what he pays.



Plain lumber prices are gradually giving way, but not with regularity. The local market is supported by better conditions elsewhere, as shippers are not dependent on this market alone. During the period from 1899 up to the summer of 1907 the price of lumber at shipping points advanced 49 per cent. The recession has been in no wise comparable to the advance, and builders are not getting very much satisfaction out of it. Random cargoes of narrow spruce could be had ten years ago (November, 1897) for $13 to $14.25 per M.; wide material, $14.50 to $16. To-day the prices run from $16 to $23, a drop of about $2 all around. Hemlock lumber sold on a base price of $11 in 1897; last year the base price was $22, and at the present time it is $19. White pine uppers sold for $45@$60 in 1897, $95@$114 last year, and are now quoted at $90@$93. Red cedar shingles are $1.45 lower than the top prices of last year. Lath are obtainable this week at the rate of $2.75 by the cargo. The price was close to $4.50 in May, 1906.

One of the most considerable reductions has taken place in building brick. Two years ago this week Hudson River hards touched $11.25 per M., the market price to dealers at the wharf. To-day the current price is only half as much, or $5.00@$5.50. Brick is a large item in the construction of a town building. Portland cement is 12 per cent cheaper than a year ago. Stonework, estimating on the cubic foot basis for material and labor of setting will be found to be from 20 to 25 per cent less than at the height of the boom.

Paint, regarded merely as a material, is not a very large item proportionately in the cost of a building. A comparison of the cost of crude materials entering into the cost of production shows a very great advance in the ten years ending in 1907. The accompanying chart indicates the increased cost of representative items in the principal classes of crude materials. The per cent of reduction would be difficult to figure out, were it important to do so, in view of the discounts made in the trade, but in general it can be said that the net reduction in the paint bill as the owner and his representative see it, is not very large, though the quality of work is likely to be very much superior.

COMPARISON OF COSTS—CRUDE MATERIALS.
SOME OF THE ADVANCES AFFECTING COST OF PRODUCTION.
1897 - 1907.

ALL OTHER CRUDE MATERIALS, PACKAGES, LABOR, INSURANCE AND TAXES HAVE ADVANCED DURING THE SAME PERIOD FROM TEN PERCENT TO TWO HUNDRED PERCENT.

The official price lists on structural iron and steel have not been outwardly modified. The large steel and iron interests have held up the prices rigidly, but notwithstanding there has been a large element of shrinkage in the quotations that the general contractor is able to secure. Builders' hardware quotations have been maintained by the manufacturers at the old rates until this spring, when they began to yield in some lines, and only in some cases has the advantage had time to get through to the builder. The change in this department will be more apparent later on. Plumbing work shows a net reduction in the estimates of from fifteen to twenty per cent; steam fitting, ten to fifteen per cent.

THE ELEMENT OF TIME.

Mr. Schwartz, of Schwartz & Gross, architects, said that the greater rapidity of construction now possible represented a large saving in the cost of a building. They now counted on having a 100-ft. corner building completed in about six months. Mr. Schwartz estimated that apartment houses of good type can be erected at ten to fifteen per cent less than they could eighteen months ago, and loft buildings ten per cent less.

The representative of a prominent contracting firm said: "Any kind of a building can be erected this year for less money than it cost last year. I can say that large fireproof office buildings can this year be erected for 10 to 15 per cent less; warehouses, 5 to 10 per cent less; apartment hotels, 10 to 15 per cent; family dwellings, at least 10 per cent less.

"And why? Competition is closer; material of any kind is cheaper; a mechanic must do a good day's work in order to hold his job. The walking delegate keeps his mouth shut and is glad that times are no worse. The bosses have the pick of the best men, and the lazy ones stay on the sidewalk.

"The contractor can drive a close bargain with anybody that supplies material, even with the most independent of them, the contractor for structural steel. Many bargains have been closed in structural steel that would surprise the Trust.

"Wise investors will keep architects busy getting ready, quick to take advantage of the present low costs."

William D. Bigelow, engineer and estimator, senior member of Bigelow & Hinds Co., contracting engineers (who designed and constructed the steel work for the Woman's Hospital on Cathedral Parkway) said:

"In regard to the difference in contract prices for which buildings were let in 1906 and those of to-day, I find the following: Office buildings from 10 to 15 per cent less; apartment houses from 10 to 15 per cent less; high-class residences from 10 to 15 per cent less; warehouses and factories from 10 to 20 per cent less; suburban dwellings from 10 to 12 per cent less.

"A large office building was recently let on upper 5th av at the rate of 28 cts per cubic foot, and in 1906 a building of the same description would cost 32 cts per cubic foot; also a factory building was let a few weeks ago at the rate of 9 cts per cubic foot, and in 1906 this building would have cost 12 cts per cubic foot. The same conditions prevail in all classes of building work.

"In regard to the structural steel for building purposes, several large contracts have been recently let at a very large reduction from the prevailing prices."

CONCRETE CONSTRUCTION.

The growth of reinforced concrete construction during the past five or six years has been very remarkable, and along good substantial lines, such as large industrial buildings, factories and warehouses. Concrete is also very largely supplanting other forms of construction for subways, aqueducts and large sewers.

The growth in the number and size of the reinforced concrete buildings in Greater New York is best realized when it is stated that the total value of such buildings erected in 1900 did not exceed $100,000, while in 1907 it amounted to approximately $4,000,000.

This is the first year during the past six years when the volume of reinforced concrete work under contract shows a loss over the previous year. At present it is doubtful if the volume of reinforced concrete work under contract exceeds forty (40%) per cent of the amount at this time last year.

Mr. H. C. Turner, of the Turner Construction Company, 11 Broadway, estimated the saving now possible in concrete materials at ten per cent over last year. He added:

"It is my opinion that the cost of reinforced concrete buildings to owners is fully ten to fifteen per cent below the corresponding period of last year. It must be remembered, however, that plans were prepared for a large number of buildings to be erected this year, which have been held in abeyance as a result of general business conditions. As soon as money becomes freer for building operations, much of this work will be authorized. We, therefore, look for fair business the second half of this year, with some slight increase in the cost of materials."

BRONX FIGURES.

Messrs. Moore & Landsiedel, of 149th st and Third av, said:

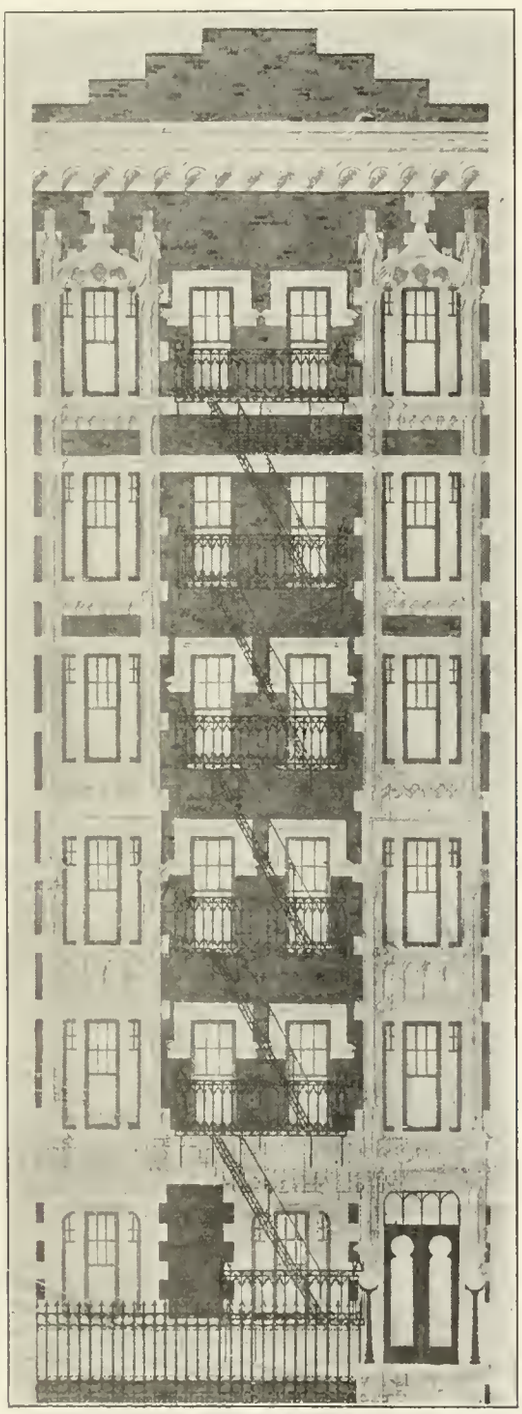
"We find that an apartment house can now be built for from 18 to 20 per cent less than in 1905, while the difference in the cost of a warehouse and storage building amounts to about 15 per cent less.

"A two-family brick dwelling, 20x55 ft., which cost $6,000 in 1905, can now be built for $5,200, and a three-family brick, of the same dimensions, which cost formerly $8,500, can now be erected for $7,500.

"The difference in the cost of frame buildings does not amount, in proportion, to the difference in the cost of brick buildings, for the reason that lumber has decreased but slightly, and the actual saving would consist of the contractors' profits. However, a two-family frame dwelling which formerly cost $4,500 can now be built for $4,200, while a three-family frame, which formerly cost $6,500 can now be built for $6,000. The size of said frame dwellings upon which we have based our estimate is 21x50 ft.

"The above figures are based upon estimates received at our office from general contractors. We believe, that if a man was to do his own building, that is, to purchase his own material, and contract only for the labor, or, better still, hire his own workmen, that the cost of construction would be still further reduced to the extent of about 10 to 15 per cent."

BROOKLYN CONDITIONS.



Mr. Benj. Driesler, a leading Brooklyn architect, estimated the drop in cost of construction this year at ten to fifteen per cent, more noticeable in brick building than in frame house work. This held good on buildings costing up to $15,000. The saving on larger and costlier buildings was not so noticeable.

—There are many charming ways of treating the ceiling. In rooms which have oak as their keynote, oaken beams or an imitation of them, look very handsome across the ceiling, says the Owners' and Builders' Magazine. There are, in addition, many admirable conventional designs in model plaster, in high or low relief, as the situation demands, which make a delightful finish to a room. Where the ornament is in high relief, a richness of effect resulting from the play of shadow, dispenses with the need of color.

THE ARCHITECT
WHAT HE HAS DONE RECENTLY AND WHY HE DID IT.

FRENCH GOTHIC FOR APARTMENT HOUSES.

An attractive model of Gothic architecture is shown in the "Bernard Apartment House," recently completed, and situated on the north side of West 126th st, 160 ft. west of 5th av, No. 11 West 126th st, Manhattan, for Mr. I. Block, owner. The building is situated in one of the best of private residential sections of Harlem, and is the only 6-sty apartment house in the Borough of Manhattan designed in the correct style of French gothic architecture. The architects' idea was to introduce correct French gothic architecture for apartment houses and give them the appearance of private residental art. White Indiana limestone constitute the trimmings for the first story and the upper stories are trimmed with white-glazed sand-blasted terra cotta, with a background of dark red Roman brick laid up in white joints, struck tightly, so as to bring out the gothic design to the finish. The building stands on a plot of 25 ft. front and 99.11 ft. deep.

Each floor of the building contains two apartments, richly planned, containing a drawing-room, dining-room, library, chambers, kitchen, pantry, servants' room, reception lobby, private halls, closets, etc. The rooms in each apartment were designed so that the drawing-room, dining-room and library connect and can be thrown together for entertaining or living purposes.

The drawing-room and dining-room connect with portiere openings, ornamented with Ionic classic columns, fluted, and standing on pedestals. The building is equipped with the latest improved steam heating and hot water supply, clothes drying apparatus, electric and gas-lighting combination and telephone service. The plumbing fixtures are of the latest standard Sanitary Mfg. Co., of white porcelain. Self-retaining dumbwaiters are provided from cellar to roof, connecting with apartments of fireproof material.

The rooms are trimmed with red birch, birdseye maple and oak, richly finished, to meet the requirements of each room. Drawing and dining rooms are attractively arranged with mantels, mirrors and seats. The libraries are finished with leaded glass bookcases, etc. On entering the building the vestibule and entrance hall are wainscoted with marble, and have mosaic floors. The public reception hall is next reached, and this is arranged with leaded glass windows to the open court, palm trees, seats and open iron and marble staircase, which ascends to the upper floors. This building is one of the prettiest designed buildings of its kind on a city lot.25 ft. × 99 ft. 11 in. Messrs. Shampan & Shampan, of No. 772 Broadway, Brooklyn, are the architects.

ARCHITECTS' POSITION SUSTAINED.

THE fourth section of the resolutions adopted at the 41st annual convention of the American Institute of Architects relative to competitions, has now secured the backing of the courts. This section states that "the programme should be in the form of a contract relating to the award of the work and to other payments."

In the past it has been very difficult to secure public recognition of this principle by people outside of the architectural profession, who have always had an idea that because builders and contractors present bids without pay that architects should do likewise.

Messrs. Palmer & Hornbostel deserve the thanks of the profession in general for testing this matter in court in a suit which they brought against the Central Board of Education of Pittsburgh. This board decided to build a new school house some time ago and appointed a building committee and a professional adviser to select an architect subject to the approval of the board. A very careful and complete programme was issued by the Building Committee, of which the following provisions formed a part:

COMPETITION.—To insure the impartial selection of the architect best qualified to design and execute the proposed building, the committee have established this competition.

PRIZE.—The prize of the competition will be the commission to design and supervise the construction of the proposed building.

AWARD.—This prize will be awarded to the competitor whose design is designated by the committee as "premiated," as provided in Sections 39-44, inclusive, of the programme.

JUDGMENT.—The remaining designs will be examined by the adviser, who will select that one which in his opinion gives promise of the best results when carefully studied and developed in all its parts and details, and will, in his report, recommend it to the committee for their choice as the "premiated design." In making this selection the adviser will hold the design to define the professional and artistic capacity of its author for dealing with this special problem, as it may be regarded from all points of view.

COMMITTEE DECISION.—The committee will then, after careful consideration of the aforesaid report and after examination of the designs with the adviser's assistance, take action by selecting that design which may in his opinion be best and will designate said design as "premiated;" will thereupon open the envelope containing the name of its author and will forthwith award him the prize of the competition by designating and appointing him the architect of the work described in Section 64 of this programme; subject, however, to the approval of the board.

REPORT OF BOARD.—The committee will thereupon report this action to the board, requesting approval thereof, and it is believed, inasmuch as the committee has been authorized by the board to make selection of the architect through competition under professional advice, and has adopted the most approved method for producing the best result, that such approval will be granted.

APPROVAL.—Upon approval being given by the board, the said architect shall become the appointed architect.

FURTHER SELECTION.—If, for any reason, however, the board disapproves of the above committee action, it is provided that the committee will then select from among the remaining designs that

RECENT ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE BUILDER.

GRAND CENTRAL YARD IMPROVEMENT.

By H. A. BENNETT, C. E.

The Grand Central yard formerly occupied the rectangle between 42d st on the south, Vanderbilt av on the west, 57th st on the north and Depew pl on the east. It is the terminal of the New York Central and Hudson River and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroads in New York City. The reconstruction of the terminal facilities became necessary for two reasons.

First—In May, 1903, the State Legislature authorized the New York Central Railroad to substitute electricity for steam on its tracks from the 42d st station, including the yard, to points on the main line and Harlem division.

Second—To enlarge the terminal so that the operating expenses would be reduced. This would provide increased storage room for cars, and a larger station area, affording relief from congestion of traffic which has increased more rapidly than present facilities can satisfactorily accommodate.

The yard contained a 5-sty station, baggage room, train shed covering twenty tracks and platforms, signal and interlocking towers, round-houses and turn-tables. Above the tracks at 45th, 46th and 47th sts were foot bridges and at 49th a highway bridge. The car cleaning yard is located about three miles from the station, requiring two extra movements of nearly all the trains. About twelve hundred trains were handled in the yard every twenty hours, and about five thousand movements of engines, cars and trains were recorded in the same period.

The property east of Depew pl extending to Lexington av contained 4 and 5-sty apartment houses, and that west of Vanderbilt av to Madison av buildings occupied by the American and Adams Express Companies.

The foundation of the old yard consists of what may be called solid rock overlain with a cinder fill of about ten feet. The rock does not occur in strata but seems to be irregular and intermingled with clay. In somes places, however, the rock is in layers having a dip of about thirty degrees, but the dip is not constant nor the beds uniform in position. On account of these conditions the rock has to be blasted and taken out in such shape that it can be used only for fill.

During the excavation many difficulties were encountered, as the breaking of old water mains and sewers that were not known to exist. Numerous springs developed at the most unexpected places and these with the above mentioned troubles made necessary the use of several pumps until the new drains could be connected with the main sewer. The greatest depth of excavation for the new yard will be about 135 feet, going below the mean high water mark about 18 feet.

The original plan for the new yard was that it should occupy the same plot as the old yard and include below the express tracks a suburban station containing eight tracks. The total width was to be but 195 feet. No subways for mail or baggage were provided for and, although new viaducts were to have been erected over the express tracks, the accommodations would not have been noticeably increased. The new yard will occupy the same plot as the old with the addition of the property to the east to Lexington av, between 44th and 50th sts.

The design for the construction of the new yard divides it into three parts called Bites 1, 2 and 3. Bite 1 includes the part between Lexington av and Depew pl. Depew pl and Vanderbilt av will not run through the yard but will stop at 45th st.

All buildings in Bites 1 and 2 have been removed and the excavation completed. At 50th st, fronting on Lexington av, a transformer house has been erected and is now in operation. The tracks, third rail and necessary switches have been in operation nearly a year in Bite 1, and in Bite 2 they will be ready in a few days. The trucking subway which connects the Adams and American Express Companies' buildings, located between 48th and 49th sts and Lexington av, with the platforms of the station, the mail subway connecting the Post Office Building with the mail platforms of the station, all had to be ready for use before any trains could be taken from the Grand Central Station to the Grand Central Palace which is being used as a temporary station.

Along the east line of Depew pl a suburban wall has been built and the excavation will be carried down to provide a subway for suburban trains. The west suburban is on the western line of the yard and between these walls the express tracks will be carried on a steel deck which varies in construction according to the clearance between the suburban and express tracks.

Commencing at 57th st where the four tracks leave the tunnel, the steel deck plate construction was used. This consists of transverse beams spaced about 2 feet apart carrying a ½-inch plate on which the regular track construction rests. This system will be used down to 50th st. Here the head room will allow the use of transverse girders with a concrete arch between to carry tracks above and this method will be used between 48th and 50th sts.

Below 48th st and extending to the terminal the tracks will be carried by transverse girders which take the load from stringers running parallel to the track, or to the north and south centre lines.

Owing to the fact that the entire yard will be covered with viaducts and buildings, expansion joints were provided only at the centre lines of the cross streets and a longitudinal expansion joint in the centre of the yard or the centre line of Park av.

All steel will be protected by two or more inches of concrete and the columns footing on the suburban level will be provided with a protection pier extending 7 feet above the top of the rails and continuous from column to column except for crossovers and turnouts.

Two inches above the top of the steel deck will be laid a heavy coating of waterproofing. On this will be placed one layer of brick with from four inches to one foot of concrete, which latter will carry the standard track construction.

The yard when completed will contain a 20-sty station with train shed covering eighteen express tracks and fifteen suburban tracks. All but two of the suburban tracks are connected to the loop which is under the main part of the station, and is to be connected with the tracks of the Interborough Rapid Transit at 40th st. A platform is provided on each side of the tracks on the suburban level.

A mail subway from the post office building will extend across the yards beneath the suburban tracks and will connect with the platforms of both levels by means of elevators.

A trucking platform will connect the American and Adams Express Companies' buildings with the suburban platforms; and elevators with those on the express level.

Between the platforms and the suburban wall the pipe gallery will be located. This will carry the electric ducts, compressed air pipes, Pintsch gas and vacuum pipes. At 48th st a pipe gallery will extend across the yard below the suburban tracks and connect to a similar gallery in the west yard.

Beginning at 45th st on the centre line of Park av there will be built a viaduct which will unite with the cross street viaducts at 45th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th sts. At 50th st the yard has narrowed so that the width of Park av only is used. The Park av viaduct will end at 57th st, where the roadway is carried on the roof of the tunnel.

In the future buildings will be erected over the express tracks between street lines so that in passing down Park av one would scarcely realize that there were two levels of tracks below. No round-houses will be erected and but one turn-table will be installed. The latter will be used to turn observation cars and in other special cases that may arise.

A tunnel will also be built to connect the yard with the subway on 11th av. This cross-town subway will relieve the traffic on the main line trains of the Park av tunnel.

There are several interesting engineering features to this great undertaking as well as a number of practical problems to be met.

The train service has been delayed but very little. As soon as a new piece of track can be used an old one is released and excavation started, the steel being erected at once any of the excavation is complete and that part put into operation as soon as possible.

The trains in the old yard departed from the west side until about seven months ago, when the system was changed, and the trains now depart on the east side.

The wrecking of the old train shed offers a very interesting problem. The shed was built in 1871 of wrought iron imported from England. It consists of 31 arches spaced about 20 ft. centre to centre, each having a span of 200 ft. and a rise of 90 ft. The thrust of the arches is taken by rods running beneath the tracks.

Although the design of the arches was for three hinges, the actual construction is of the two-hinge type. The design of the arch is such as to necessitate the removal of each truss in five sections, each section about two tons in weight. Corrosion has reduced the cross section of the iron on an average 1-16th of an inch, although in the maximum case ⅛ inch has been removed.

The wrecking will start from 45th st and progress southward. As soon as one section is removed, the contractor will be required to erect canopies over the platforms so that they will be covered continually. Owing to the short time each day that the traffic will permit of wrecking operations, the work will of necessity be executed under many difficulties. It must, however, be left in a finished condition at the end of each working period, which will be from 10 p. m. to 5 a. m.

Some idea of the magnitude of the work may be gathered from the following facts.

The suburban station will cover 22 acres, and the express level 39 acres; total, 61 acres.

There will be constructed 1¾ miles of new steel viaduct requiring 100,000 tons of steel; 260,000 cu. yds. of concrete necessitating 3,000,000 cu. yds. of excavation.

There will be 25 miles of tracks within the yard accommodating 1,200 cars; 18 interlocking plants; 18 signal towers; 13 battery houses.

Seven hundred and fifty tons of transmission copper wire will be used in 89 miles of cable in conduits, and 48 miles of cable on poles.

Eight power stations of 7,000 horse power each will supply the power. Thirty-five 2,200 horse power electric locomotives will be used, each weighing 100 tons and having a maximum speed of 80 miles per hour; also, 100 2,400 horse power motor cars each weighing 53 tons and capable of a maximum speed of 52 miles per hour. Only the suburban trains use electricity at present and 55 all steel multiple unit cars each weighing 41 tons have been put in operation.

These improvements, although a large undertaking and ranking next to the Panama Canal in magnitude, mean a great saving to the operating department. The amount of this economy from the pecuniary standpoint will more than pay the interest on the $40,000,000 which the undertaking is estimated to cost.

An average daily force of 1,000 men will be employed to carry on this work, which, it is estimated, will be completed by January 1, 1912.

AN IMPORTANT "OPENING."

FEW new building concerns have commenced operations in this city so widely and so well known as Theodore Starrett & Company, who have recently opened offices at 103 Park av, southeast corner of 41st st. The new company consists of Mr. Theodore Starrett, former president of the Thompson-Starrett Co., and Mr. Edward A. Carpenter, who was in charge of the purchasing and sub-contracting departments of that same corporation.

To the superficial view, all buildings, like all coons, are alike. But that is really far from being the case, as many poor owners have found—after they have paid for their experience. "Building before and after" is a picture that needs two canvasses for the two different points of view. This was not the case many years ago, when Noah built the ark, and when the people of Manhattan were contented with small buildings on small lots. But the modern building is a colossal and complicated enterprise and requires not only the utmost skill but inviolable integrity at each stage of the operation.

It is the purpose of Theodore Starrett & Company to continue the work of building as managers of construction and consulting engineers doing, as their announcement says, "in our individual capacity (but as agents of owners and architects and in their interest) the same work which we did as executive officers of a construction company which in eight years built over one hundred and fifty important fireproof buildings in New York and other cities. We offer our services to those who contemplate the erection of fireproof buildings of magnitude, in the belief that our wide experience will prove very valuable."

The new corporation has not only organized and opened offices but has commenced work with some big building operations.

ARCHITECTS' POSITION SUSTAINED.

one which in its opinion is the best and will repeat the above procedure with respect to this design and its author.

FINAL SELECTION.—Should the board disapprove of this second selection and appointment the committee will then proceed as above with each of the remaining designs, taken in the order of their merit as this is regarded by the committee, until the board shall approve, as it will, the selection and appointment of one of the competing architecs.

Upon the basis of the programme of which these sections formed a part, five architects in Pittsburgh and the same number outside of the city were invited to compete, and all but one of the architects selected accepted the invitation and announced their intention to enter the competition. The committee selected the plan of Rutan & Russell, who were one of the firms originally asked, and the Central Board was asked to approve the selection in December, 1906. The report, however, was rejected by the board, and a motion to reconsider the same was made and laid on the table. Messrs. Palmer & Hornbostel contending that the action of the board was a violation of the contract with the nine competitors, an injunction was obtained restraining the directors from proceeding to award the commission for the construction of the high school and restraining the board from selecting an architect outside of the nine who were originally invited to enter the competition.

In granting the injunction the court took the stand that an absolute contract existed between the Central Board and competing architects, and this ruling has now been confirmed by a decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

A HIVE FOR THE BUILDING TRADES.

THE COLONY IDEA WORKS SUCCESSFULLY FOR THE NEW TERMINAL BUILDING.

The building of an office structure on Park av, right in the heart of the hotel centre, is a movement in the right direction. For a long time an improvement of that character has been needed in the vicinity of the Grand Central Depot, and while many realty prophets regarded such an undertaking as ill-timed, inquiry reveals that the owners of the new Terminal Building at the southeast corner of Park av and 41st st are meeting with much success in renting space in the structure in question, thus proving the correctness of their judgment.

The Terminal Building is 12 stories and basement in height and absolutely fireproof. It is built of limestone, terra cotta and brick, and occupies a plot 100x100 facing the Murray Hill, Belmont and Grand Union hotels. Regarded more or less as an innovation, the Terminal enjoys also the distinction of being the tallest commercial structure and the first business enterprise of magnitude, aside from the hotel industry, in that quarter of Manhattan.

The features of the building are excellent light, high ceilings, a liberal arrangement of offices and, above all, adequate service. Out of a total of 180 offices, 130 are already leased.

The exceptional location as well as the arrangement of the structure are so attractive to those interested in the building trade that more than 70 per cent. of the allotted space is leased to architects, builders, material men, consulting engineers and real estate brokers. The following is a partial list of tenants: Architects—Kirby, Pettit & Green, L. C. Holden, Mulliken & Moeller, Geo. H. Streeton, G. B. De Gersdorff, Jos. Wolf, Gibson & Stewart, and Ford, Stewart & Oliver. Builders—T. J. Rielly Co., John T. Brady Co., John H. Deeves, Wakeham & Miller, Herman Probst, and Theo. Starrett & Co. Among the supply concerns are the Empire Brick & Supply Co. and the John P. Kane Co.

In speaking of the rentals obtained, Mr. J. L. Robertson, Jr., representing the owner, said that the average is about $1.70 per sq. ft., being 15 per cent. lower than the price obtained for space in other buildings in the neighborhood.

"The lighting of our building will be accomplished by the use of Tungsten lamps," observed Mr. Robertson. "It is an incandescent lamp, the filament of which, instead of being made from carbon, the material used in the present lamp, is made from tungsten, a metal of the iron group and probably the hardest metal now known to science. It will be the first installation of tungsten lamps in a building of this size in New York. We have an up-to-date service and the building is open on both Sundays and holidays. Two elevators, installed by the Otis Co., run up to 10 p. m."

The owner of the Terminal is the One Hundred and Three Park Avenue Company, of which R. F. Easton, of Lake Mahopac, N. Y., is president, and S. O. Miller, Nyack, N. Y., vice-president. The architects were Messrs. Mulliken & Moeller.

WHO'S WHO IN BUILDING.—7.

MANY of our most successful general contractors began their business careers in other fields. The head of the C. F. Bond Company is an interesting example. A graduate of the Brooklyn public schools, Mr. Bond spent several of his early years in the Hanover Bank in various positions. His services were then sought and secured by the treasurer of the New York, Ontario and Western R. R., where, as private secretary to that official, he remained for three years. Having displayed an aptitude beyond the ordinary for organization along the lines of construction, he was transferred, to serve in a similar capacity the chief engineer of the N. Y. Central lines. For ten years he occupied this position, latterly taking charge of the engineering force on the division from New York to Buffalo; during which period under his personal direction and control buildings aggregating millions of dollars were successfully erected.

C. F. BOND.

Realizing that a new era in building construction was then dawning, and the importance of good construction under the new methods of building, Mr. Bond resigned from his position and accepted a number of large contracts offered him and embarked in business for himself. An office was opened in the Stewart Building, at Broadway and Chambers st, and contracts amounting to several hundreds of thousands of dollars were secured by him in a few months.

His previous training had been such that none but the best of workmanship and materials were ever considered in the carrying out of his operations. It has been owing to adherence to this rule that Mr. Bond, in the main, attributes his success; but a capacity for business management that has built up and directed an organization both compact and efficient and of an elasticity that has enabled the erection of buildings of almost every class, embracing the imposing private residence with its infinite details, office buildings, stores and lofts, factories, warehouses, hotels, apartments, garages, club and society houses and distributing stations, must be taken into consideration.

Another strong factor is the close personal attention given to all of his work. For over eight years Mr. Bond has continuously undertaken contracts for some architects, and in the year 1905 the 42 contracts secured by him on a percentage basis testify to the confidence placed in his business integrity.

The Warburg residence in East 80th st, from plans by C. P. H. Gilbert, the McAlpin residences in East 90th st, and the A. D. Matthews houses in Fenimore st, Brooklyn, are among the recent accomplishments of the Bond Company. Also the residence of C. T. Young at Oyster Bay and the fine city houses of A. T. Nichols, D. W. Bishop, DeWolf Cutting, Douglas Henry and E. V. W. Hoffman; the alteration to the Hotel Martinique and contracts for the Schermerhorn, Rhinelander and Wendel Estates in New York City; the A. D. Matthews factory, warehouses and distribution station in Brooklyn; factories for the Devoe & Raynolds Co., the Jennings Lace works, the Magnolia Metal Co. and warehouses for Dodge & Olcott, the Sterling Piano Co. and Charles Tisch in Brooklyn, show in part the scope and variety of work handled by Mr. Bond.

Mr. Bond is a member of the Building Trades Employers' Association, the Knickerbocker Field Club, the Cortelyou and Midwood Clubs.

TRUSS METALLIC CO. FIRST.

The Truss Metallic Lath Company, 217 4th av, had the distinction of being the first concern to install an exhibit in the Building Trades and Employers' Association material exhibition, Builders' Exchange Building. The display is a model of the construction work done by the Truss company, and shows the system followed and its advantages.

Many of the choicest spaces on the exhibition floor have been taken. "Rented" signs are scattered all over the floor, indicating that Mr. Isaac A. Hopper's forecast of a waiting list very soon will be verified. Director J. J. Conor reports an increasing number of daily inquiries. Those who have contracted for space intend to install their displays at once. This will mean that the exhibition will be interesting and instructive from the start.

RELIEF PLAN TO BE EXHIBITED.

The public is to have an opportunity of seeing a working model of the Poulson relief plans for the New York terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge. The model is to be put on exhibition on the facade of the World Building, in Park row.

CONCRETE FENCE.

The improvement in transit facilities, together with the increase in individual resources has caused an exodus from the heat and noise of our great cities to the suburbs. With this increase of resources there is a demand not only for the artistic, but for homes that are sanitary, permanent and fireproof. Reinforced concrete is meeting this demand at a reasonable cost. The artistic possibilities are as yet only partially developed. It will require time and study to develop this branch of the industry, and skilled artisans to carry it out to perfection.

A CONCRETE FENCE.

The illustration shows what may be accomplished by ordinary mechanics without special experience in this line of work. This is a fence surrounding the property of Robert Graves, at Mineola, L. I. The walls of the residence are of reinforced concrete, and the fence corresponds in appearance and is permanent.

The construction consists of 3 inch I-beams, spaced about eight feet apart, with the portion below the ground protected by concrete cast around them. These posts support a light steel framing upon one side of which is wired expanded metal lath. Upon this was plastered cement mortar, making the thickness of panels 3 ins., and posts or pilasters 6 ins. In the surface coat white sand was used, giving the whole a very pleasing effect.

SETTLING DOWN IN BUILDERS' EXCHANGE.

It was stated at the new quarters of the Building Trades and Employers' Association, Builders' Exchange Building, that all preparations in the social rooms will be completed in time to open the dining-room next Monday. The kitchen arrangements have been perfected and the chefs promise to make this feature of the association even more popular than it has been. The daily noon luncheon has been one of the features that has brought the members of the association constantly in touch with each other, and no effort is being spared to make it attractive. Every facility required in a first-class cuisine in such an establishment has been provided.

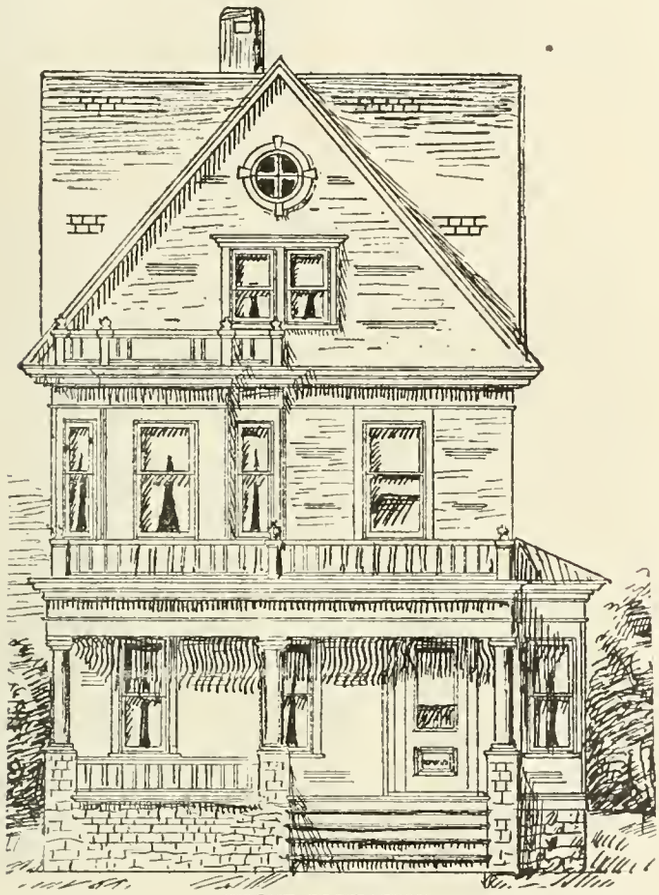
To Secretary Wm. J. Holmes has been given a very spacious and well-lighted room near the elevators. He is highly pleased with the way in which his wants have been attended to and feels that he is well equipped now to look after the increasing duties which the broadening out of the work of the association involves.

Painters are still at work putting the finishing touches on the interior. The furniture has been moved in from the old quarters. As scheduled, the association was installed in its new rooms May 1, but it will be a week or more before every detail has been worked out.

NEW IDEA IN GARAGE.

A modern 4-sty building without elevators in New York may seem to be out of place, but it is a fact, and the designers planned to have all of the best available conveniences. Such a structure is being put up for the New York Taxicab Company in 57th st, between 11th and 12th avs. It was decided to substitute incline driveways for elevators, the owners believing that this plan would provide for a quicker means of communication between the upper floors and the street for the taxicabs than elevators. This system has been in use in Europe for some time and has proved exceedingly convenient for the object desired. Enough room is provided to enable the cars to ascend to the top floor by its own power. A system of signals will be installed to insure against accidents, while the cars are going out and entering. The structure is 250 × 150 ft., and will accommodate nearly 1,000 taxicabs, when completed. It is being erected by Cramp & Co., and was designed by Architect F. M. Andrews.

UNWISE TO INCREASE A MORTGAGE.—Conservative lenders on bond and mortgage usually make it a rule never to increase a mortgage loan, nor to make a loan for more than the existing incumbrance, no matter how large the margin of security. The demand for an increase usually means that the borrower is falling behind.



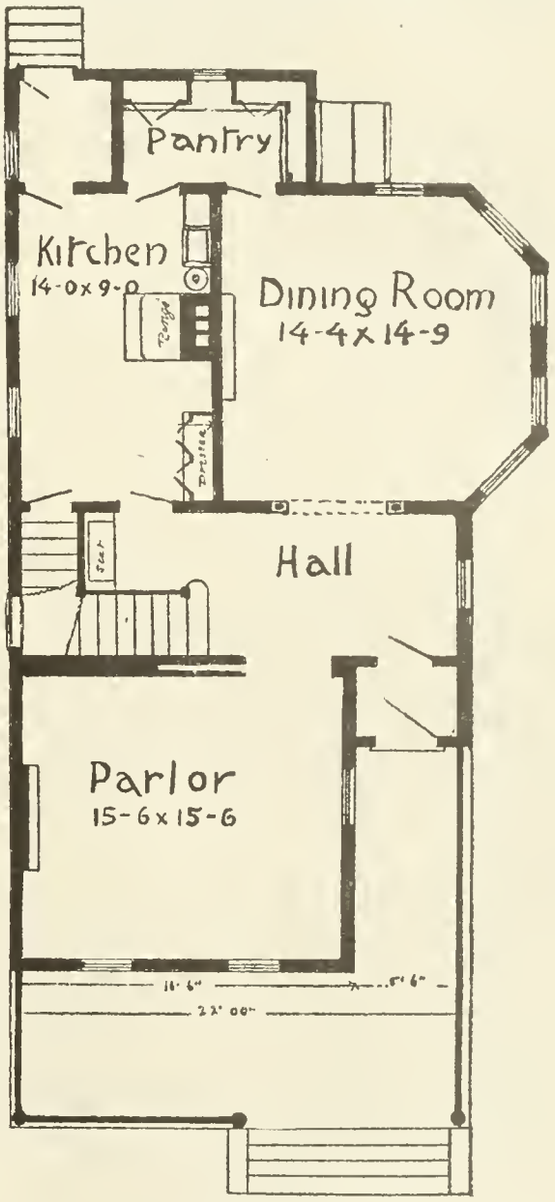
TALKS WITH THE OWNER OF THE BUILDING.

HOW TO BUILD A GOOD HOUSE AT MINIMUM COST.

By THOMAS GRAHAM.

Plan No. 2 represents a 2-sty and attic residence built and occupied by myself and family in Sherwood Park, Yonkers. It is a desirable house, occupying one lot (25x100 ft.), and it gives ample accommodation for a large family.

It contains eight rooms, has a tiled bathroom and is heated by a moist warm-air furnace. It is trimmed throughout in hardwood. If more rooms are required, two additional ones can be built in attic at a small extra expense.



FRONT ELEVATION.

The cost to build a house like this, if located within forty miles of New York City, at present prices, will be $3,000. Size of building, 22 ft. front by 44 ft. deep. Below is the detailed estimated cost:

Excavating for cellar, 5 ft. deep	$65
Building two brick chimneys in piers	52
Building brick or stone cellar walls	100
Moist warm air furnace and piping	80
Kitchen range	28
Plumbing and gas fitting, complete	290
Cementing cellar floor and pointing up	75
Lathing and plastering; 3-coat work	364
Shingling roofs, tinning gutters and leaders	100
20 doors and trim complete, $6 each	120
22 windows, including frames, blinds, trim, sash and glass, $6.	132
220 running feet 4 x 6-in. spruce sills, girders and posts	32
190 pieces 2 x 6 ins. for frame, 20 ft. long	104
5,000 ft. rough 1-in. boards for outside sheathing, $28	140
285 hemlock joists, 2½ x 4 ins., for partitions, &c	55
5,000 ft. of clear outside sheathing, weather boards, $35	175
108 pieces floorbeams, 2 x 8 ins., 22 ft. long, at $1	108
4,000 ft. of N. C. flooring, at $30	120
1,500 ft. of roofing strips and bridging	38
Roof rafters, 2 x 6 ins., 1,000 ft	35
Stairs, stoops and outside rails, balusters and columns	110
Base cornice material, sheathing and all carpenter material to complete	90
Carpenter labor to complete	365
Kitchen dresser and two mantels	37
Painting, staining, varnishing	120
Hardware, nails, sash weights, locks, hinges and other fastenings	65
Total cost of completed building	$3,000

COST OF TWO-FAMILY HOUSE, $3,500.

My next article, No. 3 of series, will give the plan and cost of a good but cheap 2-family dwelling containing five rooms on first floor and six rooms on the second, with tiled bathrooms to each suite, house heated by furnace. Ranges, tubs and fixtures supplied with hot and cold water.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

MAKES HER TENANTS COMFORTABLE.

The "dark" rooms on the East Side, the rooms in the old tenement houses without any natural light, are disappearing gradually. The city authorities are advising the putting in of windows in many of the houses where it is at all possible to have them on the outside. At the present time the Beaver Construction Company, 22 William st, is arranging for putting nine full-size windows in one house, all of them to face a court. There are many structures in which the apartments are laid out in railroad style, one room behind another, and in these the windows are put between the rooms. It is impossible in such cases to have put in an outside window.

An agreeable feature of the improvements in progress on the East Side is the voluntary changes made by owners. Such people appear to be few and far between, but there are some who are taking commendable action. One lady, a settlement worker in spite of her wealth, has been careful to make all improvements possible for the benefit of the foreigners living in her tenement houses. She has instructed the Beaver Construction Company to see that not only are there no violations in the houses, but to go farther and make changes necessary for the comfort of the tenants. In her desire to remove objectionable features in one of the houses she at first thought of having the occupants vacate until the improvements were completed, thinking that the conditions did not fully conform with the spirit of the law.

TWO-FAMILY HOUSES.

THEIR DISTINCT ADVANTAGES AND WHAT THEY COST—WHERE THEY HAVE BEEN SUCCESSFUL.

The subject of the 2-family house has been one of much study during the last ten years, and it has only been in the last five years that its advantages have been fully appreciated by the builder and the home-seeker. There is a large class of our population having a love for home life and decent surroundings which does not take kindly to the flat-house proposition and cannot afford to live in a private house. For them the 2-family house has been the solving of a momentous problem. Here the man of family with limited capital can invest his savings in a home, enjoy all the privileges and privacy of a private dwelling and yet not have the expense attendant thereto.

There are not many localities where the 2-family house can be successfully erected. The first requisite is land on made streets with all improvements, which does not cost more than $2,500 to $3,000 per lot. Secondly, it must be accessible to the business district. Thirdly, there must be school houses and market facilities. In most sections where these conditions are met land is worth more than the price mentioned, and in some locations where the price is still within reach it would not be safe to build 2-family houses, as the character of the neighborhood will too rapidly change.

Pioneers of 2-family brick houses in the Bronx were George F. Johnson's Sons. They owned a large farm of about a thousand lots in what is now called the Longwood Avenue Section of the Bronx. About ten years ago they began the erection of 2-family houses and sold the building for what it cost to erect, in order to find a market for the lot built upon, relying upon the benefits accruing to the surrounding property by the improvements made for their profits. They built over one hundred houses and the prices grew from less than $8,000, until to-day the houses are selling at from fourteen to fifteen thousand dollars apiece.

VALUES INCREASE.

The subway coming up Westchester av drove the value of the lots beyond the price where 2-family houses could any longer be erected. Lots, which when they first began to build were worth about $1,000 apiece, are now worth eight to ten thousand dollars. The people who occupied these houses formed a colony of their own. They took an old manor house and turned it into a club. The type of house which the Johnsons built at that time in this locality were the 3-sty 1-family house and 2-sty and basement 2-family house. These were built in pairs, each unit being 40 feet, consisting of two houses 20 feet in width each, and were built on 50 feet of ground, leaving 10 feet between. The 2-family houses were of the highstoop type, having seven rooms in the basement and first floor and five rooms in the upper story.

About two years ago the Johnsons purchased a tract in the Hunts Point section of the Bronx, distant about a quarter of a mile from their former field of operation, and have built there twenty-two 2-family houses of a new type. Realizing that the parlor and the dining-room were the two most important rooms, they placed the hall on the side, a few feet back from the street, putting the entrance in the centre of the house, thereby making it possible to have the parlor in the front and the dining-room in the back the full width of the house without the hallway being taken off. The first of these houses sold for $12,500 and two of the balance at $13,000 each. It has been their policy to have but one price for each set of houses built, and it made no difference whether the purchaser paid but $1,500 cash, the balance on mortgage, or all cash, all were treated alike.

A PRACTICAL EXAMPLE.

The figures of the cost of living in these houses are very interesting. The selling price is $13,000. If there is a first mortgage of $7,500 on each house, leaving a balance of $5,500, a purchaser with $1,500 cash can get title to the house. This leaves a second mortgage, which is usually for five years, of $4,000, containing a privilege to the purchaser to pay all or any part at any time before due date.

Interest on first mortgage, $7,500, at 5%	$375.00
Interest on second mortgage, $4,000, at 5%	200.00
Interest on $1,500 capital invested at 4% (savings bank interest)	60.00
Taxes	135.00
Water tax	16.00
Insurance and repairs	72.00
Coal (heat, 18 tons at $6; hot water, 2 tons at $4.75, during summer)	117.00
The rent for the upper floor, $35 a month	$420.00

Rent for nine rooms, per annum, $555. This is less than the price at which any nine-room apartment can be rented in any flat-house, and affords immeasurably greater comforts, to say nothing of the profit which will accrue as the neighborhood grows and develops. When the second mortgage has been paid off, the rent, instead of being $555, becomes only $395. The average purchaser of this type of house has few opportunities to safely invest savings, and usually keeps them in the savings bank at 4 per cent. interest.

LARGE OPERATION.

Just north of the Johnson houses the American Real Estate Co. has completed a block of 46 2-family houses, which are of Colonial architecture and of the party-wall type; that is, not being semi-detached and without the ten feet of space between houses. These also have found ready sale. Slightly to the east and also in the Hunts Point section, McCarthy & Macy have erected frame buildings two stories in height, with five rooms on the first floor and six rooms on the upper floor. These can be purchased for less than ten thousand dollars apiece.

Owing to the large ownership of the American Real Estate Co. and the Johnson Co. In this immediate section it is fair to presume that this will be a typical 2-family house district. Another 2-family house section is the old Vyse estate district, lying between about 167th st and 172d st, east of Southern boulevard.

On the west side of the Bronx, Morris, Grant, Sherman and Sheridan avs, at about 166th st, are also being improved with 2-family houses. That this is a recognized type of house which has come to stay and which finds favor among the middle class is without question. This type of house has a further advantage that the amount involved is comparatively small and the security extremely desriable, so that there is rarely, if ever, a period when it is impossible to procure a first mortgage. During the recent financial stringency, when mortgage money was extremely difficult to get, the 2-family house proposition found ready favor among investors, as the borrower did not depend upon the large financial institutions for the money, the amounts necessary being within the reach of the private funds and estates seeking mortgage investment.

R. E. SIMON.

PROGRESS OF CO-OPERATIVE PLAN.

The co-operative plan of building is to be extended to the smaller dwellings and apartment houses by the Co-operative Building and Construction Company, 5 East 42d st, as soon as opportunity permits. This plan of putting up studios and apartment houses in Manhattan has been very successful since it was started about six years ago through Mr. Henry W. Ranger, and many millions of dollars have been invested. When Mr. W. J. Taylor, treasurer of the company, was asked what progress was being made since the inception of the idea as it is now carried out, he said:

"The first studio erected according to the co-operative plan was the present 67th st studios. Some six years ago Mr. Henry W. Ranger found it impossible to obtain a loft or well-lighted, spacious floor as a studio at anything like a reasonable figure, and the idea was conceived of several persons in the same difficulty getting together and forming an organization to erect the character of building desired. The amount of stock taken by each was based on the rental that would otherwise be paid. The plan succeeded so well that the 'Atelier' followed, and later the Central Park Studios.

"Before this artists requiring roomy and very desirable quarters had to lease a stable and fit it up at considerable expense. Even then they had to send their works to a good section to dispose of them, as patrons could not be invited to a studio in an environment of which a stable was the central point. They had the expense of their studios, apartments and exhibition room. What was wanted was a place where all three could be combined. This was accomplished in the 67th st studios and the others which followed.

"We do just what is indicated in the name of the company—we co-operate. We do not promote schemes to build according to this plan. When a few friends get together and decide to proceed with the erection of a building to suit their purposes we co-operate by attending to practically everything for them. This includes the purchase of the site, the construction, the legal questions and the completion up to the turning over of the structure ready to be occupied. The payments are made as the work proceeds.

"Last year alone our construction work along this line aggregated about $4,500,000. As the financial arrangements are made always before we start in, the monetary troubles did not affect us so much, plans for this year having been completed months ago for the construction of a number of apartments and studios. At present we are engaged on five such enterprises, the amount involved aggregating over three and a quarter millions of dollars.

"There are 150 subscribers of the co-operative plan now. The structures which we have erected are generally high-class studios and apartment houses, the most northerly one being in 86th st. We intend to extend the plan to the smaller dwellings with a few families, but as we do not promote this action will depend upon people of moderate means getting together and securing our co-operation."

THE CONSTRUCTION REVIEW OF REVIEWS-WHAT CURRENT PERIODICALS ARE TALKING ABOUT

COLLAPSE OF QUEBEC BRIDGE.

REPORT OF COMMISSION OF INQUIRY INTO THE CAUSES.

THE official document containing the report of the commission appointed to investigate the causes of the collapse of the Quebec Bridge was made the subject of the important article in several of the leading engineering papers during the month. The Engineering News says editorially:

It is, we believe, the most notable investigation of an engineering disaster that the present generation, at least, has seen.

A very great responsibility was laid upon this commission. The country, as well as the engineering profession the world over, desired to know not only the immediate cause of this terrible catastrophe, but the secondary causes which had contributed to bring it about. It was important to find the particular member whose yielding under stress brought down the whole structure in gigantic collapse; but it was far more important that engineers should know what were the defects of organization, or method, or men, or material that lay back of this failing member.

After going into the gravity and difficulties of the work of the commission, the impartial way in which the investigation was carried on, the status of the engineering force and the concern charged with erecting the bridge, and criticising certain administrative errors, grave in their nature, the commission states this fact:

We now know that the great bridge did give ample warning of the distress it was experiencing; and these warnings were seen and their significance was realized by the practical men on the ground. Authority, however, lay not in their hands but with a nominal Chief Engineer in Quebec, 12 miles away, who was lacking in the technical knowledge and experience necessary to deal with such a problem. Real authority lay at New York, 600 miles away, with an engineer who had never seen the structure for which he was actually carrying the entire engineering responsibility, and at Phoenixville, still farther distant, where the engineers were relying on Cooper with implicit faith, and receiving the letters and telegrams from the subordinates at Quebec telling of the strange behavior of compression members without the smallest conception of its fatal significance.

The Engineering Record also treats the report editorially in a comprehensive manner. It says:

A perusal of the report and its appendices discloses the fact that the commissioners have made active and thorough use of the authority with which they were clothed and that they have also availed themselves of the professional advice and aid of some of the most prominent bridge experts in this country in reaching their conclusions. In fact, it is difficult to discover in what way the commission could have been more assiduous in the various directions in which it has pushed its enquiry. * * *

The article concludes as follows:

The report as a whole is fair and judicial in its tone. It recognizes the grave difficulty under which the engineers labored in making the design and in carrying out the erection. It compliments the contractor upon the skill and efficiency of its organization in the office and shop and in carrying out the erection, and the tortured and twisted condition of much of the wrecked material at the bridge site is a superb tribute to its quality, confirmed also by the commission's report. The commission is unquestionably right in stating that the fall of the bridge could not have been prevented by any action that might have been taken after Aug. 27, 1907. The question of responsibility for the disaster as due to defects of design, they do not attempt to settle; they simply state, what is obviously the fact, that the design was officially approved by the consulting engineer, whose supreme authority was fixed by an "Order-in-Council."

The report is exhaustively treated in special articles. It covers a study of the history of the bridge; a perusal of the entire correspondence; a study of the working organization; an inspection of the furnaces and rolling mills where most of the metal was produced; a study in methods of fabrication, transportation and erection of the bridge; a study of errors in workmanship detected during progress of the work; inquiry into history of erection; testimony of eye-witnesses of disaster; examination of meteorological records of day of disaster, etc.; the fallen structure; study of methods of design; checking of stress sheets; comparison of organization and specifications with existing great cantilevers in this country; replotting of records of same; a study of literature pertaining to the subject.

This shows the thoroughness with which the work was undertaken.

The findings are carefully specified and find grave errors of assumption of dead load by designing and consulting engineers, and so on, which distinctly places the responsibility on the design and intellectual portion of the work rather than on workmanship or material. The entire report is well worth a careful perusal by the modern constructionist both of bridges and buildings.

The engineering press has presented yet more recently additional matter in connection with this report, pertaining particularly to the study of large-sized column tests. Both papers above mentioned have published special articles, illustrated with diagrams of practical construction and straw sheets. The entire matter is valuable to those interested in structural matters, as it is in line with the activities of our constructors on this side of the line to determine as exactly as possible sections which have been worked out on theoretical lines and now have to meet new conditions of practice.

ELECTRICAL CONDUIT PROBLEM.

IN reporting upon a petition of the Municipal Subway Company (Mr. John D. Beers, president), for the right to construct and maintain under the streets conduits and subways through which to run wires for all electrical purposes—including telephonic, telegraphic, lighting and heating—Chief Engineer H. P. Nichols, of the Division of Franchises, discussed the whole matter of the advisability of the city constructing such conduits on its own account, rather than granting a franchise to a private company to do so. Several other applications for similar franchises for electrical conduits have been made, but none has been acted upon as yet. Among these are the applications of the New York Cahill Telharmonic Company, the United Electric Service Company and the Atlantic Telephone Company. Should franchises be granted to each of these companies in other parts of the city than the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx west, each company would be obliged to construct a conduit system for its own use, which would necessitate the destruction of the pavement and tearing up of streets in excess of that which would be necessary if there were in existence a general subway system, in which all wire-using companies would be required to place their cables.

In order to avoid unnecessary destruction of pavement and thereby prevent frequent unsightly and uncleanly obstructions in the streets, and in order to avoid the use of the subsurface of the streets to the exclusion of adequate space required for public structures, such as sewers, water mains, etc., it seems to Chief Engineer Nichols to be for the best interest of the city that such a conduit system be constructed. It could be constructed either by a company pursuant to a franchise, as proposed by the applicant company, or by the city at the city's expense.

Mr. Nichols' conclusion was that the Board of Estimate should deny the application of the Municipal Subway Company, at least until the city has taken some definite action which would decide "whether it should be the policy of the city in the future to construct a general system of conduits, or allow each company to construct its own conduits. In regard to a privately owned system of subways Mr. Nichols says:

In view of the city's past and present experience with subway contracts, it would, to my mind, be difficult to draw a franchise granting to a company the right to construct a system of conduits in which public service corporations are to be tenants, and by such franchise adequately protect the interests of the city and the tenants thereof. It is a task which I would hesitate to undertake with confidence that such a franchise would accomplish all that is desired. Such a franchise must necessarily in effect grant a monopoly of the subway business, since all the arguments in favor of a single conduit system for all companies are also arguments against granting a similar privilege to a second or competing company. All wire-using companies which may be granted franchises in the future would be tenants, and, therefore, provision must be made whereby the city may intervene between the subway company and the tenants where a misunderstanding occurs. It must be remembered, too, that these tenants would be public service corporations, and as such would be dependent somewhat upon the subway company as to their extent or efficiency of service; in other words, a company receiving a franchise from the city requiring the use of conduits would be at the mercy of the subway company, unless the franchise be so drawn that all possible difficulties are to be adjusted by the city.

There is no provision in any existing franchise which I have seen in this city or in any other city of the United States which will prevent the purchase of the securities of one company by another, and thereby obtain the controlling interest. Such a condition has been proposed several times by the Bureau of Franchises, though the board has not seen fit to impose such obligation in any franchise. Without such a restriction the subway system would no doubt become the property of the company whose interest would be best served by the prevention of competing companies occupying the subway, and, by technicalities, either delay or prevent entirely such occupancy. Perhaps the best illustration of this is the condition which exists at the present time in the Borough of Manhattan and a portion of the Bronx, in which there are general subway systems, one for high tension wires and another for low tension wires.

Various cities have installed (municipal) subway systems that are being operated successfully. Of the cities which have constructed conduit systems in which space is leased to wire-using companies, Baltimore is the largest. That city began construction in 1898, and has now a system consisting of over 7,000,000 duct ft., of which about 1,750,000 duct ft. are leased to public service companies, which seem well satisfied with the system. The rental varies from 5 to 7 cents per duct ft. per annum, depending upon the extent of occupancy by the company,

DOUBLING A FACTORY'S FLOOR SPACE.

An interesting piece of factory construction has been completed at Passaic, N. J., at the Pantasote Leather Company's factory, for the manufacture of the well-known substitute for leather. Salmond Brothers Company, of Arlington, N. J., made a record not only in the speed with which they have added 42,000 sq. ft. of floor space, but by their display of ingenuity in enveloping a 1-sty wing of the old factory, 65x85 ft. in dimensions, by a 2-sty modern brick structure covering three times the ground space of the old wing dimensions; and this work was carried on and completed in 80 days, entirely effacing the old structure while the machinery therein was in continual operation.

The method adopted by the Salmond Bros., in supporting the line shafting while the old roof was being torn away, is described by Charles M. Ripley in the Iron Age. This work was especially difficult when considered in connection with the new structure.

The change over from the old building to the new building was effected without moving the machines, without lengthening or shortening a single belt, and, in fact, without disarranging in the least the previously existing layout of the embossing machines, line shafting or any other apparatus. It thus follows that the new building had to be built so as to suit the machinery, reversing the general order of installing the machinery in accordance with the lines of the factory interior. The contractor rigidly held this 4-in. shaft and the hangers in place without being allowed any head room and under the further difficulty of the necessity of wooden forms in which the reinforced concrete girders and roof had to be moulded. The wooden pads on to which the hangers were later to be bolted when the factory was completed it will be seen were made to act in the double capacity of the bottom of the wooden falsework upholding the wet concrete, which when set would support the hangers through the pads. Moreover, the floor girder was constructed at such a height as to ultimately support the hanger in exactly its old position after the new building was completed.

It is well to remark that the complete wooden forms for a column are put snugly in place with close joints without the use of any nails whatsoever, with the exception of light 4d nails used now and then to tack in place the wedges. A further advantage resulting from this construction method is that the salvage from the lumber is practically 100%. Since the small nails are merely used as tacks and only partially driven in place, they can easily be withdrawn from the wedges, and these in turn can be removed for use again by a slight tap of the hammer. Then the entire falsework can be removed from the concrete column, after sufficiently set, and the boards are in perfect shape, neither pierced nor penetrated the slightest degree by a single nail, nor subjected to the damaging effect of nail pullers nor the alternative of prying the boards off with a jimmy. In this factory construction there were fifty-six columns in which this method was adopted by clamping the forms.

The photographs were taken at various times during the process of construction and show the doubling of the plant, the interior of the drying room and the preliminary steps taken in the part of the work where the wing of the old factory was being enveloped by the new building. For the illustrations we are indebted to the Iron Age.

room was allowed and provision had to be made for the wooden forms in which the reinforced concrete girders and roof were to be molded.

Fig. 3 gives an elevation of a portion of a column and a horizontal section which well indicates the scheme. It is also shown photographically by Fig. 4. The forms for a complete column were held in place with close joints without the use of any nails, excepting an occasional small one to prevent the shifting of a wedge.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE SPECIFICATION ROOM-STANDARD AND NOVEL BUILDING MATERIALS.

Specification for the White Fireproof Construction.

The specialist who with the knowledge required for a certain product protects his own and the users' interest by preparing a specification that standardizes it is wise in this day of constantly multiplying systems and methods. This has been done by an enterprising concern, and is herewith reproduced.

All floor and roof tiers of beams, to be filled in with White Fireproof Construction Co. of New York's system "—" type "—," flat cinder concrete floor construction, or other equal system if approved by architects, with metal lath ceilings clipped to underside of beams, or hung down to levels shown on drawings (ceilings may be omitted, as in a warehouse, etc.).

Floors—Arches to be of cinder concrete 4 ins. thick, installed on temporary wood centering, and composed of one part high grade Portland cement, two parts sand and five parts steam cinders well mixed and tamped, and imbedding 9-16 in. round rod tension members in said concrete 1 in. above bottom of arch, and spaced 12 ins. on centers.

(Note.—The above is good for spacing of beams up to about 8 ft.; if spacing is greater, tension rods must be spaced closer together. See catalogue.)

All arches installed shall conform with the requirements of the Bureau of Buildings of New York City, and the contractors must, if required, be able to show an official record of fire, water and weight tests, as called for by said department.

Column Covering—All interior columns to be encased in concrete of same mixture as specified for arches, to be not less than 2 ins. thick at any point, and left square or round as required. Before this concrete is put in, the iron column is to be wound with ¼ in. round rods in spiral form, from bottom to top of same. This spiral to be wound on a basis of one wind for every 12 ins. in height.

(Note.—This is the best method of fireproofing columns now known.)

Alternate for Column Covering—All interior columns to be furred and lathed using 1 in. angles, 1 in. channels and 1 in. x 3-16 in. flats so applied that there will be at least an inch air space between the column and the plastering.

Sleeper Fill—Fill in between all sleepers with cinder fill mixed in proportions of one part cement, two parts sand and ten parts cinders. Fill for all cement, marble or mosaic floors, etc., to be done by contractor for that work. No fill composed merely of cinders will be allowed.

Roof Grading—Grade roof with proper fill, grading same to leaders, and finish smooth with coat of cement, leaving surface ready for roofer.

Ceilings—Ceilings to be clipped in approved manner, using nothing smaller than 1 in. x 3-16 in. flats or 1 in. channels for furring bars, spaced not over 12 ins. O. C., and galvanized metal lath attached to same with No. 18 galvanized annealed tie wire. If ceilings are hung down, the main furring bars shall not be less than 1½ in. angles, and the cross furring not less than 1 in. x 3-16 in. flats or 1 in. angles or 1 in. channels all securely bolted together or secured with approved clips. Hangers not less than 1 in. x 3-16 in. flats.

All cornices, false girders, arches, etc., to be furred as shown with 1½ in. angles for main furring bars; and 1 in. angles, and 1 in. x 3-16 in. flats for cross furring; and all to be securely bolted together.

No "tying up" of furring will be permitted for any work mentioned in this specification. All furring covered with galvanized lath.

Partitions—All partitions shown thick on plans to be double metal lath partitions, built of 2 in. x ⅛ in. or 3 ins. x ⅛ in. flats set vertically and spaced not more than 14 ins. on centers, securely bolted to a floor and ceiling plate, and all doors furred out with 2 in. or 3 in. angles as required, properly punched for carpenter to fasten wood jambs. Lathed both sides with galvanized metal lath.

Partitions shown thin on plans to be constructed of 1 in. x 3-16 in. flats or 1 in. angles spaced and fastened same as specified for heavy partitions and lathed one side only.

Wall furring—All exposed outside walls to be furred and lathed, bringing same out to lines shown on plans, and covering in all pipes, ducts, where directed. This work to be constructed generally same as thin partitions, but where furring stands out from walls, it is to be braced to walls once every 6 ft. in height.

Interlocking Mail Chute.

In the U. S. Realty building there is an ideal arrangement for a mail chute equipment. The chutes are centred between colored marble pilasters, and the box, in cast bronze, designed by the architect of the building (Francis H. Kimball) is in harmony with the architectural detail.

For those large buildings wherein the very best fittings are specified throughout, and where elegance is required, the model C (Cutler) mail chute may well be considered. This style is practically an extension of the mail box to the upper stories of the building. It consists of a heavy steel channel with its entire front in the form of doors. The doors are of heavy plate glass set in frames of drawn bronze. The doors swing on stout hinges of bronze and are closed by a locking device operated by a lever located at the opposite side of the chute.

This mechanism is interlocking in its operation. A turn of the key permits the door to be thrown open by the lever, but as long as the door remains open, lever and key are locked in position. Close the door and the locking mechanism is released so that the lever may be turned down, drawing the door into its place, and only after this operation is completed can the key be turned and removed.

The Cutler company says that the "close figures at which these installations are now made renders necessary a large volume of business. We have reduced our prices, but not our standards of workmanship and service, and our business is now larger than at any time in our quarter of a century of experience."

—At the office of the Otis Elevator Co., 17 Battery pl, it was stated that foreign business in the elevator line was good. This company ships to almost every civilized country, but most of the foreign orders come from sections populated or controlled by English speaking people.

Circulation for Heating Purposes.

While the notion prevailed in the past that live steam is better adapted to heating service than is exhaust, it has been demonstrated that exhaust steam, when rid of its entrained oil and water by passing it through an efficient separator, is in every way suited to the requirements of a steam heating system.

Of recent years the enormous increase in the number of combination heating and power plants, with the greatly stimulated interest in economic developments of every description, has called a halt upon the wasteful methods of the past, and a widespread and imperative demand has sprung up for the utilization of the vast amount of heat previously dissipated with the escaping exhaust steam.

Modern requirements are well met by the Webster system. R. P. Bolton, C. E., in a paper read before the American Society of Heating and Ventilating, mentioned a number of primary requirements for an effective exhaust steam-heating system. A catalogue just issued by Warren, Webster & Co., of Camden, N. J., takes up these requirements in the order stated by Mr. Bolton and specifies how the Webster system meets them. It is a very interesting presentation fully illustrated.

By the Webster system it is possible to distribute a minimum volume of steam to all points requiring but a moderate heat during mild weather; it is also possible to automatically reduce the amount of steam required to maintain heat at night.

It is no longer necessary to "roast" in some portions of a building, in order to secure the proper circulation in the remote parts. There is little or no back pressure, a saving in condensation and no "water-hammer," but a perfect distribution of even a small volume, and hence the fullest economy in operation.

A Desirable Fixture.

Here is shown a practical combination especially suited to installations on public comfort works, terminals, institutions and schools. It consists of a seat action Kenney Flushometer Combination. It may be concealed in the wall or under a hood, if not desired to have it exposed.

Fig. 1. Kenney Seat Action Closet Exposed.

Fig. 2. Kenney Seat Action Closet with Hood.

When in use the seat raises automatically, releasing the flushometer, which permits the water to flow and flush the bowl. This is a desirable fixture, as it will improve the sanitary condition of a toilet room, and save water and cost of maintenance. The Kenney Mfg. Co., 36 East 22d st, New York, are making strong claims for this water-controlling device, and back the claims by a guarantee.

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT.

Brick Nomenclature Revealed.

One would have to be pretty thoroughly conversant with the nomenclature of brick to appreciate the variety of this building material that will be used in the construction of the Pennsylvania Terminal. In the enamel brick alone, of which about 400,000 will be required and have been contracted for with the Sayre & Fisher Company, 261 Broadway, nearly a dozen different shapes are needed to fit into the angles and corners of the driveway and courts. These were designed by the architects of the terminal, McKim, Mead & White, and are being manufactured to order at the Sayre & Fisher factory in New Jersey. The variety will include the following: Quoin end and face, bull nose starters, soap stretchers, soap bull nose starters, obtuse angle quoin, acute angle quoin, obtuse angle starters, acute angle starters, half right and half left, and so on.

The order is unusual in this respect. The greatest care has to be exercised to produce these costly brick without the vestige of a flaw, as odd shapes in enamel "seconds" are practically worthless if the highest standard of excellence is not secured in their manufacture. The kind ordered are the English size white. Delivery will begin during the summer.

LUXURIES BEING PURCHASED.—A fairly good sign of money loosening up is the purchase of luxuries. The Erkins Company, 4 West 15th st, deals in one of the highest classes of non-necessaries, garden furniture, statuary, etc., and when Mr. Roy H. McNaught, the president of this concern, states that business has approached a boom the past few weeks, he is making a statement that has more significance than appears on the surface. It was about a month ago that Mr. McNaught remarked that in New York the business of his company was 50% less than it generally is at that time. People will buy automobiles before they invest in exterior decorations for their lawns and gardens. The ornaments used in the beautification of the landscape are among the last bought by even the wealthy. "I cannot account for it," said Mr. McNaught, "but orders have been coming in with astonishing frequency after such a dull period earlier in the year. It is hard to say how long this condition will last, but money is being spent freely for the luxuries we supply."

VENUS IN CONCRETE.—Venus in the concrete, the state in which many modern gentlemen would like to meet her when they see her in a pictorial way, is literally in concrete in connection with the display just completed by the Whitehall Portland Cement Company, of Philadelphia, at the exhibition of the Concrete Association of America in the Brunswick Building, 5th av and 26th st, and incidentally she is a much-travelled lady. The Venus in question was the handiwork of a concrete manufacturer by whom she was "made up." She was exhibited in a concrete display at Buffalo as a sample of what could be done in the artistic way in concrete, and later was shipped to Chicago, where she was a prominent figure in a display made in Marshall Field's store. Venus has moved around somewhat, but has come to New York to stay and can be seen at the exhibition referred to. She is of modest proportions, standing on a pedestal which makes her about six feet high in all.

The Builders' Exposition.

"There will be a waiting list before the end of the year," said Mr. Isaac A. Hopper, president of the Building Trades and Employers' Association, referring to the prospects of the permanent exhibition of building materials being opened on the second floor of the Builders' Exchange Building, West 33d st.

"There are many concerns which have no office or showroom in New York, and it is going to be a splendid opportunity for them to have a display in the best possible place at a much less cost than if they maintained an establishment in this city. Inquiries received show that this belief is well founded. Once the installation of the exhibits starts the spaces will fill up with astonishing rapidity. Since the room has been completed and prospective exhibitors can see for themselves the excellent facilities afforded for displaying their goods, the daily average of contracts signed up has appreciably increased. There is no doubt of the success of the exhibition. The members of the association are all enthusiastic and are backing it up by engaging space."

A PYLON IN CONCRETE.—A building material display that combines artistic and unique features is that in course of construction for the Alsen Cement Company, 45 Broadway, in the exhibition rooms of the Concrete Association of America on the eleventh floor of the Brunswick Building, 5th av and 26th st. It will take the form of an Egyptian pylon, which was a monumental structure constituting an entrance to a temple or tomb in antiquity, and which consisted of a central gateway, flanked on each side by a truncated, pyramidal tower, with fine sculpture work on the walls. This unusual exhibit was designed by Mr. Ross F. Tucker, whose knowledge of the manufacture and use of cement is exhaustive and whose engineering ability is well known in New York. About the only difference between the ancient pylon and the modern imitation will be that Alsen labels will be in recessed panels where the doors would otherwise be. These will be illuminated with electric bulbs arranged for that purpose. The pylon will be made even more realistic by having two concrete sphinxes on pedestals before the entrance, following in an abbreviated way the ancient manner of having a double row of sphinxes from the pylon to the temple or tomb. The winged globe, symbolic of immortality, will also be seen. The work will be done under the superintendence of Mr. Geo. Beck.

OLD BRICK AT A DISCOUNT.—Used brick, such as is taken from demolished buildings, is bringing so little on the market now that wrecking companies are not going to the trouble of cleaning and reselling it. According to wreckers it costs from $2.50 to $3 a thousand to clean brick that could be used again, but as owners of buildings torn down seldom permit contractors to take the time to clean the brick on the spot, the handling involved in carting it away and the storage make it too costly to go to this trouble, more especially under the present conditions of the market. For to justify the cleaning and storing of old brick good brick would have to sell for about $7.

When the Rheinfrank House Wrecking Company, 620 East 14th st, started the demolition of the theatre adjoining the Fifth Avenue Hotel, to make way for the office building to be erected on that site, it was part of the contract that the brick could not be cleaned at the scene of operations, time being too valuable at such a busy corner.

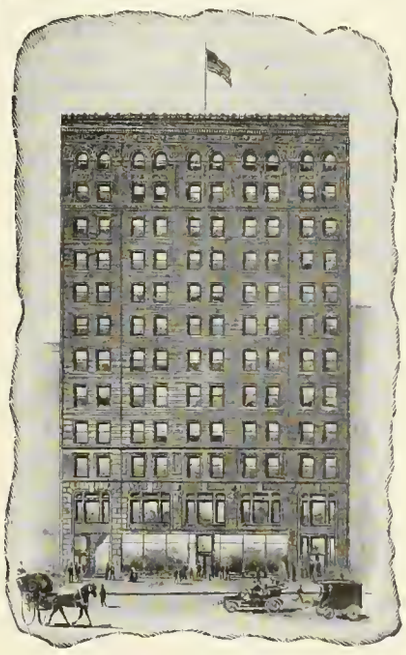
Enlargements and Improvements for the Empire Brick & Supply Co.

The Empire Brick and Supply Company have removed their executive offices from 874 Broadway to the Terminal Building, at Park av and 41st st, where they are handsomely located in a suite of offices on the twelfth floor. The company, which is one of the largest building material supply houses in the city, with works at Stockport and Glasgow, and yards in various parts of the city, is officered by Wright D. Goss, president; Robert Main, vice-president; William H. Edsall, treasurer; Robert W. Main, secretary.

The company to-day is in splendid shape to do big business. Not only are the executive offices centrally located and easily accessible from all points in Greater New York, but the various supply depots of the company have been located with the view to ensure the advantages of prompt service in any section of the Greater City.

The works of the company at Stockport have been recently overhauled and a new trestle structure has been erected for the carrying of trolley trains for brick materials, which will greatly increase the possible output of these works. At Glasgow various large improvements are just about complete; new docks have been constructed, the channel deepened, kiln sheds enlarged and new machinery and engines installed, until to-day it is one of the largest and best equipped yards in the country for the manufacture of common brick.

Flooring Concern Takes New Factory.



The American Hydrolith Company, 25 Dean st, Brooklyn, has been one of the fortunate and well-managed concerns which has not only weathered the financial storm, but has come out of the tempest better than when it went in. The present incorporation was made this year, the business of the Aristolith and of the American Hydrolith Co., being taken over. However, the company now announces that it is going into a new line of work, in addition to the manufacture of sanitary flooring, and has concluded arrangements for the rental of a factory from the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. in South Norwalk, Conn.

Machinery will be installed therein for the manufacture of asbestos boards, tile and shingles to be known as "Eterno" products, and later apparatus will be put in for the manufacture of an infusional earth pipe covering to be known as "Ultro." The American Hydrolith Co. will install 75-HP. individual motors, drawings for which have already been made, although the machines have not been contracted for as yet.

The flooring manufacture will be carried on as before at the Brooklyn factory, which was newly built this year, but after May 1st the general offices of the concern will be located in the Terminal Building, 103 Park av, Manhattan. Within a short time the company will be in the market for numerous electrical supplies, and an addition to the Norwalk factory is projected.

PRICES CURRENT

BRICK.—This has been the largest week in the brick market for the season to this date. The amount of material that is being taken up would indicate a large amount of brick building, but scarcely yet of normal proportions. About twelve cargoes a day have been sold for several days past. A considerable amount of work has been started on the Washington Heights and Harlem sections.

Having large supplies manufacturers have not been able to take advantage of the larger requirements. Shipments have been heavy and prices weak.

The Manufacturers as an association have set next Monday, May 11, for the resumption of brick-making in the yards.

CEMENT.—No improvement is noticed in the cement trade over what has been current for several weeks past. The demand is of some magnitude, but still not equal to the producing rate. Prices for domestic Portland are twenty cents a barrel below their level of a year ago.

IRON, STEEL, ETC.—The structural steel fabricators, in common with other lines in the building trades, are called on to figure on a good deal of work, but the developments are slower than a fortnight ago. Money seems a little less amiable. A builder who went to one of the lending institutions and was put off for a while longer—he wanted a loan to start twenty houses with—told the financiers that they deserved a treatment similar to what oil-wells used to get when they ceased to flow freely—that is, they ought to be torpedoed, somehow. Then maybe the money would flow again.

Official quotations on structural steel for buildings continue the same, but concessions are obtainable somehow when bids are asked on local jobs. We suppose it is a matter of individual determination of how much to sacrifice in order to keep things in motion.

Mr. Gifford, of Milliken Bros., Inc., 135 Broadway, states that his concern is estimating on many plans of buildings projected for New York city, but that few of them involve large amounts. Judging from the plans in the market the prospects of undertakings in the construction line of $100,000 and over have improved very little during the past few weeks. Reports from the representatives of New York contractors in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington state that building conditions are dormant, leaving out government work.

"I would not even estimate in Philadelphia," a local contractor remarked when asked if he was doing anything in the Quaker City. His reason was that the competition was so keen and prices so low that there was no inducement for a responsible outsider to go there.

A report from Pittsburgh intimates that a break has occurred in the bar-iron combination. Offers of material at $3 per ton under the combination price were made during the week:

The agreement among the manufacturers of lead pipe, which has been operated successfully for a year or more, has been broken, through fears of Government prosecution, and there is now an open market with lead pipe selling at 4.35c. f. o. b. New York, which is only 25c. over the market for pig lead. The price was formerly maintained at one cent over the market price for pig lead.

A fair degree of activity is noticeable in the tin plate market, and in roofing and corrugated sheets.

The Iron Trade Review says that owing to the general circulation of the report that powerful interests are in favor of adopting a new schedule based on $10.00 Birmingham, which would result in the sale of pig iron in many parts of the country at less than cost, only such buyers as have been compelled to come into the market for immediate needs have been placing orders, and keen interest is being manifested in meetings to be held next week and later in the month. While the probability seems to be in favor of lower prices, there is a possibility that an important proposition in harmony with the general movement in favor of maintaining reasonable prices will be submitted by certain interests which have been credited with making low quotations. Should this proposition be accepted, peace may result.

LUMBER.—Certainties under the irregular movements of quotations for lumber are more numerous this week. Hemlock quotations have fallen to a base price of $19 per M. wholesale. Spruce is off an average of $2 per M. all around from the prices formerly prevalent. Red Cedar shingles have fallen $1.45 in the same time. Maple flooring is from $2 to $3 less. White Pine uppers, as usually quoted in this paper, have dropped to$90@$93. Last November they ranged from $95@$114.

The same proportion does not carry all through the White Pine list, but nearly all the items which interest house builders show some reduction.

The quotations given in this list are the wholesale prices to the retail trade on well manufactured and graded stock, according to the inspection rules at present obtaining. It is not practicable to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable, because terms of sale and other factors influence prices.

STONE.—Conditions have greatly improved for cut-stone and granite. Money has become almost if not quite "easy," and business is picking up. Prices, however, as actually taken, either for rough material or for stonework, are much reduced from the boom period. About fifty per cent of the firms have little to do, twenty-five per cent are going along fairly, and twenty-five per cent are busy.

In general work is picking up. A good deal is going on in the Washington Heights district, also in New Jersey, and Brooklyn is reviving, especially along the subway lines. General contractors are able to make advantageous terms when they can present propositions in the best form,—often as much as twenty-five per cent less than former costs.

The contract for the stonework for the Second Battery Armory, at Franklin av and 180th st, Bronx, went to George Brown & Co. Long Meadow stone is called for, which Michael Cohen & Co. will furnish in the rough. C. C. Haight is the architect. Guidone & Gillardi general contractors.

Prices at which business is being taken disclose reductions in marble, limestone, freestone and bluestone. Belleville brownstone is out of the market, and Long Meadow freestone is growing in popularity. Competition is sharp, and few firms are willing to let a contract pass them by without making a very close figure for it. Under such circumstances quotations are in a greater or less degree nominal, though this condition of affairs may not long continue.

Auto Races and House Wreckers.

The purchase of 750 chairs and about 100,000 feet of board lumber by the B. W. Greene, Jr., Company, 18th st and Av B, wreckers, has disclosed some interesting facts about the long chances taken in business ventures nowadays. An enterprising promoter saw visions of quick and easy money in providing seats placed in advantageous positions along the course of the recent Briarcliff automobile race. He invested over $1,300 in the erection of a large grandstand and the purchase of hundreds of chairs. There was a tremendous crush at the race. In this respect his anticipations were borne out. But the total receipts from those who wanted to view the race from a grandstand were just $32 and some odd cents. He had no more use for chairs and quickly disposed of them to the B. W. Greene, Jr., Company, as well as the material in the grandstand.

When the company's men went up to Briarcliff to remove the material to the storage yards at Av B and 18th st, they found a man with about 1,400 nicely prepared sandwiches in his hands. Inquiry developed the fact that this promoter had 1,500 sandwiches ready for the sightseers, but that less than one hundred were disposed of. The company did not purchase the sandwiches, but the employees of the wrecking company "demolished" a large part of them.

Roofing Troubles Eliminated.

A business man finds it exceedingly good to have a clothes-cleaning establishment act as his valet and keep all of his wardrobe in first-class condition. A parallel to this elimination of petty annoyances in the everyday life can be found in various callings, but none so well as in the roofing business. The name of the Roof Maintenance Company, 55 E. 124th st, is indicative of this. Mr. L. C. Anderson, the president, states that an owner of a building can leave the care of a roof in the hands of his concern with as much assurance as he would leave his clothes to be attended to by a cleaner and renovator. The Roof Maintenance Company assumes the responsibility of keeping the roof of a house in perfect condition. The contract generally extends over a period of years, so that when the owner signs it he wipes off his business slate all of the grievances which tenants constantly make about leaky ceilings. The business of maintaining roofs has developed with the use of that part of apartment houses as drying places. An observer in a Sixth or Eighth av "L" in Harlem on washday can see enough linen on the roofs of apartment houses to open a big store. The result of this has been to require stronger roofs and more diligence in repairing them.

Depression Boomed Fire Brick.

According to Mr. Oscar R. Micals, of the Kreischer Brick Mfg. Co., 119 E. 23d st, the industrial depression of last winter had a curious effect on the fire brick business, causing an increase in the sales of that commodity. When Mr. Micais remarked in the course of a conversation that sales of face brick were not particularly large or frequent, but that the sales of fire brick were so satisfactory as to almost surpass in the aggregate those for the same period last year, the Record and Guide representative asked him for the cause of the discrepancy.

"When business is booming manufacturers do not close down to make repairs that are required from time to time, unless they are urgent," said Mr. Micais, "and the owners postpone them until a dull season. After so many plants closed down during the depression of last winter opportunity was afforded to make any alterations, improvements or changes that were wanted. The putting in or replacing of fire brick around the boilers, smokestacks and other parts of the factories where there is intense heat, was one of the first of the alterations to be made, and advantage was taken of the dull period to do this. The result was that orders for this class of brick came in more frequently and business in this line has been good."

Mr. Micais' statement was echoed by other brick supply dealers, although it was generally admitted that the orders did not come so fast that they could not be filled. Fire brick used where the heat is intense, as at blast furnaces, has to be replaced once or twice a year. In some parts of Pennsylvania a temperature of 4,500 degrees is kept up continually, notably at immense furnaces, and the brick does not endure the intense heat many months.

"I am not a calamity howler," said Mr. Micais, in discussing business conditions, "but I think that we can see now nearly all of the construction work that will go ahead this year. It is not much, and a good year should not be expected. Bills are not being discounted as frequently as they were last year, and more time is being requested on accounts. In the brick business payment is usually made not later than 30 days after delivery, but this time is too short for some of the contractors now."

The Kreischer Mfg. Company recently shipped an order for 300,000 fire brick to a Southern point.

Success Begets Success.

When the merits of any commodity are apparent it needs little booming. An illustration of this occurred the other day. Mr. C. Klock is replacing a Colonial mansion in Syracuse, N. Y., with a modern residence. The structure has been in the possession of the family for several generations, and when it was decided to erect a brick house it was also desired to perpetuate the white exterior of the old home. Mr. Klock came to New York to see what he could find in the way of building material to carry out this plan. While at the Waldorf-Astoria he called up Mr. Woodruff Smith, of the Sayre & Fisher Company, 261 Broadway, and asked him what the company had in the way of brick to help him out. Mr. Smith took him down to the City Investing Building, the facing and courts of which are covered with "white porcelain" enamel brick, about one million having been employed. Mr. Klock looked over the front of the structure on Cortlandt st and Broadway and he was satisfied. The result was that he ordered the same kind of enamel brick for the exterior of the residence he is putting up at Syracuse. About 40,000 will be needed.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Assay Office Building to Have High Chimney.

WALL ST.—The new United States Assay office building, for which bids are to be opened on May 12, to be erected at Nos. 30-32 Wall st, will provide for a brick, stone, reinforced concrete structure, 11-stys, 50x75 ft. A remarkable feature of the building will be the construction of a chimney over 400 ft. high, which will be the largest stack in Manhattan. This stack is considered necessary to carry off the poisonous fumes in the melting and refining of different metals, and this height is deemed essential on account of the surrounding lofty business buildings. James Knox Taylor, supervising architect, of Washington, D. C., has charge of the improvement. Previously mentioned.

Plans Ready for 3d Avenue and 121st Street Building.

MANHATTAN.—B. & J. P. Walther, 147 East 125th st, have completed plans for the two 5-sty warehouse and stable buildings, 126x100 ft., and 25x100.11 ft., to be erected by Edward Callan, of 119 West 120th st, on the southwest corner of 3rd av and 121st st, and on the north side of 120th st, 100 ft. west of 3rd av, at a total cost of $120,000. Seven buildings will be demolished. The exterior material will be of brick, bluestone trimmings, gravel roof, with steam heat, metal ceilings throughout. Cowperthwait & Sons (Furniture) will occupy the buildings under a long-term lease. No building contracts have yet been placed.

Broadway and 162d St. Improvement.

BROADWAY.—C. M. Silverman & Son, 3492 Broadway, will soon erect at the southeast corner of Broadway and 162nd st a 6-sty high-class apartment house, 99.11x90 ft., to cost in the neighborhood of $175,000. Plans for this are now being prepared by Messrs. Neville & Bagge, 217 West 125th st. At the southwest corner of Broadway and 162nd st, Henry T. Bulman, of Broadway and 156th st, is about to erect from plans by Schwartz & Gross, a similar 6-sty high-class apartment house to cost $200,000. (See issue of April 25, 1908.)

Ten-Story Loft Building for Rose St.

Private plans are now being prepared and the general contract has been awarded to the Libman Contracting Company, No. 1968 Broadway, for the erection of a fireproof ten-story steel frame elevator loft building to be situated on a plot about 25x92 ft., at No. 53 Rose st. Work will be commenced about August 1st. The front will be of light brick with granite and limestone trimmings, the interior will have metal ceilings and hardwood floors. Mrs. Louise Leavitt is the owner.

New Stone Works in Austin Place, Bronx.

Architects Moore & Landsiedel, 5th av and 148th st, state that plans are in progress for the erection of a frame 2-sty stone works to cover a plot 175x100 ft., for the Borough Cut Stone Co., of 142nd st and Walnut av, to be situated on the north side of Austin Pl, 71 ft. north of 144th st, Bronx. There will be two buildings both front and rear each 175x25 ft., and the space between will be trussed over and will have a traveling crane.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—The Heffron-Tanner Co. has taken possession of its new factory and warehouse at the corner of Richmond av and Tracy st. It was said this week that plans are being prepared for a new fireproof 4-sty soap factory which is to be erected on the land purchased. This is to cost $50,000.

HARTFORD, CONN.—Architects Zunner & Sellew are drawing plans for a new factory to be erected by the Eagle Dye Works. The site has not been definitely decided. The building will be 35x48 ft., three stories high, constructed of brick with gravel roof, steam heat, galvanized iron cornices, skylights and probably electric freight elevator. The interior will be largely concrete.

KEARNY, N. J.—Eugene J. and Sidney S. Schwarz and William Matthews, partners, trading as E. J. Schwarz & Bros. Co., of Cross and Ring sts, Newark, have just purchased from the Central Building and Loan Association, of the same town, a large factory site in the Kearny meadows. The property acquired is located in the southeast corner of Harrison and Greenfield avs, just west of the large plant of Swift & Co., with a frontage of 500 ft. on Harrison av and a depth of 641 ft. extending to Boland st, on which street the frontage is 570 ft. The frontage on Greenfie'd av amounts to 260 ft.

Halls and Clubs.

GENEVA, N. Y.—Plans have been completed by Arthur E. Nash, arch., Geneva, for a city hall to cost about $100,000.

PATERSON, N. J.—Fred. W. Wentworth, Citizens Trust Co. Bldg., Paterson, is ready for estimates for a 2-sty club building, 47x112 ft., at 130 and 132 Hamburgh av, for the Lincoln Club.

TORRINGTON, CONN. — Competitive plans have been received for the new club house to be erected by the Torrington Club. It will be of brick construction and will cost about $35,000. The building committee consists of E. H. Hotchkiss, C. H. Alvord and R. C. Swayze.

BAYONNE, N. J.—The building committee of the Bayonne City Republican Club has adopted plans for its proposed new club house. The committee decided to go ahead with the new building as soon as possible and it is expected ground will be broken in May. The cost will be about $15,000, two stories high, brick construction, with a spacious basement.

Hotels.

EAST ORANGE, N. J.—E. V. Warren, arch., 22 Clinton st, Newark, is preparing plans for a 5-sty hotel for Frank Leslie, East Orange. Bids will be received about June 1. Cost, $125,000.

BUILDING NOTES.

New York Parquet Flooring Co. have removed their office to 2 W. 125th st.

William Albert Swasey, F. A. I. A., architect, announces the removal of his offices to The Marbridge Building, Broadway and 34th st.

John T. Brady & Co., builders and general contractors, have removed their offices to the Terminal Bldg., Park av, corner of 41st st.

W. J. Taylor, general contractor will move his office from the fourth floor of the Transit Bldg., 5-7 East 42nd st to a more extensive suite on the sixth floor.

The General Electric Company, of Schenectady, N. Y., has removed its New York office from 44 Broad st to the Hudson Terminal, 30 Church st, Manhattan.

M. L. Rogell, 649 Columbus av, who makes a specialty of good painting, decorating and hardwood finishing, is ready for the spring rush and prepared to furnish estimates upon request.

Fred Dana Rhodes, consulting engineer, West Street Building, on account of the increase in his business, has been obliged to take a larger suite of offices, and has moved from the thirteenth to the fourteenth floor.

Mr. H. G. Perring, secretary of the Engineers' Club of Philadelphia, and formerly engineer with the Keystone Fireproofing Co., has been appointed by the General Fireproofing Co., of Youngstown, Ohio, as district manager at Philadelphia, with offices in the Drexel Building.

The M. B. Foster Electric Company, 1161 Broadway, Manhattan, has obtained the electrical contract for the State Armory and Arsenal at Hartford, Conn. The Whitney-Steen Co., 135 Broadway, is the general contractor. The contract for installing the electrical work in the new Provident Loan Society Building, 4th av, northwest corner 25th st, has also been awarded to the M. B. Foster Electric Co. The general contractor is Chas. T. Wills, Inc.

The members of the Building Trades and Employers' Association are rejoicing over the installation of new billiard and pool tables in the new social quarters of the association on the twelfth floor of the Builders' Exchange Building. The diversion of pool and billiards has been highly entertaining to the members and somewhat profitable to the association. The new tables are of the best and latest type and a sufficient number will be at the disposal of the members to supply the brisk demand.

C. Volney King, 517 West st, sole agent for Knickerbocker White Hydraulic Cement, has recently finished the front exterior wall of his building at 509-511 West st with this material. The cement has been blocked out to represent stone and is of interest to anyone intending to use white cement. Knickerbocker White Hydraulic Cement has been used for the ceiling of the new Importers and Traders National Bank, at Broadway and Warren st; also for the entrance hall of the apartment house at the southeast corner Madison av and 66th st.

The Fireprotection Company, Inc., 16 Cedar st, makes a specialty of improving buildings as required by the Board of Fire Underwriters and Fire Insurance Exchanges and the Building and Tenement House departments. For the past fifteen years the officers of this company have been directly connected with insurance interests, which qualifies them as experts in knowing the exact requirements necessary to reduce insurance rates. In the case of manufacturing buildings and extra hazardous risks, the Fireprotection Company has made reductions of from 20 to 40 per cent. in the insurance rate, and would be pleased to refer any one interested to a list of their satisfied clients.

The Homeseeker Architectural Co., Nos. 45-49 John st, Manhattan, is issuing an interesting booklet of photographs of representative up-to-date designs for suburban homes and bungalows. It contains illustrations of structures ranging in cost from $1,000 upward. The architectural department is thoroughly equipped, and is constantly working up new ideas with the view of reducing the cost of building and at the same time introducing every feature which will tend to make the home more attractive and convenient. Their object is to furnish plans and specifications at reasonable figures, same being careful'y made, figured and drawn to one-quarter inch scale, and cover the building in every detail.

A UNIQUE DISPLAY is being installed by the Alsen Cement Company, 45 Broadway, in the exhibition rooms of the Concrete Association of America, 225 5th av. The design is that of a tomb of antiquity and it will show the variety of uses to which Alsen cement can be put. Expense is not being spared to make the display one of the most artistic of its kind.

Exhibition Buildings.

SYRACUSE.—Several Pittsburg concerns have secured contracts for structural work and building material for the first of a group of buildings for the New York State Fair, Syracuse, N. Y. The Manufacturers and Liberal Art building, which will be 516x308 ft., including wings, is one of the buildings to be first erected. The Harbison-Walker Refractories Co., Manhattan, will furnish the brick, Standard Building Construction Co. will furnish concrete, stone for the ornamental work, while the structural iron work will be furnished by the McClintic-Marshall Construction Co.

Shipping Brick Across Continent.

The first shipment of 200,000 "Red Down Draught" brick ordered from the Sayre & Fisher Company, 261 Broadway, for the facing of the building that is being erected in San Francisco by the Royal Insurance Company of New York, will leave this week. The brick are the same as were used for the front of the handsome structure put up in New York by the Royal company, their fine appearance influencing the company to have the same brick used 3,000 miles away. The shipments will be made by rail. The structure was designed by Architects Howells & Stokes. The contractors are the Thompson-Starrett Company.

PROJECTED BUILDINGS

The first name is that of the ow'r; ar't stands for architect; m'n for mason, c'r for carpenter, and b'r, for builder.
When character of roof is not mentioned, it is to be understood that the roof is to be of tin.

THE WEEK.

Considerable activity developed in the realty market. A broader tendency was shown. Sales were well distributed, all sections of the city coming in for their share of deals consummated. The property on the north side of 39th st, Nos. 105 to 113 West, was sold to a company which contemplates the erection of a theatre. The 5-sty American dwelling 16 West 52d st, 25x100, was purchased by Mrs. Edith C. Iselin. The parcel 86 4th av, adjoining the holdings of Grace Church, was also disposed of. This is an old 4-sty building, with store, 19.6x75. The estate of Catherine Irwin sold 170 and 172 East 74th st, two 4-sty flats next to the corner of 3d av. This property was acquired by Mrs. Irwin in June, 1892. The price paid by her was $60,000. There were mortgages aggregating $38,000. In trade she gave 1612 Av A, a 5-sty brick tenement, 26x72, located on the east side of the avenue, 25.8 north of 85th st. The price obtained by her was $25,000, subject to a mortgage of $12,000.

One of the sales of importance consummated was that of the property known as 454 to 458 6th av, adjoining the southeast corner of 28th st. Part of this building was the original Varian mansion, which stood in the middle of the Varian farm, extending from 26th to 30th sts. The old house has been rebuilt and greatly enlarged for business purposes. Of recent years it has been used as a restaurant. The property was last transferred Nov. 16, 1865, when Gustavus A. Conover and wife and Charles E. Appleby and wife sold it to Felix Astoin for $16,250. The property is at present considered to be worth about $300,000. It is believed by many that this sale is the forerunner of many others in this zone. The section between 23d and 42d sts, from 8th to Lexington avs, will undoubtedly be the scene of many improvements. It has been the history of the city in the past that building operations follow the advent of railroads, and undoubtedly when speculators can see the approaching completion of the railroad terminals there will be many new projects commenced. The purchasers will not be able to get physical possession of the building until about three years from now, as that is the unexpired term of the present lease.

The "Riviera," a 7-sty apartment on the southeast corner of Broadway and 99th st, 55x125, figured in a trade for 789 Amsterdam av, a 5-sty flat. The property is situated in a desirable apartment district. There are several large apartment dwellings located in this vicinity. Joseph P. Day was to have sold 206 Lenox av, a 4-sty dwelling, at auction last Tuesday, but it was withdrawn and disposed of at private sale. This building has a frontage of 20 ft. and a depth of 80 ft. Washington Heights also came in for a goodly number of sales. The "Euafaula," a 6-sty elevator apartment house on the northeast corner of 139th st and Hamilton pl, 108x90x irregular, was purchased by S. Merrill Bamer. The vacant plot, 100x106, on Riverside Drive, on the southeast corner of 144th st, was sold to the Gracehull Realty Co., which contemplates the erection of a 6-sty high-class apartment house on the plot.

The Bronx also came in for a greater number of sales than for some time. The majority of these were small pieces, still the tendency of investors to place their money in this section is gratifying to the realty brokers.

The largest mortgage recorded was one for $50,000,000. The Interborough Rapid Transit Co. borrowed this amount from the Morton Trust Co. This mortgage covers a number of properties owned by the railroad company. The due date is Nov. 1, 1952. While the interest rate is not given, still it is stipulated that it shall not exceed five per cent. Arthur H. Hartshorn gave a mortgage to Mary D. Gerard for $100,000 on the property 400 5th av, 27.7x120. This mortgage covers a 25-48th interest, and on the property known as the Rockingham apartment house, on the southeast corner of Broadway and 56th st, 131.9x88.7x irregular, a 9-48th interest. Both these holdings are subject to the life estate of Julia L. Butterfield and are part of the James estate. The mortgage runs for three years and the interest rate is six per cent. The Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Co. loaned Nathan Hutkoff $65,000 for five years at 5½ per cent. on the property 401 and 403 Lenox av, on the northwest corner of 130th st, 46.10x90.

THE AUCTION MARKET

There were many parcels offered in the auction market. Not only were sales held at the Vesey st salesroom, but also a number of good properties were put up in the Bronx salesroom. In some instances good prices were obtained at this latter sale, which was held on Tuesday last at the stand of Julius H. Haas.

The vacant plot on the south side of 226th st, 280 ft. east of White Plains av, 200x114, was bought by J. Schambrue and Emil Leske for $9,950; the plot, 100x114, on the north side of 227th st, 480 ft. east of White Plains av, was knocked down to Edward J. Keating for $4,550; the block front on the east side of Oneida av, between 236th and 237th sts, 200x125, was sold to J. Martin for $11,000, and A. Brancato purchased the lot, 50x114, on the south side of 219th st, 481 ft. east of White Plains av.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day the 3-sty tenement No. 11 6th av, 111.7 north of Carmine st, 17.10x90, was knocked down to W. C. Razetti for $10,250; 144 Bleecker st, which is located 25 ft. west of West Broadway, was sold to David and Harry Lippman for $27,710. This latter property is a 3-sty tenement and store, 25x125. The 4-sty dwelling 118 West 80th st, 17.6x102.2, went to Albert L. Schomp for $22,000. The amount due was $20,837.58. A sale that created some interest was that of a 5th av lease. The building in question was 262 5th av, 29.5 south of 29th st, 20x100, and it was leased for a period of 15 years. It is a 5-sty structure and was sold by the order of the executors of Morris Grosper, deceased. Henry T. Randell purchased it for $12,000.

The market, from an auction standpoint, is still in an unsettled state, though the consensus of opinion is that some improvement has been shown lately. It takes some time to recover from the effects of the recent unpleasantness, but everything is righting itself nicely. There are several sales of importance scheduled in the outlying districts. The results will be watched with interest. It will pretty clearly determine the temper of the investing public toward suburban properties. Undoubtedly some bargains will be picked up at these coming sales, but taking it all in all, those who ought to be in a position to know say that fair prices will be obtained.

BILL REGULATING AUCTION SALES.

A bill introduced by Senator Cohalan requiring real estate when sold by order of the court to be disposed of in the borough as well as the county in which it is situated, passed the Legislature and is now before the Governor. This is the third year in succession that the bill has been introduced. The previous measures were opposed by Manhattan real estate interests. The effect of the bill would be to change the place of holding legal sales for Bronx property from the Exchange Salesroom in Vesey st to the real estate salesroom at 149th st and 3d av.

The Real Estate Auctioneers' Association is opposed to this bill for the following reasons: it divides the market and there can be but one legal salesroom; the present salesroom is officially recognized by the court as the proper place to hold all legal sales; the bulk of the foreclosure sales are conducted by lawyers and referees who have their office adjacent to Vesey st, and it would be a hardship on them and add additional expense to hold the sales in a distant place; operators often like to attend two sales at the same time and bid on properties offered by different auctioneers, and were they held in different places this would be impossible. The court was exceedingly particular where the salesroom should be located, when the association was forced to move from 111 Broadway. The stipulation was made that it should not be further north than Chambers st, not further east than William st, not further south than Wall st, nor further west than Church st. In other words, the court held that the sales must be near the Court House.

Bryan L. Kennelly said: "Nos. 14 and 16 Vesey st, the present salesroom, is the proper place to hold legal auction sales. The people with money live in this borough, and I like to sell to the people with money. Many are interested in two properties that are in different sales and offered on the same day. If one was sold in the Bronx and the other in Manhattan, surely one or the other would suffer. Undoubtedly it would be a great detriment. The large loaning institutions are in the vicinity of the present salesroom. Many business men like to attend one of these sales and get quickly back to their office. This would be impossible if the location of the salesroom were not convenient. The best place to sell real estate under foreclosure is near the Court House."

HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET.

The fourth annual dinner of the Real Estate Classes and Acmy Real Estate Club of the Y. M. C. A. was held Tuesday night at the Hotel Astor.

Mr. Francis E. Ward was toastmaster and presided most gracefully. Mr. Dowling spoke on the "Financing of Real Estate," and paid his respects to the appraiser with the large reputation and small knowledge of local values. He stated that he had never known one of these gentlemen to put a client "next to a good thing." He also advocated a large mortgage institution, which would make a specialty of issuing mortgage certificates of small denomination. Mr. Buttenwieser spoke on "The Outlook," and insisted that we were now having the silver lining of the recent dark cloud. Mr. Day urged the necessity of cooperation of real estate men and owners. Mr. Simon spoke on "Lot Operations," choosing as his text the words of Edmund Burke, "that a great object is always necessary whenever any property is transferred from hands that are not fit for that property to those that are." He said that was the aim of the real estate operator. The speech of Mr. Louis Wiley, of the New York Times, was brilliant and drew peals of laughter from the diners. The Hon. F. S. Rawson, of Richmond Borough, quoted George M. Curtis, "that God might have made more beautiful spots than Staten Island, but He didn't." Others speakers were William M. Kingsley and Clement J. Driscoll, of the New York American.

SUBWAY EXTENSION OPENED.

May 1st is a notable day for Brooklyn this year.

Everything is on the move. Among other things, the extension of the Brooklyn subway as far as the Long Island R. R. terminal at Flatbush and Atlantic avs was opened to the public. The trains now stop at Hoyt st, Nevins st and Atlantic av stations. The first train started from the Bronx and left Bowling Green at 1.02 a. m. Friday morning. It consisted of four cars. A large delegation of Brooklynites came to Manhattan to have the honor of riding on the first train. There was a great deal of cheering and jollification along the route. A special celebration has been planned in honor of the event.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

To the Editor of the Record & Guide:

"A" leases a store from "B" on January 1, 1908, for the term of one year at a rent of $100 per month up to May 1, 1908, and thereafter at a rental of $110 to January 1, 1909, on a verbal lease. Now "A" notifies "B" that he will move on May 1, 1908. Can "B" hold "A" liable for the other eight months rent?

Answer.—A verbal lease is valid for one year only, under the provision of law known as the "Statute of Frauds."

MR. G. RICHARD DAVIS LOOKING FOR A BIG BUILDING MOVEMENT.

"The mortgage money market," said Mr. G. Richard Davis, "has certainly improved since last Fall. April and May I consider the best months in the year. The reason is that money is easier.

"At present we are making a number of loans in Brooklyn and the Bronx at six per cent, while in Manhattan five and five and one-half per cent is the rule. In my opinion money will be tighter during the summer months and will not ease up perceptibly until after the Presidential election. This, however, is not at all an unusual condition.

"If one looks back over the records, it will be found that history is only repeating itself. Around the first of the year I stated in the Record and Guide that with a return to reasonable normal conditions mortgage investment would prove more popular in the future, and that undoubtedly interest rates would go down. I still hold to this opinion. I look for a big building movement shortly.

"The Pennsylvania section," concluded Mr. Davis, "will next come into prominence. Much confidence in this zone is being expressed by some of the large operators. The recent purchase by a well-known realty company of the property Nos. 454 to 458 6th av is a splendid case in point. The realization that the huge undertakings are actually nearing completion naturally brings this district into notice. That conditions will slowly right themselves is a reasonable opinion to hold."

ADJUSTMENT OF PARKER FIRE LOSS.

The adjustment of loss on the Parker Building, 223 to 231 4th av, owned by George E. Wallace, has been completed. The award is $369,000 on a sound value of $564,243 above the foundations. The total amount of insurance carried was $600,000. This fire started in the sixth floor, which was occupied by the Detmar Woolen Co. Mr. Charles R. Hedden represented the assured and Charles T. Wills the insurance companies, and these two gentlemen selected Mr. Otto Eidlitz as umpire. D. Everett Waid, of Waid & Willauer, Mr. Wallace's architect, acted as his representative on the Board of Survey called for by the Building Deaprtment.

THE ANTOINETTES AT AUCTION.—On May 19, by order of the referee, Mr. Dudley F. Malone, the group of apartments known as the Antoinettes at 480 to 482 Park av, 43 to 53 East 58th st and 54 East 59th st, will be sold at auction by Joseph P. Day. They have frontages of 50, 150 and 25 ft., respectively. The houses are 8 stys high and built in sections. Peter Herter was the builder. The property will be sold to satisfy a judgment of $642,000 secured by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. against Maria A. Herter and others. The houses will be sold separately and collectively.

STATUES AND DECISIONS AFFECTING OWNERS.

STATUTES.

BUT few of the legislative enactments of the past year have been of special interest as affecting realty; most of such as were in any wise connected with or related to it being of very amendatory nature as to already existing law of much the same purport.

Acts were passed of a confirmatory and enlarging nature as to acknowledgment and proof of Deeds, and Secretary of State and County Clerk's certificates as to the same. (L 1907, cc, 589, 633): requiring the filing of certificates of notarial appointment, and signatures with County Registers in counties where such exist (L 1907, cc 207, 559); amending laws as to the appointment of Commissioners of Deeds in other States and Foreign Countries (L 1907, c 142); and for the confirmation and curing of deeds by Attorneys in fact, prior to 1875 (L 1907, c 518).

Some statutes were enacted of a nature amending forms of legal procedure; as changes in proceedings for the Sale of Infants' lands and the conveyance of inchoate rights of Dower (L 1907, c 49).

Also with relation to sales of Trust property, mortgages and leases of same, notice to beneficiaries, and the proceedings thereupon. (L 1907, c 242.)

As to Corporations, in the purchase, sale, mortgage or lease of real property by membership corporations. (L 1907, c 197.)

Regarding New York City.—As to exchanging city land not of longer use for other and private property. (L 1907, c 302.)

Abolition of the Board of Rapid Transit Commissioners and establishment of Public Service Commissioners. (L 1907, c 429).

Affecting Building Laws, etc.—Many building restrictions in relation to heights of basements used as confectioneries (c 418): filing of contracts, assignments and orders (cc 360, 692); discharge of liens (c 395).

As to Assessments.—As to apportionment and reconsideration of assessments for local improvements in New York City. (L 1907, c 611, 678.)

Taxes.—As to redemption of lands sold for taxes, repayments to purchasers, etc. (L 1907, c 577.)

Torrens System of Title Registration.—Perhaps the most notable generally was an act of some importance with respect to general real estate interests in relation to the proposed adoption of the Torrens system of land registration of title, appointing a committee, through nomination by the Governor, to look into and report on the expediency of the adoption of the system by the State of New York. (L 1907, c 628.) Which report has been put in the form of an act, passed both Houses, and now before the Governor.

Mortgages.—Also with relation to mortgages some amendatory legislation was enacted, viz:

As to filing certificates of discharge of mortgages and noting same on margin of record. (L 1907, cc 289, 347, 621.)

As to Recording Tax on Mortgages.—L 1907, c 340, amending the well-known and oft-discussed changes from an annual tax to a once-for-all recording tax of fifty cents on the hundred dollars. The year's amendments mainly providing for taxation by property value where no fixed amount is secured, or maximum stated. Also for filing statements each year in cases of mortgages for prior advances; also permitting old mortgages of record to be brought within the new recording tax and its subsequent exemptions—this latter the most valuable and needed.

DECISIONS.

Among the decisions of the Courts of most interest perhaps are those which may be classified as affecting owners and their rights and those relative to brokers, including most particularly their many and oft-litigated claims to commissions for effecting sales, leases and mortgage loans.

Also such decisions as affect sellers and purchasers of real estate under contracts of sale, and also those affecting the owner of real estate as regards the leasing of the same.

Some of the most important and interesting of these follow in the order named.

BROKERS.—The decision of the Court of Appeals (Frank L. Fisher Co. v. Woods, 187 N. Y. 90), declaring unconstitutional the 1901 law which made it a misdemeanor for any person in a city of the first and second class to offer for sale any real estate without the written authority of the owner, or his attorney, or of a person who had made a written contract for the purchase of the property with the owner, was of perhaps the paramount interest to all brokers of this vicinity, and relieved a situation in which Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court were in direct disagreement.

COMMISSIONS.—The principle that a sale to another party by the principal before production of their customer by the brokers, abrogates their employment was emphasized in Ettinghoff v. Horowitz. (115 App. Div. 571.)

As a producing cause of sale, in Lovett v. Clench (115 App. Div. 635), the broker was awarded a commission though his proposed purchase was not accepted at the figure agreed upon by the owner, and the owner made a sale direct at a higher price.

INAUGURATING A NEW SYSTEM.

Within a few weeks it will be possible for any property owner in either Manhattan or The Bronx to quickly and easily obtain a statement of his taxes and assessments. The archaic system of the Bureau of Assessments and Arrears is fast being modernized, and in place thereof an up-to-date system of records is being instituted. Previously it required the services of an expert examiner to search for taxes and assessments, but under the new method even the novice will experience little trouble in ascertaining the desired information. The work of resystematizing the records necessitated the hiring of about one hundred expert clerks, whose temporary employment dated from March 4, 1907. It is understood that the sum expended for their salaries has largely been repaid by an appreciable reduction in the cancellations of interest, formerly traceable to errors through the omission of clerks to furnish a taxpayer all his bills when he requested them. These cancellations in 1907 amounted approximately to $57,983.66, principally covering payments between 1900 and 1905. According to the figures of the Controller the cancellations in 1907 were 75 per cent less than in the preceding year.

In place of the old complicated system a ledger page account will be kept with every parcel of property in the city, in which all taxes and assessments will be charged as rapidly as they accrue. Provision has likewise been made for crediting payments. A card index will also be kept containing like information, including additional data apprising the searcher of tax sales, assessment sales and redemptions.

No less important to the property owner is the new Division of Notification, so that bills may be mailed as assessments are entered. In order to take advantage of the new service property owners are required to file their names with the bureau.

BRONX ACCELERATORS AT WORK.

Thoroughly aroused by the prominence given to real estate in Long Island and New Jersey by the opening of the East and Hudson River tunnels, representative real estate brokers and business men of the Bronx met in the rooms of the North Side Board of Trade, 138th st and 3d av, on Wednesday evening and formed an auxiliary committee of the board for the purpose of carrying on an energetic campaign to attract public attention to the advantages of the Borough of the Bronx.

The call for the meeting was signed by William J. Williamson, Peter A. O'Hara, Clement H. Smith, Charles F. Mehltretter and Charles Ullman, who constitute the Committee on Real Estate of the North Side Board of Trade. Former President James L. Wells presided, and urged the raising of a fund for advertising the Bronx. Messrs. Mehltretter, Davies, Price and others offered to contribute. Mr. Wells said he thought the large property owners of the Bronx who would derive the most benefit from its development should be asked to contribute.

The following sub-committee on ways and means was then appointed: J. Clarence Davies, William J. Williamson, Peter O'Hara, Charles F. Mehltretter, Wesley H. Trimmer, Clement H. Smith, Charles E. Reid, Albert E. Davies, Charles W. Bogart, A. Weiner, E. H. Thornton, Louis Kuntz, Julius H. Haas, Charles Ullman and Charles A. Webber.

Albert E. Davis stated that an edition of 5,000 copies of "A Bronx Catechism," describing the advantages of the borough, was being distributed, and that copies were being sent to Long Island and New Jersey.

Mr. Davies appointed the following committee on Plan and Scope: James L. Wells, William J. Williamson, Albert E. Davis, Julius Haas, Alphonse Weiner and Charles W. Bogart.

TAXPAYERS' ASSOCIATION MEETS.—A business meeting of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association was held on Friday evening, April 24, in the Corrigan Building, Broadway and 157th st. Several matters of importance were brought up, including the shortage of water supply and pressure, the ash and garbage dump on Riverside drive and the subway train service. On the complaint of this association a public hearing was held in the offices of the Public Service Commission, Tribune Building, on April 22. The question of extending the local train service north of 137th st to Dyckman and the extension of the Dyckman expresses to Kingsbridge was brought up.

EXCESSIVE AWARDS FOR HIGHBRIDGE PARK.—The awards for the proposed Highbridge Park were not acted upon by Justice McCall in the Supreme Court on Tuesday owing to his having an indirect interest in the proceedings. It is expected that the Corporation Counsel will follow up his announced intention of opposing the matter on the ground that the awards in several instances are excessive. The awards amounted to $821,249 for 76 lots on Edgecombe road.

LARGE LOAN ON FIFTH AVENUE.—William K. Vanderbilt loaned on the property 507 5th av $250,000 to Eliza L. Parsons and another. This property has a frontage of 36 ft. on the avenue and a depth of 133 ft. on the northerly side of the plot and 108 ft. on the southerly side. It is located 27.5 north of 42d st. There is a 12-sty fireproof building now in the course of erection on the site.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assesment roll of 1907.

NEW YORK, October 1, 1907.

GENTLEMEN: I think the way you examine and look after water meters is certainly a great benefit to real estate holders. I am well pleased with the system you have in sending monthly reports, showing first what amount of water was used and the condition the plumbing is in. Wishing you success, I am

Respectfully yours,

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then followa, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the lettera "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a atreet, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchaae Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars aee the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the aame, only one is given.

Subscribera will find mortgagea in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the inatrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

April 24, 25, 27, 28, 29 and 30.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) Signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against corporations, etc., will be found at the end of the list.

Office and Loft Buildings.

KINGSTON, N. Y.—Louis Galte will erect a 2-sty brick office building at Kingston. No contracts have yet been awarded.

COHOES, N. Y.—Frederick W. Kavanaugh will erect a 3-sty office building on Ontario st, Cohoes. Fuller & Pitchard, of Albany, are the architects.

MANHATTAN.—Work will soon be started for the 3-sty office and store building, 25x75 ft., which M. Kaliski, 79 Mercer st, will erect at the northeast corner of Chrystie and Grand sts, same to cost $20,000. Samuel Sass, 23 Park Row, has plans ready. No contracts let.

Plans Wanted.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—The Rochester Chamber of Commerce, Rochester, N. Y., realizing the necessity of interesting investors in providing cottage houses to care for the rapidly increasing population of the city, has offered $600 in prizes in a competition for three classes of dwellings, one to cost not in excess of $1,500; the second not to exceed $1,250, and the third $1,000. There are three prizes for each class of cottage, and in making the awards the chief considerations will be convenience of arrangement, economical construction and tasteful appearance. The competition will close July 1, and is open to any who may desire to enter. Detailed particulars can be obtained from S. R. Clarke, secretary, the Rochester Chamber of Commerce.

Board of school government, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., will receive competitive plans for a high school to be erected on North Washington st, not to exceed $300,000 in cost, exclusive of heating, ventilating, electric wiring and electric power. Fireproof material, stone, brick, iron or concrete. The plans must provide for a gymnasium, also 24 rooms and auditorium to seat 1,500 people, and are to be delivered not later than the first Monday in June. The successful architect will receive 5 per cent of the cost of building. The architect submitting the second best plans is to receive $200 and third best $100. The directors are Dr. G. W. Guthrie, pres.; Dr. W. G. Weaver, secy.; Dr. Charles Long, Dr. Boyd Dodson, Iorwerth Jones and A. E. Burnaford.

Power Houses.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—General contract for the power house of the New York Orthopaedic Society, at White Plains, was awarded to J. V. Schaefer, Jr., & Co., of 11 E. 59th st, Manhattan. The architects are Delano & Aldrich, 4 E. 39th st, Manhattan, and plans call for a brick and terra cotta structure, 1-sty high, 35x55.

Schools and Colleges.

CLIFTON, N. J.—Wm. P. Fanning, Colt Bldg., Paterson, N. J., is receiving estimates for a 2-sty addition to school No. 7, 38x64 ft., for the Board of Education, Clifton, N. J.

EAST BLOOMFIELD, N. Y.—J. Mills Platt, Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Rochester, N. Y., has prepared plans for a school building, 60x100 ft., for the town of East Bloomfield, N. Y. Estimated cost, $25,000.

LAKEVIEW, N. J.—Wm. P. Fanning, Colt Bldg., Paterson, N. J., is preparing plans and will receive bids for a 2-sty school building, 70x80 ft., for the Board of Education, Lakeview, N. J. Estimated cost is $30,000.

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, L. I.—Contract for the Rockville Centre School was awarded to the H. W. Otis Company, 39 E. 42nd st, Manhattan. Wilson Potter, 1 Union sq, Manhattan, prepared the plans; building is to be of brick, 2 stories, and cost about $35,000.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Aldermanic Committee on Schools will inspect old school No. 13 in connection with the agitation that has been begun to have the school razed and a new one erected in its place. Ald. Fuhrmann expects to offer a resolution calling for bids.

HUNTINGTON, L. I.—Adden & Parker, 12 Bosworth st, Boston, and Wm. S. Phillips, 103 Park av, Manhattan, are preparing plans for a 3-sty reinforced concrete steel, terra cotta and fireproof school building, 65x150 ft., to be erected at Huntington. Geo. C. Henrickson, chm. building committee.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—P. J. Carlin Construction Co., 16 E. 23d st, Manhattan, has obtained the contract for constructing a 3-sty parochial school for St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Congregation, Brooklyn. The building will be erected on Sterling pl, west of Sixth av, and will extend through to Park pl. Rev. W. McCarthy is rector of St. Augustine's Church.

PORT WASHINGTON, L. I.—Plans will be ready for bidders May 9 and estimates will be received by Herbert Smith, secretary school board, until 8 p. m, June 3d, for a new high school to be erected at Port Washington, to cost $70,000. The materials will be light brick, terra cotta trim, slate roof, steam heat. Ralph E. Dusinberre and Frank T. Cornell, 125 East 23d st, Manhattan, are associated architects. Samuel L. Hewlett, Roslyn, L. I., is president board education.

Theatres.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Efforts are being made, it is said, to obtain options of property extending from Elm to Cortland sts for the purpose of erecting a new vaudeville theatre. The talked-of site is only a short distance from Main st.

HOBOKEN, N. J.—J. Hamilton & Son, 348 W. 27th st, Manhattan, have received the carpentry contract on the Hoboken Theatre, which is to be built on Washington st, Hoboken. The architect is T. W. Lamb, 224 5th av, New York City.

Stables and Garage Buildings.

MANHATTAN.—No contracts have yet been placed for the 5-sty stable, 25x97 ft., which the Eighty-nine Thompson Street Co., 25 Liberty st, is about to construct at No. 89 Thompson st, from plans by Otto L. Spannhake, 233 East 78th st. Estimated cost is $25,000.

Vol. LXXXI. MAY 9, 1908. No. 2095

THE Mason Builders' Association of this city is opposed to the idea of having a body of men to be called "registered constructors" in possession of the exclusive privilege of submitting plans and specifications and superintending the construction of buildings and alterations in New York. A provision which would bring such a privileged class into existence was incorporated into the building code, which last year's commission recommended, and the architectural profession is represented as being in favor of retaining this provision. It would be the exclusive right of a registered constructor to certify upon the completion of a building that the work had been carried on in accordance with the plans and specifications filed, and until such a certificate of proper performance was received the Building Bureau would not have the power to issue a permit for the occupancy of the building. In order to obtain registry as a competent constructor an applicant would appear before a board of examiners and give evidence of his capacity, and it is very probable that some of those who have been carrying on business as general contractors and builders would fail to pass the examination. This of itself might not be a matter of much regret, but the power which the successful ones would hold in their hands is contemplated with apprehension. Should a registered architect decline to issue a construction certificate upon the completion of a work, for any cause, the owner and builder would be placed in a serious position. Unquestionably the intention of the commission of last year was to ensure a proper enforcement of the building laws, but the builders are apprehensive that in actual practice, under a law of that sort, far greater evils would germinate. A recommendation which they regard more favorably is that the superintendent, in the exercise of his discretionary power, shall make a public record of his decisions and that it shall be allowable to cite these as precedents in subsequent cases. Between this new safeguard and the right to appeal to the present Board of Examiners there would seem to be no possible way for an injustice to be permitted or a mistake to happen.

THE latest announcement is that the block between Sixth and Seventh avenues, Thirty-first and Thirty-second streets, will be improved by a department store rather than a hotel. If this announcement proves to be correct, the store will be of more benefit to the neighborhood than a hotel would have been. A huge department store attracts more people into its vicinity than does any other class of business enterprise. It makes other property in the same neighborhood more than ever available for general business purposes; and its effect will be to increase the value of good business sites both on Sixth and Seventh avenues. Moreover, we imagine that a department store on this block will be a more profitable enterprise than a hotel would have been. The Pennsylvania Railroad terminal will, of course, deposit thousands of passengers from all over the country at Seventh avenue and Thirty-second street, but for every one long-distance traveler who uses the terminal there will be ten or twenty suburban residents of Long Island and New Jersey. A department store would be much more useful to the suburban passenger than would a hotel, and it is his needs which are likely to be consulted. The whole future of this neighborhood will be determined to a considerable extent by the wants of the prosperous inhabitants of New Jersey and Long Island. In this connection it is interesting to note that a recent prophecy of the Record and Guide is already by way of being fulfilled. The prediction was made that the first signs of a revived speculative interest in real estate would be exhibited in the so-called Pennsylvania district, and such has in a measure already proved to be the case. A certain buying movement on Sixth avenue, between Twenty-third and Thirty-first streets, has already put in an appearance, and the neighboring side streets are also being affected by a similar agitation. There can be little doubt that this district will offer the best opportunity for profitable purchases during the next few years.

NOW that the Legislature has granted to the Public Service Commission the power of engaging the assistance of private capitalists in the important work of subway construction, it is to be hoped that no time will be lost in planning to take advantage of this power. The commission is under no necessity of proceeding with the same caution that it was obliged to use when its action was restricted by the possible borrowing power of the city. It can plan a fairly comprehensive system of Manhattan subways—together with certain Bronx connections; and in making such a plan it will be restricted only by the consideration that the attempt to construct too many subways all at once will alienate rather than attract private capital. The number of subways which can be built is limited because only a limited number possess a good chance of being immediately profitable. But this limit will leave room for the immediate building of several tunnels—provided the routes of these tunnels are laid out to supplement rather than to compete one with another. This last proviso is, however, extremely important. New subways which compete sharply either with existing subways or with each other have a much smaller chance of being profitable than subways which do not so compete; and in case the Public Service Commission wishes to arrange for the largest possible increase in the means of rapid transit, it should avoid in the routes selected the danger of competition. It should lay out a system of new subways, which supplement one another in creating new traffic rather than interfere with one another or with existing subways merely by redistributing traffic which already exists. The first condition, consequently, of laying out a tolerably complete system of new subways is the abandonment of the Broadway-Lexington avenue route upon which the commission is already working. The laying out of this route may have been justified when it was a question of building only one longitudinal subway, but it is wholly unjustifiable now that the opportunity is presented of planning a more comprehensive system. The proposed Broadway-Lexington avenue route interferes absolutely with the construction of an economical and comprehensive subway system. To build it as it is laid out would be to waste many million dollars in useless competition, and in this way to diminish by just so much the value to the public of the money invested in additional means of transit.

THE Broadway-Lexington avenue ronte would in that portion north of Forty-second street, meet the most critical current need for the construction of a new subway. The upper East Side undoubtedly has a better title to a new subway than has any other portion of the city, and any arrangements that are made should provide for the construction of such a tunnel with the least possible delay. But the obviously economical manner of laying out an Upper East Side subway is to connect it with the existing subway at Forty-second street. To provide an independent route to the Battery for an Upper East Side tunnel means that south of Forty-second street the city will have two subways within a block one of another, and none at all in the many blocks farther to the east and the west. Competition is provoked under conditions which make it useless, because the rates of fare and the train schedules are fixed in advance. It strains the resources of the two competing corporations without benefiting the public, and it diminishes by just so much the efficiency of the rapid transit system of Manhattan. It all comes to the following conclusion: that the Public Service Commission cannot do better than to return to the system of new subways laid out by the old Rapid Transit Commission. That system provided admirably for every possible contingency. It provided for an upper East Side and a lower West Side subway; and it provided for them under conditions which secured every public interest and anticipated every reasonable capitalist demand. If the Interborough Company could afford to offer more advantageous terms for these two extensions, that company could secure the right to build and operate them in connection with its present system. On the other hand, should an independent corporation be in a position to offer the city better terms for an independent system, it was arranged that the upper East Side and the lower West Side subways could be extended by lower East Side and upper West Side connections. The question was fairly and conclusively asked whether the city had more to gain from building a new and independent subway system or from the extension of the existing subway. No answer was obtained at the time, because the terms in general did not prove attractive to private capitalists, but if a similar question were asked at the present a decisive and profitable answer would be evoked. A franchise with fifty years to run would arouse active competition between the Interborough Company and any other possible combinations of capital at the moment when alone competition would be useful—viz., at the time when the franchises were granted. The objection which the Record and Guide has to the Broadway-Lexington avenue route is that it judges the whole question in advance. It decides in favor of a new and independent system of subways without any preliminary test of the comparative public advantage of a policy of extending the existing subway or of the opposite policy. By the mere fact of laying out a route which parallels the present subway from Forty-second street to the City Hall it diminishes competition at the time when it is useful, only to increase it at the time when it is useless. The desirable competition between rival rapid transit companies must take place rather when the contracts are being let than when the trains are being operated, and the only way to secure such desirable competition is to lay out two alternative routes—one connecting with the present subway both on the east and the west sides, and one independent of it. That is what the old Rapid Transit Commission did, and the Public Service Commission cannot do better than to follow this example. The Legislature has freed its hands absolutely in the matter by allowing it to grant franchises for fifty years and by allowing it to arrange for extensions with existing companies, and the policy adopted by the commission should be as broad and comprehensive as are the powers which have been lodged in its hands.

AS TO THE PLACE FOR LEGAL SALES.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

In your last issue, on page 823, you have an article headed "Bill Regulating Auction Sales," in which article Mr. Bryan L. Kennelly makes some statements which need correction.

His entire argument is that the Vesey Street Auction Room is the best place to sell Bronx real estate—because the moneyed people are in Manhattan, all the large institutions are in Manhattan, and lawyers interested are in Manhattan. I would call his attention, as well as that of others, to the same issue, on page 830, where it is shown that Bronx real estate sold in Manhattan does not bring a fair amount of money, but in most cases is sold to the plaintiff with a deficiency judgment against the man who loses his property. On that page you will find some sales, amongst which are these:

Freeman st, n e s, 100 ft. s e of West Farms road, 84.5x60.11x133.9x131.9; amount due, $4,414.45, taxes, &c, $14.48; and yet this property was sold for $4,300.

Southern Boulevard, 54.7 e of Av St John, 420.7x102.6, &c, vacaut; amount due, $37,583.67, taxes, $2,211.85; sold to the Mutual Life Insurance Co. for $30,000.

149th st, No 202; amount due, $6,471.87, taxes, $296.99; first mortgage, $18,000; sold to the Mutual Life Insurance Co. for $20,650.

Lyman pl, e s, intersection 7th av, vacant; amount due, $13,536.50; sold to the Lawyers Title Insurance Co. for $9,500.

No. 1727 Washington av; amount due, $4,449.11; first mortgage, $10,000; sold for $14,105, in each case leaving a deficiency judgment.

If these properties had been sold in the Bronx and properly advertised, as foreclosure sales should be, they would in most cases bring at the lowest the amount of mortgage and the cost of foreclosure.

You may look over the records as far back as you like, and you will find that in at least 60 per cent. of the foreclosure sales of Bronx property in Manhattan a deficiency judgment has been recorded against the person who loses his property. This, in our opinion, is wrong. We believe that it is bad enough for a man to lose his property without being punished with a deficiency judgment.

Hoping that the Governor will sign the bill, I am most respectfully yours,

JULIUS H. HAAS.

MR. SAMUEL B. DONNELLY, secretary of the General Arbitration Board of the New York Building Trades, left this week for the Panama zone. He was accompanied by Mr. Jas. B. Reynolds, former secretary to ex-Mayor Seth Low. It is understood that Mr. Donnelly's trip is primarily to look into the labor problems at the isthmus, at the instance of President Roosevelt. He will be away six or seven weeks.

CELLAR OCCUPANCY IN TENEMENT HOUSES.

The decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court relative to cellar occupancy in tenement houses, in relation to the houses on the southerly side of 140th st, between 7th and 8th avs, as reviewed in the Record and Guide two weeks ago, is of such a character that it seriously interferes with what has been the practice of the Tenement House Department in regard to the occupancy of rear cellar rooms, which has been uniformly allowed for the past few years, where the ceiling is but 2 ft. above the curb whenever the yard is excavated to a depth of 6 ins. below the cellar floor.

Under this sweeping decision all such occupancy is illegal, notwithstanding the permits which have been obtained from the Tenement House Department, and many owners are thereby placed in a most peculiar position.

In order to meet this situation and to square the law with the practice of the Tenement House Department, Senate bill No. 1224 was introduced late in the season and has passed both houses and is now in the hands of the Governor. This Bill amends sub-divisions 2 and 4 of Section 91 of the Tenement House Act, so as to be in accord with existing practices and allows the occupancy of rear cellar rooms if the ceiling is 2 ft. above the curb and the yard and courts are excavated to a depth of 6 ins. below the floor. It, however, restricts such occupancy exclusively to that of the janitor and his family. It limits the number of rooms to 5. It further provides that there shall be no interior apartments and that no apartment can extend more than 25 ft. from the front or rear, and provides further that all apartments must be on the street or yard. If apartments are placed upon the street they must be in accord with the decision of the court previously referred to. This decision is retroactive only in so far as it gives relief to certain types of apartments where the occupancy of the fronts of the cellars have been declared illegal by reason of the ceiling not being 4 ft. 6 ins. above the curb, and allows the cellars to be occupied at the rear if adjoining yards and courts are excavated as above described.

We are informed, however, that it offers no relief to the houses built in conformity with this ruling upon permits issued before the decision of the Appellate Division.

SEVERE FIRE TEST FOR SKYSCRAPER.

There have been several fires in "skyscrapers" within a few years, but perhaps none of them has afforded such a thorough test of modern fireproof construction as that which occurred recently on the eighteenth floor of the Tribune Building in Chicago. It is said to have been the highest fire, worthy of the name, that has ever occurred in any building. That the fire was an exceedingly hot one is shown by the fact that it entirely destroyed the asbestos covering of a pipe.

The Tribune Building is eighteen stories high, with storage rooms on the Dearborn st side of the top floor. The fire started, from some unknown cause, in one of these rooms, just under the roof. It had gained great headway before an alarm was turned in. The glass skylight, with reinforcing wire, melted in spots, and in others became so soft that it dropped down in fantastic shapes.

The significant feature of the fire, from the viewpoint of the constructor, was that it was confined to three small storage rooms. The firemen reported that it would probably have been confined to one had it not been for small windows in the partitions of hollow terra cotta blocks. These partitions were not damaged by the fire, though there was nothing left, afterward, of the abestos composition covering a six-inch water pipe that ran through the room. The pipe itself was heated to a cherry red, indicating the intensity of the fire.

When the fire reached a hollow-tile partition without a window, it could go no farther. The terra cotta prevented any damage to the steel, and the partitions were intact after it was all over. The floor beams of the same material were found to be uninjured, though the wooden finish flooring was burned entirely through at several places.

In an adjoining room were stored the records of the auditing department and the files of the Tribune for the sixty-seven years that have passed since the paper was established. Though the fire raged for some time on the other side of a partition from them, the records and files were not damaged.

OBITUARY NOTE.

Last Monday there passed from the field of architecture and building one of its oldest members—Mr. Bartolomew Walther, 147 East 125th st. He was born in Germany Jan. 2, 1833, and, coming to New York with his father and mother in 1837, was apprenticed to the carpenter trade in this city in 1848. He erected his first building for his father in 1853, in Harlem, and was ever after identified with building interests. He had graduated from the carpenter boy to carpenter boss, and to be the respected and oldest architect in Harlem.

POWERS OF THE BUILDING CODE COMMISSION.

AT a hearing given by a committee of the Building Code Revision Commission, which committee has in charge the matter of the discretionary power of the Superintendent of Buildings, the speakers were Messrs. Jesse D. Crary, secretary of the New York Lumber Trade Association; Wesley D. Bush, of the Brooklyn Builders' Exchange; John C. Coleman, of the West End Association; Charles H. Israels and E. D. Litchfield, of New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects; Warren A. Conover and Charles A. Cowen, of the Mason Builders' Association, and Richard Gordon Babbage, of the Allied Real Estate Interests.

The proposition embodied in the code reported by the last commission, providing for the publication of the decisions of the superintendents, and for keeping an accessible record thereof, was generally approved. The views of the architectural profession were presented by Mr. Israels. The project to have "registered constructors," as proposed in the code recommended last year, was brought up by Mr. Litchfield, in some favorable remarks, and was vigorously opposed by Mr. Conover, who said that it would be productive of "graft" and give rise to a great deal of trouble.

Mr. Conover asked the chairman if the regulation for registration meant license, and the chairman answered that, while the present commissioners were in no wise bound by the action of last year's body, he thought that what was referred to when the question of registration was under consideration was license; but he did not know that the Commission had the power to establish a board of examiners and to do other things in order to carry out the plan for licensing constructors.

Mr. Conover then said that the New York State Builders' Association was opposed to licensing, and he thought that the Mason Builders' Association of this city would take a similar stand. In the State association it was felt that if such a measure were ever enacted it should be part of the law of the State of New York.

During the hearing a new point in building legislation was brought out in an interesting colloquy which took place between Mr. Israels, who appeared on behalf of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and Mr. Edward B. La Fetra, who was acting as chairman of the committee. In the course of his remarks Mr. Israels called attention to section 410 of the charter and assumed that any changes that might be made in the code would have to be consistent therewith. The chairman thereupon stated that it was an open question whether the Building Code Revision Commission had not the power to alter the charter itself, so far as it referred to building matters, on account of the broad provisions contained in section 407 of this instrument. If this be true it opens the way to a considerable amount of remedial legislation, which is not generally considered as being within the province of the Building Code Revision Commission.

After the hearing Mr. Israels said that the proposition was so new to him that he did not care to express an opinion on the subject, but that he would secure legal advice and transmit any opinions that he might be able to get to Mr. La Fetra, as he had requested. Mr. Israels also said that he had referred the matter to Mr. Babbage, of the Allied Real Estate Interests, and to Mr. Walter Lindner, of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company.

He further said that, while it was his general opinion that no purely municipal body had the right to supersede any of the acts of the State Legislature, it was his opinion that the provisions of this section were so broad that a number of municipal ordinances, such as those in relation to projections of bay windows and ornamental propections, might be validated if included in the code, on account of the broad provisions of section 407, which stated that the "Board of Aldermen shall have power, from time to time, to amend such Building Code and such laws to provide therein for ALL matters affecting or relating to the construction, alteration or removal of buildings or structures erected or to be erected in the City of New York," and by stretching this interpretation still further it might be possible to include even such matters as are charter provisions themselves.

Mr. Israels further stated that he had heard that the proposition was even being considered to stretch this provision so as to include the Tenement House Act within the code.

Notice is given that a public hearing will be given by the Committee on Fire Limits on Wednesday, May 13, at 2 o'clock, in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall. The meeting will be for the purpose of hearing suggestions for the amendment of the Building Code in relation to location of the boundaries of the fire limits, and all persons interested in the subject will receive a hearing.

The committee is composed of Messrs. Thomas L. Hamilton, chairman; Edward F. Croker, Charles G. Smith, J. D. Moore, Washington Hull, Edward S. Murphy, Superintendent of Buildings, Borough of Manhattan; David F. Moore, Superintendent of Buildings, Borough of Brooklyn; P. J. Reville, Superintendent of Buildings, Borough of the Bronx; Carl Berger, Superintendent of Buildings, Borough of Queens; John Seaton, Superintendent of Buildings, Borough of Richmond.

Notice is also given that a public hearing will be given by the committee on carpenter work and woodwork on Wednesday, May 20, at 2 o'clock, in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall. The committee is composed of Messrs. Thomas L. Hamilton, chairman; Charles B. Meyers, Charles H. Cullen, Daniel Callahan, J. D. Moore.

THE LOWER COST OF BUILDING.

Mr. J. Henry Deeves, the builder, is of the opinion that the cost of building construction is twenty per cent. less than about two years ago.

"While there has been no reduction in the labor market," said Mr. Deeves, "the material market has decreased, and all classes of trades and employers in the building trades are doing work with little or no profit simply to keep their plants going during this present financial depression. This is particularly true in the iron foundries and the steel fabricating plants, where a certain amount of their fixed charges have to go on whether they have business or not. The work they are taking at cost to carry them over for a number of months is better than closing up their plants entirely and paying fixed charges.

"To my mind, the factor which enters most into the decreased cost of building is the willingness of labor to work and the necessities of employers to have business to keep them going."

Mr. Deeves said he could not give precise facts for the relative cost of typical buildings then and now, as he did not have in mind any building project that was abandoned several years ago on account of cost that has since been started up. He added:

"I feel that anybody who wishes to build cheaply must build quickly, as the crux of the whole situation is in the necessities of employers to get the business and the employees to sell their labor; and as soon as they get even a little work under way with the prospects brightening, prices will immediately enhance, and the very cheap buildings will be for those who build now."

For a specific case of a cheap building, Mr. Deeves said he knew of a 6-sty fireproof stable, 50x100, that is being built for 13½ cents per cubic foot, which contract has been awarded within a month.

IN BROOKLYN.

Mr. Benjamin Driesler, of 13 Willoughby st, Brooklyn, speaking of conditions in that borough, considered that the Record and Guide's inquiry into the present cost of building, for the purpose of giving public information on the subject, was timely and should encourage those who are half hearted to go into investment on lines of building. Mr. Driesler further said:

"I have personally induced and convinced several clients of the opportunities presented at the present time to take advantage of a decided reduced cost of construction: a drop in cost I dare say of almost 10 to 15 per cent., more noticeable on brick building construction than on frame house construction; that being by reason that bulk materials such as brick are very cheap; this holds particularly good upon the buildings not exceeding $10,000 to $15,000; the saving on larger buildings and more costly is not so noticeable.

"I hardly dare say much about the reduction in labor, for, the reason that the union wage scale is presumed to be still maintained, but I have reason to believe that building labor by contract has shown a decided reduction. For the fact may be surmised that skilled labor, as well as unskilled labor, can be obtained of the same quality as before at slight reduction from the average scale of union wages. I presume also, of course, that the bosses are willing to allow themselves very little profit in order to keep doing something.

"Tenement and apartment houses present a special opportunity at present in certain Brooklyn locations, if built by clever, skilled builders; in other words, built substantially and to stay. I am afraid that during the past few years there has been considerable shoddy buildings erected by people not understanding building at all, and has worked, if anything, detrimentally to this class of investment.

PROBLEMS IN DESIGNING THE MUNICIPAL BUILDING.

The peculiar shape of the lot on which the new Municipal Building is to stand, at the entrance to the Brooklyn Bridge, made the architectural problem, as well as the problem of light and air an unusual one, the terms of the competition involving the solution of the problem of construction over the subway without interfering with the passage of trains, and also the provision of the uninterrupted passage through the building of Chambers st. In the plan presented as much of the entire lot was covered as was possible consistently with the symmetry which would lend itself to architectural treatment. It was believed that all interior courts in a building of that height would become simple air shafts, affording no light to the lower stories. Accordingly, the plan was so arranged that all the light was direct, and no interior courts occur whatever.

TYPICAL FLOOR PLAN.

The open court facing the west not only secured an uninterrupted light, but was valuable from an architectural point of view in that it recognizes by its shape and position the approach and absorption of a great thoroughfare. That part of the first floor devoted to the subway stations is accessible directly to a large number of entrances unincumbered with steps, the plane of the floor being coincident with that of the sidewalk. The corridors containing the staircase and elevators for the office floors are also directly accessible, both on the eastern and western sides and form thoroughfares through the building.

In studying the problem, it was the aim of the architects, while keeping in mind the practical uses of the building, to give it the municipal character which such a building should possess. The classic style was chosen, both as following the accepted traditions of buildings of a civic character throughout the country from the earliest times down, and on account of the proximity of the Hall of Records, the Court House and the City Hall, all of them classic, or in styles derived therefrom.

A MODERN MERCANTILE BUILDING.

Old buildings are now being demolished at Nos. 45, 47, 49 and 51 West 25th st, on which will soon be erected an 11-sty and basement fireproof mercantile structure illustrated herewith. The site, being a plot of 100 × 98.9 ft., is situated in the heart of the new wholesale district, being near the junction of Broadway, 5th av and Madison sq. The construction in every way will be fireproof, and will contain store, basement and ten floors or lofts, with light on all sides. There will be four large electric elevators of the highest type and the building will be wired throughout for electric power, lighting and piped for gas. The lavatories will be exceptionally large and contain all the latest sanitary improvements. The exterior will be of Indiana limestone, light buff brick, and terra cotta. All side and rear windows, sash and frames will be of metal, with wire glass. There will be two stairways and only four columns in the width of the building on each floor spaced about 25 ft. apart. The main halls will be finished in marble, with mosaic floors, and all the interior woodwork will be of hardwood. The Cornell Iron Works, of 11th av and 26th st, have obtained the steel work; the general contract has not yet been placed. The actual starting of building operations will begin by the end of May, and the structure is to be ready for occupancy by January, 1909. The cost is estimated at about $400,000. William H. Birkmire, of 396 Broadway, is the architect, and the Building & Engineering Co., 53 West 24th st, of which William Birkmire is president, and Andrew J. Kerwin, Jr., secretary and treasurer, is the owner.

FIRE TESTS OF BUILDING MATERIAL.

THE conflagration at Chelsea, Mass., has added much significance to the fire tests of building materials that have been conducted recently by the United States Geological Survey in behalf of the Government.

The Government engineers have long contended that with present methods of construction, a conflagration, resulting in the destruction of millions of dollars worth of property and the sacrifice of human life, is possible in every city of any size in the country. It is the belief of the engineers that these great fires are unnecessary and can be prevented by the erection of proper fireproof buildings. The Government does not insure its buildings, but bends its energies toward making the structures fireproof. A small fraction of what would be paid to insurance companies in premiums is being spent in finding out the materials that are best adapted to resist fire.

The first of a series of elaborate tests have just been completed by the Structural Materials Laboratories of the Geological Survey, under the direction of Richard L. Humphrey, engineer in charge. The tests were conducted at the Fire Underwriters' Laboratories in Chicago and were made possible by the co-operation of the National Board of Fire Underwriters' and the National Fire Protection Association. Thirty panels of various building materials, including concrete building blocks, common hydraulic pressed and sand-lime brick; concrete of gravel, cinder, limestone and granite; glazed building and partition terra cotta tile; sandstone, granite and marble building stone were tested. The materials were subjected to the direct application of heat for two hours and were then immediately quenched with water. An effort was made to obtain a maximum temperature of 1,700 degrees Fahrenheit within half an hour after starting the tests and to maintain this temperature as nearly as possible constant through the succeeding half hours.

The building materials were placed in a sliding panel, which, when arranged for the fire tests, formed one side of the furnace. In the furnace, gas flames were forced by a blast of air against one side of the panel. After two hours, the panel was brought from the furnace and the water turned on from a hose with a pressure of fifty pounds to the square inch.

The conditions under which these tests were made were unusually severe, and as none of the materials passed perfectly, it proved a good test for comparative purposes. The temperatures used would hardly be reached in an ordinary fire, but might be in a conflagration.

"While these tests are not conclusive, being but the beginning of a general line of investigation," said Director Smith, of the Geological Survey, "they bring out a number of important facts. The brick panels probably withstood the tests better than any other materials. There were two lots of common brick tested—one was an unused, recently manufactured brick, and the other a brick that had been in an engine foundation for some years. The latter seemed to withstand the test the better. Fifty per cent of the new brick were split, while sixty to seventy per cent of the old bricks were not damaged. The bricks at the back of the panel were entirely unaffected. The hydraulic pressed brick stood the test better than any other material. No damage was apparent whatever after the firing and before the water was applied, and although a number of the bricks cracked, seventy per cent of them were found to be sound after quenching. There was apparently little difference in the strength of the bricks before and after firing. The natural building stones behaved the worst of all the material tested. The almost complete desruction of these stones precludes any comparison between them. The sandstone panel entirely collapsed soon after the test was started."

The testing engineers report that it was difficult to determine whether the concrete made of limestone, granite, gravel or cinders sustained the least damage. Their surfaces were all rather badly pitted by the fire and washed away by the stream of water. The test was unfair to cinder concrete, as the sample of cinder was very poor, containing a large percentage of unburned coal, which ignited and left the surface of the concrete badly pitted. The granite concrete probably behaved the best. The damage in no case extended very far into the concrete, probably not more than one and one-half inches. The evidence shows that even at this depth, the temperature was compara-

AN EXAMPLE OF STUCCO FINISH.

We produce herewith the architect's color drawing of the new country residence for Jacob Rothschild, Esq., at Ocean and Runyan avs, Deal Beach, N. J. The size of the main building is 58 ft. x 120 ft., exclusive of porches, with a wing on the rear 33 ft. x 60 ft., containing the servants' quarters. The size of the ground is 260x500 ft. The exterior of the house is stucco on brick. The general feeling of the detail throughout the exterior and interior is Louis XVI. in spirit and is very simple.

The ground floor of the main house includes an elliptical entrance vestibule, a reception room, living room, billiard room, library, dining room, breakfast room and outside dining terrace, while in the extension are butler's pantry, kitchen, servants' hall and laundry. On the two upper floors are twelve chambers, each one with its own bath and dressing room, or boudoir. In the servants' wing there are eight rooms and a bath for the women servants and two rooms with a bath for the men servants. There is also a room specially fitted up as a sewing room for the maid and a clothes pressing and repairing room for the valet.

The house also contains a passenger elevator, which was furnished by Chas. W. Hoffman Co., 223 West 28th st, Manhattan. The grounds are laid out with formal gardens, pergolas, lily pool, belvidere, tennis and croquet courts. On a separate plot within three blocks of the house stands the barn and garage for horses and cows, carriages and automobiles on the ground floor and quarters for the coachman, chauffeur and gardener on the second floor. On this plot there will also be a dairy, henneries and a large vegetable garden. Albert S. Gottlieb, 156 5th av, Manhattan, is the architect.

STEEL CONSTRUCTION AS I KNOW IT.

By LEROY S. BUFFINGTON.

It was late in the year 1881. I was glancing through Viollet Le Duc's Discourses on Architecture (Vol. 2) when a sentence on page 128 seemed to me most remarkable and caused me to stop and give it more careful thought. "A practical architect might not unnaturally conceive the idea of erecting a vast edifice, whose frame should be entirely of iron, and clothing that frame, preserving it by means of a casing of stone."

LEROY S. BUFFINGTON.

Again I took up the book and further along I read: "But it cannot too often be repeated, Iron should be left independent—it cannot be allied with masonry." Here I was back in the same hole I came out of; but erecting a vast edifice whose frame should be entirely of iron was an independent idea and set me to work. I read this book through, but found nothing further that would help me.

The lot of an architect who had to use unseasoned lumber and poor brick in those days was not as rosy as to-day, when he has steel columns and beams, but here was a chance to find something better in building, and I went at it with a will. And many nights and Sundays at home, with other work forgotten, I sat at my library table and puzzled and studied over this vast edifice.

A building whose frame should be of iron clothed with masonry was the problem I set myself to solve. This meant the rear wall, the side walls, the front wall and the interior—a skeleton of metal. A skeleton: the principal part that supports the rest. Why not use a shelf fastened to this skeleton to carry the masonry? This was the final line along which my reason led me. I made many sketches showing various constructional designs for this building, and these studies, collected after so many years, seem a waste of time on so simple an idea. So this and the next winter passed.

In the winter of '83 and '84 I again took up the design of the exterior, as a working basis must be reached before I could go any further. Finally I decided to take a column for my model—a solid base, a plain shaft and a beautiful cap and skyline to finish—this is the design of my 28-story building. My friends finally advised me to get it patented, so I consulted an attorney and laid the matter before him, but I was very busy and my time was taken up continuously, and another year passed.

In April, 1886, the building in which I had my office was damaged by fire. Then this problem was brought face to face, and I decided as soon as I was again settled I would attend to it. So in the summer of that year I commenced preparing for the patent, and at my leisure time I worked on the plans of a building 80 feet square and 28 stories high, not including the pointed roof, five more stories. This building was lighted on all sides.

My application for patent was filed November 14, 1887. The patent was issued May 22, 1888, No. 383,170, my foreign patents bearing the same date.

I was now ready to display to the public an invention that I had conceived nearly seven years before. So imbued was I with the possibilities that I was not prepared for the abuse and jeers I received.

> "Whether we drive, or whether we are driven,
> If ill, 'tis ours; if good, the act of Heav'n."

In the early summer after I had received my patent papers, I published and issued in pamphlet form, describing and illustrating my method of construction for this 28-story building and distributed about 2,500 copies to architects, engineers, contractors, manufacturers and others interested in building in the United States. Following is from the publication in the Northwestern Architect, 1888:

The famous towers of Cologne's great cathedral, six centuries in building, soar, in stone, to the height of five hundred and one feet, overtopping at the time of their completion any known existing structure. To-day an engineer merely as an ornament to the grounds of an industrial exposition in France, rears to the dizzy height of one thousand feet a tower of iron, and does not find himself in the slightest degree annoyed by the fact that he has but a single year in which to accomplish the gigantic task. The shipwright of bygone days was satisfied, if in wood, he could produce a hull that would weigh fifty per cent. of its total displacement; to-day the naval architect knows that with the use of iron he will be obliged to place but thirty-eight per cent. in the hull of the same dimensions and lines.

The manufacture of innumerable labor-saving appliances, which are in use to-day, is only made possible by the use of iron, and in all trades and industries save that of building alone, iron enters as one of the most important elements. True, Iron has been used to a certain extent in building processes, but only in a perfunctory and unintelligent way. Heretofore neither the architect or engineer has succeeded in combining masonry and iron successfully. This, however, is not difficult of explanation, when we consider the peculiar qualities of the material.

Iron in every form, owing to its great susceptibility of extremes of heat and cold, cannot be rigidly confined or fastened without great stress and consequent harm to the structure of which it forms a part, and until the problem of causing it to have a never-varying temperature shall have been solved, this condition will continue to obtain. This fact has operated in a great measure to cause iron to be regarded with distrust by builders, and as before mentioned its use has been but limited in building operations. Substituting a shaft of iron for a column of granite or marble is all very well, but it is not an innovation or the adoption of a new principle; also no great intelligence is necessary to replace a lintel of wood or stone by an iron joist. But substituting iron for the very essence of the building, the frame itself, may assume a very high degree of importance, and lead to novel contrivances and enable us to attempt undertakings of which the former ages had only a vague presentment.

But how is this fact to be accomplished? If the architect would approach the problem with frankness, and without fear of precedent, approach it as Stephenson did the problem of the locomotive, Whitney the cotton gin, or Morse the electric telegraph, most of the difficulties would be found to exist in name only. It is obvious to the most unscientific that a building of iron may possess strength, lightness, economy of construction, not approached by one of any of the other materials; and would be equally or more permanent were the racking effects of expansion and contraction eliminated.

It is also understood that the lattice form of riveted girder is the most economical and strongest form of construction known. Imagine then if you please a building framed complete of latticed riveted girders of iron, and covered with an envelope of light, cheap and absolutely non-conducting substance, which admits of forms of great beauty, and corrects entirely the only trouble that might arise in a structure of this nature. To speak more particularly, the system of building which is recommended herein may be described as a series of laminated riveted iron posts, diminishing in size as they ascend from the foundation, and braced diagonally after the manner of lattice girders, as well as by the horizontal bracing of the iron beams of each floor which form an integral portion of the main structure, and are no small factor in its stability; and the frame covered with a thick coating of a non-conducting substance of absolute reliability.

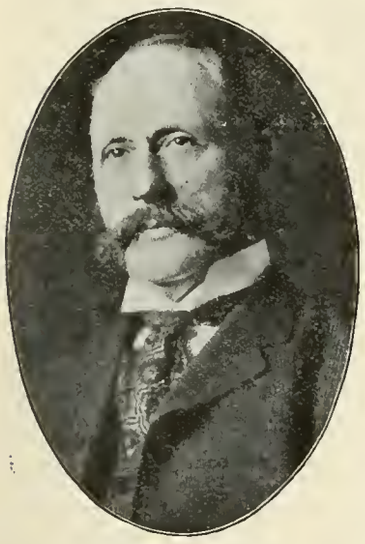
The exterior is formed of stone, brick or terra cotta, supported on shelves fastened to the skeleton, which further precludes any expansion or contraction of the iron, and which gives to us a building which is free from any degree of settlement and the resultant dilapidations which in the average building are so important an element. In addition to the scientific principles which are embodied in this form of construction, it has advantages, the recapitulation of which may upon first hearing seem extravagant, but which are susceptible of easy demonstration.

Among the various points to be considered which are of moment are the facts: First, that this system of construction is cheaper than any other known form of durable building. The labor being considerable less, and the quantity of material employed to give equal or more strength so much less to be almost startling. Next, the time consumed in the erection is infinitely less than by any other method. The major portions of the labor being performed in the shops of the iron workers, and the building being merely assembled on the ground in the same manner that iron bridges are put together, but without the elaborate system of centerings, which is necessary in the latter operation. Again, the walls of the building are thinner by half than in a masonry building, thereby effecting an economy of space which is in all cases to be desired, when it can be accomplished without increase of expense.

Thinner walls and the peculiarly light forms of construction also allow of a great amount of light being admitted into the structure without impairing its stability, thereby doing away with the gloomy and vault like interiors, which only too frequently disgrace our large buildings. The facility of lighting, combined with the peculiarities of the internal structure, make the problem of ventilations, that bug-bear of the architect, one of comparatively easy solution.

Having a system of ventilation which is well nigh perfect, it follows that the operation of heating the building is of equally easy execution, and it is done with the minimum cost, a consideration of much moment in our northern latitudes, where the item of fuel is one of such magnitude. The rapidity of the construction is further expedited by the fact that there is only one material with which to deal, thus doing away with the many delays incident to a multiplicity of artisans, differing in occupation, which are to be encountered on any building of large proportions.

The fact also that iron alone is dealt with makes it possible to construct as well in winter as in summer, thus increasing the building season from eight to twelve months in the year. The rapidity of construction does not carry with it that element of uncertainty which is apt to be present in ordinary buildings, as there can be no mistakes, every piece of metal used having its proper dimensions accurately calculated for the function it has to perform.



With regard to the arrangement of the interior of this species of building, unlike one of masonry, which has its upright partitions fixed and immutable portions of the structure, the stability of the iron building is not in the least degree dependent upon them, but on the contrary they may be moved about at will and the solidity of the edifice remain intact; the partitions being in point of fact simply permanent screens. The advantages of this method is obvious, as any subsequent alteration can be made without disturbing the building in the slightest, each floor being for all practical purposes one immense hall, which may be divided or subdivided as the circumstances of the case may demand.

From the foregoing it will be seen that this system of construction has the merit of being cheaper than any other. More quickly built than any other. Has thinner walls and consequently greater floor space than any other. Owing to the thinness of the walls and the slightness of the framing, more light, if desired, than any other. As shown, better ventilation than any other, as well as more cheaply heated than any other. A lack of settlement not found in any other. No waiting for the walls to dry, which is not found in any other. Only one material to handle, not found in any other. Ability to build in winter as well as in summer, a quality not found in any other. An absolute reliance on the strength of the structure, rarely found in any other. A faculty of alteration not found in any other. An array of advantages which must seriously commend themselves to men who think practically and scientifically upon matter of this nature. L. S. BUFFINGTON.

WHO'S WHO IN BUILDING—8.

PERHAPS no man identified with the building industry of New York City is better or more favorably known to the readers of this publication than Mr. Andrew J. Robinson, a speaking likeness of whom we have obtained to embellish this notice. There are few important thoroughfares in this city where one would go very far without finding a substantial building erected by this eminent builder. Such structures as the St. Paul Building, the Blair & Co. banking house, the Silversmiths' Building, the New York Hospital, St. Luke's Hospital, Barnard College, the Messiah Home, the Hotel Essex, the Stuyvesant Fish residence, the Elihu Root residence, the H. O. Havemeyer residence, the Borden Building, Christ Church, the Church of the Holy Trinity, the Arts Club, the New York Historical Society, the Queens County Trust Building, and hundreds of other buildings of the highest type attest the part Mr. Robinson has had in the building of this great city during an active career extending over forty years.

ANDREW. J. ROBINSON.

A matter of comment throughout the trade just now is the rapidity with which the Silversmiths' Building, at Nos. 15-17-19 Maiden lane, through to John st, was completed. Mr. Robinson undertook to complete this 20-sty building in ten months; he did better; he took possession of the site July 5, 1907, and through his unremitting vigilance, the end of March last found the building tenantable. This is conceded to be record time.

Mr. Robinson's experience and wide acquaintance with building matters has made his advice and counsel much sought by property owners and real estate men contemplating the erection of important buildings. He was one of the founders of the present Mason Builders' Association; he has been for thirty-one years a member of the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen; he is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Transportation Club, the Aldine Association, and numerous other organizations.

Mr. Robinson has also erected various out-of-town buildings, among which might be mentioned the Security Mutual Life Insurance Building at Binghamton, N. Y.; the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute buildings (2), at Troy, N. Y.; the Columbia County Court House at Hudson, N. Y.; the Manufacturers' Association Building at Baltimore, Md.; the Pierson High School at Sag Harbor, L. I.; the M. L. Beltzhoover residence at Irvington, N. Y.; the C. M. Pratt residence at Glen Cove, L. I., and the Nassau Union Bank at Glen Cove.

Every reputable builder has his trademark, whether he knows it or not. The uniformly good character of Mr. Robinson's work has created a public sentiment in his favor which nothing can obliterate, and this trademark is one of his biggest assets. The building business of this city is the better for the influence Mr. Robinson has had upon it.

FIRE TESTS OF BUILDING MATERIALS.

tively low. The rapid heating of the face of the concrete, while the back remained cool, caused the concrete to crack vertically for some distance back from the face. The cracking of the concrete can be avoided, it is believed, by using metal reinforcement, which would distribute the effect of the expansion. The tests also brought out most clearly the low rate at which the heat travels through concrete. This is one of the desirable qualities in materials intended for fireproofing purposes.

Linen tags, which were placed in the hollow concrete blocks when they were molded, were found to be undamaged after the fire test. In many instances, the hollow blocks split after being subjected to the fire and water test. It was noticeable that the richer the mortars used in these blocks, the less they were affected by the test. The mortars mixed with the greatest percentage of water gave the best results. The wetter, richer mixtures in these tests stood out apparently undamaged in contrast with the damaged faces of the leaner, dryer blocks. It is apparent that one of the causes of weakness in the hollow cement building blocks is in the weakness of the concrete, due to a too dry and thin mixture, which coupled with the thinness of the webs—the thin pieces connecting the walls of the blocks to give strength—provides insufficient strength to resist the rapid expansion of the face of the blocks under test. By making the webs thicker, they can be made to stand the fire test satisfactorily.

THE MAN ON THE STREET.

THE famous voyage of the U. S. warship Oregon is now a decade past. Chief Engineer Milligan knew that her run depended on fresh water for the boilers, and feeling that he was right, he reduced the drinking supply to a minimum and held steadfastly to his purpose, becoming the most unpoplar man on the ship—but he knew his book, and the Oregon got there.

When a man starts out to do the right thing he will often find himself misunderstood, and the centre of a bitter attack from many well-meaning people, and also those who are not. If he is weak, he wavers and fails. If he is strong, he wins out.

In no branch of creative activity is this more true than in the building trade, and architects, builders and all the subs may well light their binnacles with this truth. As Charles T. Wills once said: "If a man is honest you cannot hurt him much," and he ought to know. So, young men and old, keep a firm grip on the wheel, and knowing you are right, keep on your course, blow as it will, and there will be no "moaning of the bar" when you put out to sea.

"I believe that gentleness is a greater power than force, and that sympathy is a surer power than intellect." So wrote a man who has built many millions' worth of the best American buildings. He should certainly be qualified to have our listening ear, for this statement was made in his full maturity as part of a responsible statement to a younger generation. It's all wool and seventy-two inches wide.

He generally crosses to the other side of the street when approaching a building under course of construction. To avoid physical danger of accident? Not exactly. He has faced that too many years with as careful an eye as when crossing trolley lines.

No, it's the group of men waiting for possible employment in the face of the signs of—"No more men wanted." There are all grades of intelligence and efficiency among them, and all sorts of hope and expectancy. Most of them, unfortunately, have little chance. The ranks are already filled. When the women question comes before one, it is even harder to see.

Our office had occasion to advertise a short while ago for some young girls, "to call at nine o'clock." At eight the entrance enclosure was filled like a police court pen after a holiday, and the overflow filled the hall. Among them were pretty much all types of girls, but one was an old woman, who was small and had been crowded against the rail. Some of the employees thought the whole matter very funny, but somehow it all got in on the nerves of the Man on the Street. "Don't carry your heart on your sleeve," is an old adage, but how can a man help being a human being even in this great whirling maelstrom of life—the modern city.

It is hard to stay in the city nowadays. It is a matter of the call of the woods. The Man on the Street would like to go to Virginia, or the Alleghenies, south of where Sheridan made his famous ride, and where "Shenandoah" was founded. And there is a good horse, "Right-of-Way," at Hot Springs, Va., known perhaps to some other architects and builders.

This animal is capable of great sustained effort, a quality necessary to draftsmen especially, in such a competition as has been recently closed for our new Municipal Building where it was a question of ever keeping at it night as well as day. When the brain grows weary of the Sturm und Drang of the city's building, then is the time to get a new hold on vitality in the Sunny South. Almirall knows this as well as I do, and perhaps some of the great library plan in Brooklyn is a reflex of our walls along Virginia's roads.

My first job was a rather complicated institutional building erected some twenty years ago. The contractor was also building his first work for himself, though he had been for very many years a trusted assistant to a prominent contractor. He had watched at the bedside of this dying man, and had figured my building during this trying time. Naturally he was not keenly alive to his own interests, and he took the job very low. As I realized the situation, I tried to ease up on him where honestly possible, but when the owners showed a disposition to demand their pound of flesh, he always gave way at his own expense, so that the architect might not "get in trouble." It made the young architect mighty mad to have him do it, but he did. Somehow we never did anything together again. He went into speculative work and the architect into country house practice for some years. The builder suffered some reverses, but after a long period of activity recently has reorganized his affairs in a corporate form and will, I know, pull out. Oh, King James, as my hair grows gray as yours was when first we met, do not think that any of your worth has been forgotten for a moment, and may you live long and prosper!

Our contractor was a man with an affected rough exterior. He would speak in a loud, harsh tone and hustle things up, but it was all external. Had an accident happened, his would have been the first hand to raise the poor maimed and bruised form and stand the damages. His men were devoted to him. No sister of charity was ever passed on without remembrance in coin of the realm. For many years he has done his work in his own way, faithfully and well. The world needs many such.

The girl on the phone switchboard in a busy office has no sinecure. She has to keep thinking in many ways at once, like a watch officer on duty on the deck of a warship in a busy harbor with his fleet at anchor, but all sorts of launches coming and going, bringing visiting officers, etc., and with a constant eye on the order of his own ship. Unfortunately she has no master-at-arms to help, but has to depend on her own tact and patience. In our trade seconds count sometimes, and "busy" is enough to cause a man to use bad language, not, we hope, within earshot of the Girl at the Phone.

She has all the possibilities of damage of the office boy, but she is a woman, less slow to anger, and more plenteous in mercy, fortunately for the fat-headed man. We know one who is a darling in the true sense of the word, and there is not much that's good that gets by her without feeling better for her kindly smile. And when the day is done she eases up in a tuneful song to rest, and next day she is just as chipper as a lark.

Big Buck, not he of Williamsburgh bridge fame, my old structural engineer, grouched to me the other day about certain society men who base their business on flim-flam rather than technical ability in consulting practice, and told some choice tales of the double shuffles of such. "Well," I said, "you kicked them back harder than they gave it to you, nicht wahr, and got their alley, you old two-hundred-and-fifty-pounds." (He also wears an 8½ hat.) "Yes," he said, "but it leaves sore spots on a man's own person."

Now, there must be wounds to both in a proper scrap, it seems to me, and how did the other fellow look? "Have at me, Denny!"

THE LOWER COST OF BUILDING.

ing six to eight rooms, between $3,000 and $4,000, something we have not been able to do for the past two or three years; but very comfortable and higher grade houses can be built for about $5,000, which would have cost a year ago $6,000, and the more pretentious residences easily save $500 to $1,000 also.

"There is not much market or demand in the city of Brooklyn for a single private house, as a new venture, for the reason that there are many old dwellings that have been constantly treated, and suburban conditions offer better opportunities for comfortable homes; but there are a few opportunities in the better known suburbs along streets of denser population and consequent high valuation of land, which hold out fair inducements for the 1-family block house, dainty and modern; such houses have shown some activity in certain streets in Flatbush, and can be put up from about $6,000 to $7,000, and contain everything modern.

TWO-FAMILY DWELLINGS.

"The building of 2-family dwellings in the form of city block houses has been slightly overdone in the built-up sections of the city, as well as in some parts of the suburbs, and has had a tendency to run upon some freakish lines, the outgrowth of the keen competition. And I also find that while they are on the average a good investment for a man wishing to have his own roof over his head, with a tenant to help him along, the tenant seems to show a tendency to frequently move. In most of these cases I find that these houses are very nice and convenient for small families, but they do not seem to present room enough, or to have what you may term a spare room; and a good many have also been through keen competition built somewhat cheaply and poorly finished. I notice that all of the good ones built by good souud builders are able to hold their own. I have built a number for $5,000 each, which I am sure will show now a reduction in cost of several hundred dollars.

"The 2-family house detached seems to be the attraction, and best proposition, and ought to be easily understood by the most fastidious man, as well as the man that is afrald. I do not know of any 2-family house that is not rented well, does not keep its tenants and bring actual returns on the money invested. I have recently had a house built by contarct from plans for a similar house built a year ago, which cost from $6,500, and my estimates run from $5,900 to $6,200 during the month of March. I also know of a house costing $8,400 a year ago (containing nine rooms for each family, and in good locality) for which I have estimates at $7,600.

"I find that competition in all material supplies is keen, as shown by the enormous literature and forms of advertisements and price lists and catalogues received daily, and also by direct personal letters from contractors, builders, plumbers—in fact, from men in all trades wishing opportunities to figure on certain work, as they appear on the records or in the trade journals."

OPPORTUNITIES IN SOUTH AMERICA.

"The great future of South America is not realized in this country," said Mr. G. M. Murphy, of the Electric Cable Company, 17 Battery pl, when commenting upon foreign trade in general. "A visit to some of the large cities of the Middle States would be a revelation to some people. There are some remarkable construction projects on hand there. The time will come when there will be a closer bond between the United States and South American States, as the increasing trade with that part of the world will demand direct steamship lines."

Mr. Murphy was in South America several years ago and visited a number of the cities. The business of his concern, like that of a good many others, is growing with the peoples of the continent to the south of us. Many complaints are heard from exporting concerns about the fact that goods shipped to South America from North American ports frequently have to go via Great Britain or Germany, as there are regular boats between those countries and South America.

A SIGN OF CONFIDENCE.

Straws frequently show the way the wind is blowing, whether in a figurative or literal sense. A few weeks ago the Building Trades Employers' Association had occasion to float a bond issue among its members, and a committee was appointed for this purpose. The manner in which the proposition was taken up by the members in the period of a serious industrial depression astonished the committee. Before they had finished with 25 per cent. of the membership the bond issue was oversubscribed, although it was for $30,000. The amounts taken varied from $1,000 to $100, the great majority of them being of $100, indicating a general interest on the part of the members.

The officers of the association were elated over the success of the issue and felt that it was a proof that there is a strong undercurrent of confidence in business conditions, despite the discouraging reports given out by so many large contractors the last few weeks.

BUILDING A HOTEL IN CANADA.

Jas. Stewart & Co., 135 Broadway, are putting up a big annex to the historic Hotel Frontenac, which overlooks the St. Lawrence River at Quebec. The structure is owned by the Canadian Pacific Railroad and has few peers on the continent. The addition will provide for 250 rooms.

A representative of Stewart & Co. stated this week that there was more activity in the South and West at present than in the East, and that, in his opinion, there were no immediate prospects of a boom in New York. Stewart & Co. undertake practically all kinds of construction work, and the amount of estimating they do is indicative, to some extent, of conditions throughout the country.

MORE SPEED SPELLS ECONOMY.—More speed, more economy. This is the experience of the Equitable Life Assurance Society when it decided to install new elevators and fast cars in its 12-sty building in Boston, Mass. As a result of the three old elevators being replaced by three modern, high-speed tandem ones only two of the elevators are required for the work that had to be done by the former three, and the present third one is held as an auxiliary, or to be used in case of emergency. The contract was awarded to the National Elevator Company, 400 West 23d st, and the execution of it has just been completed. There was the least inconvenience caused during the change. Two of the old elevators were used while the first of the new ones was put in place, and when this was ready for service it did the work of the other while the second and third modern ones were being installed.

SENDS REPRESENTATIVE TO CHICAGO.—The Turner Construction Company, 11 Broadway, has sent one of its superintendents to Chicago to direct the erection of an addition to the plant of the Murphy Varnish Company. The Murphy Company has factories scattered all over the country, the three principal ones being in Cleveland, O., Newark, N. J., and Chicago, Ill. All of the constant improvements required at the factories are made by the Turner Company. This is the tenth time that the company's services have been needed at the Chicago plant, increasing business demanding frequent repairs and additions.

ORDINANCE REGULATING COURTYARDS.—A recent ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen provides that hereafter there shall not be built or erected or made upon Van Buren st (at its present width), between Morris Park av and West Farms road, any areas, steps, court yards, or other projections, except show windows not exceeding 18 in. in width and signs not projecting more than 12 in. from the house lines. The provisions of this ordinance also applies to Melville st (roadway to be 30 ft. and sidewalk 10 ft), between Morris Park av and West Farms road. Violations of the ordinance are punishable by a fine of $10 for each offense, and to a penalty of $10 for each and every day such offense shall continue.

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT.

Fireproof Doors Lead in Exhibition.

To date fireproof doors are the best represented in the contracts signed for space in the exhibition of building material on the second floor of the Builders' Exchange Bldg. Those who will have displays of this article are John W. Rapp, 1 Madison av; the Manhattan Fireproof Door Company, 412 E. 125th st,; Arthur E. Rendle, Hermann & Grace Co., Howell & Lawrence, 404 E. 93rd st, and the J. F. Blanchard Co., Fuller Bldg.

The other individuals and firms that have taken one or more spaces include D. Shuldiner, glass, 319 to 325 E. 64th st.; the Universal Iron Works, vaultlights; the T. New Construction Co., roofing and waterproofing; the Universal Compound Co., roofing and waterproofing; P. & F. Corbin, hardware, 11 Murray st; the Metropolitan Switchboard Co., electrical goods, 532 W. 22nd st; the Mycenian Marble Co., marble, 524 W. 34th st; the Yule Marble Co., marble; the Traitel Marble Co., marble; Norcross Bros. Co., 160 5th av, marble and stone; the American Encaustic Tiling Co., tiles; R. Schroeder, tiles; U. T. Hungerford Brass & Copper Co., plumbers' supplies, Pearl st; the Truss Metal Lath Co., 147 4th av; the Pelham Operating Co., hoisting appliances, 410-418 W. 26th st; Wm. H. Jackson Co., grates and mantels, 224 W. 28th st; Wm. T. Ritch, 1123 Broadway; Toch Bros., paints, 320 5th av; Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., cabinet works, 29 E. 22d st; Hinkle Iron Co., 534 W. 56th st, ornamental iron; M. F. Westergreen, fireproof doors, and E. Shuttenworth, stone and marble.

Record and Guide Arouses Interest.

The article published April 11 last in the Record and Guide regarding the broadening out of the local Building Trades and Employers' Association and the opening of the permanent exhibition of building material created enough interest to bring inquiries from distant points for both further information and copies of the issue. Mr. Wm. J. Holmes, secretary of the association, received two requests from organizations desiring to have copies—one from the Builders' Exchange of Louisville, Ky., through its secretary, E. A. Quarles, and one from the Masons and Contractors' Association of Chicago, through its secretary, E. M. Craig. The venture of the local association in leasing the entire second floor of the new Builders' Exchange Bldg, in 33rd st, for the exhibition is being applauded on all sides, and its progress is being watched by out of town as well as local contractors and supply dealers.

Acres of Glass in One Building.

A twelve-acre field could be almost covered with the window glass required for the Hudson Terminal Bldgs. It is estimated that there are over 500,000 sq. ft. of glass in these two structures, all of it having been supplied by D. Shuldiner, 321 E. 64th st. There are in all over 10,000 panes of polished plate glass in the exterior windows alone. Some six thousand glass panels were required for the partition sashes of the offices and 3,000 glass panels required for the doors. Fully 300,000 sq. ft. of polished plate glass were consumed in the glazing of the windows and 150 sq. ft. of plain maze glass were needed for the bulk of the partition sash, doors and transoms. In the fireproofing over 50,000 sq. ft. of wire glass were used. The contract is the largest glazing one in the building industry, involving an expenditure of $200,000.

Fast Demolition of a Hotel.

The Rheinfrank House Wrecking Company, 620 E. 14th st, is making good its promise to establish a record in the razing of the old Fifth Avenue Hotel. About 200 loads of debris and material are being carted away every working day, despite the fact that so little dust and fuss are raised as to cause many of the pedestrians in 23rd st to pass unconscious of the big task in progress. The chutes to the street level are well covered and the demolition is proceeding rapidly and quietly.

"Men are scarce," was the rather extraordinary remark made by Mr. Walter G. Earl, superintendent for the company. When asked why this was the case in the face of such a vast army of unemployed in New York at present he said:

"I mean the bar men who work on the walls of buildings in taking them down. Skill, care and experience are required of men who are employed for this particular work, and when there is much wrecking in progress it is difficult to secure a large number of good men in this line."

Anyone observing the bar men at work on a high building, in a crowded, business section will appreciate the significance of Mr. Earl's assertion. Practically all of the material in the walls has to be forced inwards, so as not to endanger the lives of people on the pavements. To do this quickly and carefully demands qualities which come only through experience. The demolition of the theatre behind the Fifth Avenue Hotel, with its high roof, was a good illustration of this.

The company has been working 24 hours a day to execute the big contract it undertook. To facilitate this and to overcome the difficulties caused by wet weather scores of oilskins, such as used by sailors, were purchased and are kept in lockers right on the scene of operations. As soon as rain begins to fall the oilskins are donned. There is consequently no interruption in the work.

Buffalo Learns About Concrete.

A compliment was paid to the Turner Construction Company, 11 Broadway, when the Merchants' Association of Black Rock, Buffalo, N. Y., requested the company to send a representative to attend a meeting held April 22, and explain the modern uses of reinforced concrete. Mr. J. P. H. Perry, of the Turner Company, was delegated to give the lecture. Mr. Perry took along some fifty stereopticon views, which made his talk doubly instructive and entertaining. He explained in detail the various ways in which reinforced concrete is used, illustrating every step. Mr. Perry was received very cordially by the members of the association, who extended their thanks to both him and his company. He will visit another city in this State very shortly on a like mission.

Mr. Perry states that Buffalo is just wakening up to the value of concrete in heavy construction work. Those of that city interested in construction of any kind were stirred by the cement exhibition held there recently and one of the results of it was Mr. Perry's lecture.

HEAVY MACHINE ON EXHIBITION.—The big electrical hoisting machine that was used to raise material for the construction of the Singer Bldg has been installed in one of the spaces of the Building Material Exhibition, second floor of the Builders' Exchange Bldg, 33rd st. The machine, which is owned by the Pelham Operating Company, 410-418 West 26th st, weighs about 6,700 lbs. Its wheels make 1,400 revolutions a minute.

Fireproofing a Roof.

HOW TILYOU'S MAMMOTH DANCING PAVILION IS PROTECTED.

They are men of inventive genius at Coney Island these days. They realize a want and are quick to supply it regardless of precedent. Even the builders have become imbued with the spirit of solving modern problems as they meet them. Immediately after the disastrous fire in Tilyou's last summer, they set about preventing a similar conflagration.

Mr. Tilyou has built on the ashes of the old building a mammoth dancing pavilion of steel construction. Realizing that most fires are caused by sparks on the roof, he covered the entire roof boards with Duffy Plaster Boards and then applied layers of tar paper and gravel. A fire on the roof now would do no more than burn a hole in the tar paper, for the plaster boards underneath are, of course, fireproof and no flame could reach the wooden roof boards.

He has followed up the idea in his "Cave of the Winds," to prevent a careless smoker from setting fire to the place. All the walls and ceilings are fireproofed with Duffy Plaster Boards. They are very enthusiastic about this material at Coney Island, ever since the devastating flames which burned up a large part of the resort a few years ago were stayed by several small buildings that were protected with Duffy Plaster Boards. The fire department authorities and amusement owners were delighted with the excellent fire resisting qualities it proved to have then and have favored its use ever since. Lath and plaster cost just as much and, of course do not make fireproof walls.

"It's queer," said one successful builder in that section, "that people don't use something like this exclusively in place of lath. Most builders merely follow precedent. They build as their fathers have done and are probably more fearful of doing things on their own initiative than any other class of men.

"Here are these boards for instance. At the present rate of labor they can be put up for less than lath, or at least no more, and they save beside about 40% of my plaster coat. Still, there's my friend down the street, putting up a small hotel to replace one that was burned down a few months ago, and he is building it with wooden lath. When you consider that Duffy Plaster Boards cost less and make a better job than lath, you would not expect my neighbor to go back to inflammable lath again, would you? But there his firebox stands as a monument to what he calls his conservatism."

The J. P. Duffy Company has an extensive yard at 2d av, from 50th to 51st sts, Brooklyn, and also at Newtown Creek and Grand st. Their New York office is at 138th st and 4th av.

OLD CUSTOM HOUSE BEAUTIFIED.—The large court which is included in the plans of the reconstruction of the old Custom House into the new home of the National City Bank will be faced with English size brick supplied by the Sayre & Fisher Company, 261 Broadway. About 75,000 will be required. The work is being done by the Fuller Construction Co. and the base of the court is beginning to take shape.

—Mr. J. J. Astor is improving the southeast corner of Broadway and 109th st with 1-sty stores. The whole block front was vacant. James McWalter, the builder, is laying the foundations.

PRICES CURRENT.

BRICK.—Conditions in the brick market are peculiar. Last week the demand took out a large number of cargoes, but this week few sales are being made. Small as the outgo is, the arrivals are no larger; so that the material is taken up as fast as it comes in. Rainy weather helped to make a stunted week.

Some sort of concerted effort, it is believed, is being made to regulate the shipment of brick to this market, and also to get a little larger return for the product, at least equal to the cost of production. Many manufacturers, though they have large quantities on hand, are not shipping. A few sales have been made at 50 to 75 cts. over last week's prices in some cases, as the makers of some of the choicest brands have put a price on their cargoes at less than which they will not release them. Otherwise quotations are nominal.

A number of yards have started molding, ahead of the time generally agreed on, which was the 11th inst. Various yards along the river will not start up at all, on account of the poor state of the market.

The Haverstraw Times views the situation in this light:

"If the Times gets the story right, under the 'Gentlemen's Agreement,' as promulgated some time ago in Newburgh, molding was not to commence until about May 11. But lots of agreements are like maiden's promises, subject to revision, and now that a spirit of pessimism is abroad in the land and brick are selling at prices less than the cost of production to the manufacturers, from 75 cents to $1.25 per M., the little fellows are at the mercy of the big manufacturers and will be compelled to fish or cut bait, as it were.

"Figuring rent at one dollar and with the scale of wages and the cost of supply that have prevailed for the last few years, it costs about six dollars to put one thousand brick on the dock, and yet the big land owners and those who particularly wanted the production reduced two years ago are willing to run their plants to the limit capacity and take their chances.

"With the rent question figured out, the land owners can make brick at the present prices, and gossip has it that a number of the large manufacturers have contracts that will let them out whole, while the small men will have to take their chances.

"When the land owner has his contract completed or his shed filled, as the case may be, he is at liberty to quit, and in most instances these interests are amply able financially to fill their sheds, while with the others it is the reverse.

"This is a condition that is bringing the liveliest sort of dissension; dissension not only among those who participated in the so-called 'Gentlemen's agreement,' but dissension among the army of employes. Wages have been curtailed in many instances in the loading and stowing of brick, and it is reasonable to suppose a curtailment is to follow in the production."

CEMENT.—Building operations cannot be said to have kept up the gains of some weeks back, and manufacturers and dealers are less optimistic. Few occurrences of the week have given any color or expression to the market that would favor a prediction of livelier times very soon. The disposition to build, the opportunity and the need, are all present, but the as yet unfavorable money market for building, on the whole, is seen to be the restraining influence. Quotations are unchanged.

Except for a few special brands, importations of foreign cements into this market during the present spell of cheap prices have almost ceased. "We haven't sold any foreign cement since January," said an importer, which sufficiently indicates the state of the general market for foreign cement. Among the few brands for which there is always a demand, however, are Dyckerhoff and German Alsen, which seem to be indispensable in this market as well as in other parts of the world, no matter what the state of the market may be.

The inventors of the molds—the steel molds—that will make the "poured concrete" dwelling a reality instead of a dream have not yet taken out their patents. Mr. Edison is still working on his models, and Mr. Hett's patents will not be issued for some weeks yet, are the answers inquirers receive. It is asserted for Mr. Hett that he has finished his molds, but is not ready to give public information regarding them. But he says it is actually possible to hoist concrete to the top of the house, dump it in there, until the liquid fills the molds, and have a completed dwelling in four days, except for the doors, window sash, hardware, interior painting, wiring, plumbing and heating. While he is not ready to give particulars to the world, he has stock and territorial rights to sell.

The molds under the Hett system are steel, made on a unit plan, and it is asserted that the molds can accommodate themselves to any kind of architecture. The cost of an eight-room house, in one piece, from basement to roof, would be about twelve hundred dollars for the shell. The floors, chimneys, partitions, fireplaces and mantels, staircases, porches, outside steps and the roof are part and parcel of the shell, and all is steel-reinforced. The estimate for completing the dwelling is $900. The figures given in detail by the promoters of the Hett system are as follows:

240 yds. sand at 60 cents	144.00
4 tons reinforcing steel at $60	240.00
Labor of 24 men for 4 days at $2.50	240.00
Labor of removing molds	40.00
Total	$1,208.00

The above figures represent the total cost of the house-shell. To complete it ready for occupancy we would need these things:

19 doors at $3 each	$57.00
12 windows for 1st and 2d floors at $5 each	60.00
6 windows in basement at $1.50 each	9.00
Hardware	30.00
Interior painting	75.00
Plumbing	350.00
Electric wiring and fixtures	112.00
Steam heating plant	250.00
Total	$943.00
Add the cost of the house-shell	1,208.00
and we have a grand total of	$2,151.00

The claim is made that such a house cannot be constructed under any method now publicly known short of $4,000. Cement manufacturers are curious to see a practical demonstration either by Mr. Hett or Mr. Edison.

The estimate figures are probably more true of the country in general than of New York City in particular. With a sample house finished builders and architects would be in position to estimate actual comparative costs between this and other constructions on the basis of equal cubical contents.

It need scarcely be added that should a really practical and comparatively inexpensive method of "pouring" concrete dwellings at less cost than by other means be forthcoming it would cause a building revolution in small places, and the call for cement would be stupendous. It is not disputed that the houses could be made to look very handsome, and the inventor says that the walls would be damp-proof.

IRON, STEEL, ETC.—The iron market continues extremely dull. The United States Steel Corporation during the last two weeks, it is understood, has been operating between 45 and 50 per cent. of its blast furnaces.

Bids for the structural steel for the Staten Island ferry pier were opened on Thursday. New school house work now to be taken up will call for considerable tonnage.

The contracts for fabricated steel taken by the American Bridge Company during April aggregated 18,000 tons, and the total for the month for all interests probably was somewhat over 40,000 tons, making April the best month of the year so far.

Pipe works are doing less business. The only contract for pipe of any importance pending is for 17,000 ft. of 30-in. pipe—about 2,800 tons—for the Water and Gas Department of New York City, for delivery on 125th st, Borough of Manhattan. The letting is to take place on May 13.

Tin plate manufacturers report a heavy call for nearly all grades. Mills are running to capacity on rush orders, due to the approach of the canning season. Galvanized plates are also in good request, but black plates are still a little slow. Prices are $3.89 for 100-pound coke plates f. o. b. New York and $3.70 at Pittsburgh mills, with the independents quoting $3.65.

Proposals will be received by the Board of Water Supply, City of New York, at its office, 299 Broadway, on May 12, for construction of the Wallkill pressure tunnel, which is a section of the Catskill aqueduct. It is probable that the successful bidder will be a large purchaser of machinery.

Another new schedule of prices on conductor pipe, eaves trough, etc., has just been sent to the jobbing trade, representing changes which affect Eastern territory mainly. On pipe the discount is 75 per cent. and on gutter 80 and 2½ per cent. No quotations are given on ridge roll and formed valley for these territories, but it is expected that they will rule a little higher.

LUMBER.—Current business in the wholesale market is without new features, beyond a s'owing down in orders for suburban work. Retail yards were pretty well stocked when spring opened, and it will take considerable outgo to make an impression.

Sharp competition in yellow pine with less business than the metropolitan trade has been accustomed to, has driven quotations down in many instances.

West Virginia spruce is being released by small shippers at from $2 to $3 less than a while ago, in the wholesale trade, and the spruce market in general is quite unsettled. Cypress is going out in a manner that is serving to steady the price list, and hemlock, after a long descent, is also more firmly held. Poplar is in stronger demand also, under the influence of spring building in outlying sections.

It was somewhat startling to learn that the price of lumber at shipping points advanced 49 per cent. on the average between 1899 and last year. This estimate, which was made by the Government, takes in all kinds of native wood, and not exclusively material for house building.

The present annual lumber cut of the United States approximates 40,000,000,000 feet, and the total mill value of the lumber, lath and shingles each year produced is not less than $700,000,000. These figures give some idea of how vast is the lumber industry and how great is the demand for its products.

A glance at the kinds of lumber produced shows very clearly the passing of white pine and oak, one of the greatest softwood and the other the greatest hardwood which the forest has ever grown. Since 1899 the cut of white pine has fallen off more than 40 per cent., while that of white oak has fallen off more than 36 per cent. To-day yellow pine leads all other woods in amount cut, while Douglas fir—and this will be a surprise to many—comes second. Since 1899 the cut of Douglas fir has increased 186 per cent. Louisiana is the foremost yellow pine State, with Texas, Mississippi and Arkansas following in order. Washington produces by far the greatest amount of Douglas fir.

The quotations given in this list are the wholesale prices to the retail trade on well manufactured and graded stock, according to the inspection rules at present obtaining. It is not practicable to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable, because terms of sale and other factors influence prices.

LIME.—To the lime dealer building operations do not seem to be gaining as much this week as in the middle of April. Brooklyn seems particularly dull, as 60% of the plasterers are idle. Lack of money for either purchasers or builders in small amounts is the underlying cause. Real estate interests feel that there is nothing to do but wait.

Quotations on standard limes continue at former prices, but we hear of some concessions by the smaller firms from terms which obtained when business was strong.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Subway Bids.

Forty-two bids were opened on Friday for the construction of the Fourth Avenue Subway in Brooklyn. William Bradley & Son were the only bidders for all six sections, and for the pipe galleries along each section, for which separate bids were received. Their bid for the subway work alone was about $18,000,000. The construction of pipe galleries will add about $1,400,000 to the approximate total.

The Millard Construction Company bid on five of the six sections into which the work was divided. For sections 1, 2, 4, 5 and 6 approximately $14,000,000 was bid, exclusive of pipe galleries.

S. Pearson & Son, Inc., bid on sections 1, 4, 5 and 6, their figures approximating $12,000,000 for the four sections, exclusive of pipe galleries.

The contractors bidding included James P. Graham, William Bradley & Son, Borough Construction Company and Charles Cranford, Millard Construction Company, Rogers and Haggerty, the Cranford Company, S. Pearson & Son, Inc., Degnon Construction Company, Gore Engineering and Construction Company, Washington Construction Company, E. E. Smith Construction Company, Phoenix Construction Company, Tidewater Construction Company and Charles B. Bryson, Remington & Sherman Construction Company; the F. W. Carlin Construction Company and Westinghouse, Church, Kerr Company.

A. G. Rechlin Plans Bazar for Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Architect A. G. Rechlin, 233 5th av, Manhattan, states that he is preparing plans for a semi-fireproof bazar, to be erected 100 ft. off the board walk between Viriginia and West Minstrel avs, Atlantic City, N. J. The building will measure 150x150 ft., and will be 60 ft. in height, with a dome 150 ft. high. The interior and exterior will be oriental, with gardens, fountains, balconies, tea rooms, reception rooms, and toilets, with an arcade in the centre of the building extending to the board walk. The equipment will contain elevators, steam heating and electric lighting. The cost will approximate $80,000. Edward Magolier will be the manager, and Mr. Rechlin will have full charge of construction.

Large Hotel for Long Branch.

LONG BRANCH.—Louis Korn and Maximilian Zipkes, associate architects, No. 353 5th av, Manhattan, are preparing plans for a 10-sty fireproof hotel to be erected on a plot 200x300 ft., opposite the once famous McCall mansion. The building will be equipped with all modern conveniences and a great many innovations, which will be the result of a lengthy research by the architects, will make the structure one of the best equipped seashore hotels. Among the attractions will be bowling alleys, billiard rooms, swimming pool, children's playroom, gymnasium, palmroom, roof garden, ballrooms, etc. The cost will be about $250,000. Architects will be ready for estimates about July 1. No contracts let.

New York Architects Plan Out-of-Town Buildings.

Architect Lewis Leining, Jr., of No. 703 Tremont av, Bronx, states that he is preparing preliminary sketches for a 10-sty office building, 100x110 ft., to be erected at Seattle, Wash. Architect J. H. Zeitner, 396 Broadway, has also been commissioned to design plans for four store and office buildings for S. H. Kress & Co., 396 Broadway, Manhattan, to be erected at Enid, Oklohoma, McAlester, Oklohoma, Tampa, Fla., and Iola, Kan. The construction will be fireproof, of brick and stone, with gravel roofs, steam heating, electric wiring, sizes, 50x140, 50x100, 50x150 ft.

Alterations for Mr. Roome.

MADISON AV.—Plans were filed Monday with the Building Department for remodeling the 4-sty brownstone dwelling, No. 177 Madison av, 75 ft. south of 34th st, for business and bachelor apartment purposes for William J. Roome, the real estate agent, who has leased the building for a term of years. stairs will be built and there will be some new plumbing required.

HOBOKEN, N. J.—The Stevens High School at Castle Point will be enlarged with two 25-ft. wings to the present building. President of the institute is Alexander C. Humphrey; architects, Ludlow & Valentine, 1 East 27th st, Manhattan.

HOBOKEN, N. J.—The masonry and carpentry contracts on the parochial school, Hoboken, N. J., have been awarded to the Jas. F. Connelly Const. Co. and Martin Hackett & Sons. Plans as prepared by Geo. C. Brokhaus, Hoboken, N. J., call for a brick building, four stories, 70x95.

LE ROY, N. Y.—At a meeting of the Board of Education Friday, May 1, it was decided to call a special election of the taxpayers to vote on an appropriation for a new high school building. It is believed that it will require about $70,000 to erect the sort of building that will be needed.

BUILDING NOTES.

Architects Delhi & Howard have moved from 229 Broadway to the Downing Bldg, 106 Fulton st.

Wm. R. Benedict, architect, has removed from 38 East 21st st to No. 1133 Broadway, room 1622.

Joseph Wolf, architect, has removed his office from 320 5th av to the Terminal Bldg, 103 Park av.

The John J. McGrath Plumbing Co., Inc., 158-164 West 27th st, has moved to No. 166 West 25th st.

W. S. Moore, architect, has moved from 1135 Broadway to the Day and Night Bank Bldg, care Bruce Price & De Sibour.

Messrs. R. W. Gibson and F. G. Stewart, architects, have moved from No. 176 William st to the Terminal Building, 103 Park av.

Architect L. L. Bernard, formerly located in the Flatiron Bldg, has opened an office at 47-8 Lawton st, New Rochelle, N. Y., with Charles W. Wilder, a well-known local architect.

The construction of the marble residence for Mr. Morris Schinasi, at the northeast corner of Riverside drive and 108th st, was going through the second story this week. It will be a handsome addition to the architecture of the Drive.

W. B. Bennett announces that he will conduct a commission business in building specialties and that he is prepared to estimate on fireproof doors, windows and interior finish. Mr. Bennett's present address is 1463 St. Mark's av, Brooklyn.

Samuel Chandler, for many years connected with the Cornell Iron Works, has been appointed contracting agent and New York representative of the Belmont Iron Works of Philadelphia, Pa., with offices at No. 1 West 34th st, Manhattan. Telephone, 342 38th.

Kalt & Zwerling, carpenters and general contractors, formerly located at Nos. 151-153 2nd av have removed their office to No. 71 East 97th st. They make a specialty of alteration work, and are prepared to furnish estimates upon request. Their new telephone number is 4356 79th st.

It has been estimated that if all the iron and steel entering into the construction of the new 5th av office building could be reduced to ordinary telegraph wire it would reach five times around the earth. As many as 2,085 structural columns will be used in the building, and about 14½ miles of iron pipe will have to be installed to complete the heating system.

John La Spina, cut stone contractor, foot of East 108th st, has just taken into partnership his brother, Mr. Peter La Spina, and the firm name is now John La Spina & Bro. They are in good condition to take contracts for cut stone and execute same promptly. Their plant is run entirely by electricity, and the stone yard is covered, so that all work and material is protected from the elements. Among their recent contracts for which they have furnished cut stone are the 12th Ward Bank Building, 3d av and 106th st, and the Second Reformed Church, Hackensack, N. J.

The Wells Architectural Iron Company, 219-221 East 144th st, near Park av, has just completed a contract to furnish and install the ornamental iron and bronze work at the new offices for the Hamburg-American line at 45 Broadway. C. T. Wills (Inc.), general contractor, and R. L. Daus architect. The work by the Wells Company shows interesting specimens of a high-grade character, which are well worth inspection. Mr. James Wells, manager of the company, was formerly with the Jackson Architectural Iron Company, and more recently was a manager with the American Bridge Company. He has made a business connection with the well known firm of James McKinney & Son, of Albany, where the principal work is executed.

A dinner was held on Tuesday evening, May 5, of the contractors, superintendents of construction and foremen, who have been connected in the erection of the new Singer Tower. The affair took place at Ye Old Chop House, No. 108 Cedar st, and many speeches were made in celebration of the building, which is now nearing completion. Among those present were: Architect of the building, Ernest Flagg; John J. Donavan, assistant superintendent of construction, acted as toastmaster; John Skillman, general superintendent of construction; F. P. Whiting, consulting engineer; Charles G. Armstrong, superintendent; H. P. Cram and Henry J. Howell, associate superintendents; W. R. Warner, J. P. Butler and John D. Dordan, of the mason contracting firm of John P. Brady & Co.; William Boyle, of Milliken Brothers, and George Bartless, chief draftsman.

ENAMELED BRICKS REQUIRE CARE.—Few products in construction circles demand and receive more care in the manufacture than enameled bricks. When such a commodity runs up to $75 per thousand and is not worth 20 per cent. of this amount as a "second" the necessity of close attention is seen. Talking along this line Mr. Woodruff Smith, of the Sayre & Fisher Company, 261 Broadway, said:

"If any mistake is made in the manufacture of enamel bricks, they are almost valueless as 'seconds.' If there is the slightest flaw they are rejected, for such bricks run high and are used for places where only the finest can be used. As a result the greatest care is exercised in their preparation and final testing.

" 'Seconds' are used in the better class of stables, in sub-cellars, in certain parts of garages, or in any place where their use is adaptable and where they are liable to get dirty. For such purposes they sell for about $15 a thousand. This is quite a reduction from $75 a thousand and shows the necessity of being careful in manufacturing them. We do it to protect ourselves."

—With its characteristic sense of the artistic the Atlas Portland Cement Company has issued a very handsome book descriptive of the qualities of the Atlas brand of cement. The illustrations, to show the use to which the cement has been put, are among the best seen in any catalogue of recent date. A copy can be had at the office of the company, 30 Broad st.

THE WEEK.

WHILE the volume of business consummated was not quite so large as last week, still the showing made was gratifying. There is somewhat of a better feeling prevailing. The more conservative brokers adhere to the opinion that there will not be a large buying movement until after the election. This is a reasonable stand to take. In the past a falling off in business generally preceding every Presidential election has been noticed. This does not only apply to the real estate business, but the mercantile field as well. The argument put out by some is, why should 1908 be an exception? While this is probably true, still the actual value of property has not deteriorated. Those people with money to invest in realty will do well to look around and shop. There are bargains to be had. It may mean holding their purchase for a while, but if judgment is used in the selection of the parcel, before long a substantial profit can be obtained. This same argument applies to building. Houses can be constructed considerably less than was possible a couple of years ago. Anyone contemplating improving their present holdings will do well to look into carefully the current prices. There are a large number of buildings under consideration and many believe the fall will see a large movement in this quarter.

Among the sales of importance put through was that of the 12-sty commercial building, 114 to 116 West 27th st, 200 ft. west of 6th av. The sellers, the Felt Construction Co., have built and disposed of three buildings in this neighborhood. This present deal is said to have involved about $400,000. Another sale was closed was across the street. Nos. 109 and 111 West 27th st was purchased by Michael Coleman, who then resold it to the Marmack Construction Co., with a building loan. This latter company contemplates the erection of an 11-sty and basement fireproof loft and store building. The 5-sty American basement dwelling, 18 East 82d st, an exceptionally well-built house, was also sold. This building was erected three or four years ago, and is in splendid condition. It is stated that $60,000 was spent on the interior decorations, which were executed by Baumgarten. This property has been held at $200,000. The feature of the trading in Washington Heights was that the majority of parcels reported sold were improved. A few weeks ago the activity was almost wholly confined to large vacant corners, while at the present time there seems to be a good demand by investors for improved parcels. Five 3-sty dwellings, 554, 556, 560, 564 and 570 West 161st st, were disposed of to Henry Siebert, Jr. These houses were in the possession of the present seller less than a year. The sales put through in the Bronx not only included vacant property, but also plots improved with small one and two-family dwellings. The amount that changed hands was somewhat smaller than of late, undoubtedly owing to the number of vacant lots advertised for sale at auction.

Among the mortgages recorded was one given to the Bowery Savings Bank by John B. Russell, of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., on the property, No. 180 Riverside drive, on the northeast corner of 90th st. This property is 159.9x25x irregular. The mortgage is for $200,000 and runs for five years at 5 per cent. The City Real Estate Co. loaned to Emanuel Doctor $172,500 on the property, Nos. 3624 to 3630 Broadway, on the northeast corner of 149th st, 99.11x100. The due date and rate are as per bond. The Hanover Realty & Construction Co. borrowed from Charles A. Fisher $88,000 for three years at five per cent on Nos. 133 and 135 Sherman av, each 40x150, located about 100 ft. west of Academy st, and also a similar amount from William W. Robinson on the property adjoining, located 180 ft. west of Academy st. The Sound Heights Corporation gave a mortgage to the Lawyers' Title Insurance Co. for $350,000 for three years at five per cent on the property which comprises part of the farm of Abijah Hammond at Throgmorton's Neck; also the Whitestone Ferry dock at Throgg's Neck and a gore of land conveyed by Harrison & Ogden to Lorillard, Jr., and also lands under water. The Building & Engineering Co. secured a loan of $540,000, due Nov. 1, 1910, at six per cent from K. Francis Coleman on the property 45 to 51 West 25th st, located 125 ft. east of 6th av, 100x98. This is in the form of a building loan.

THE AUCTION MARKET

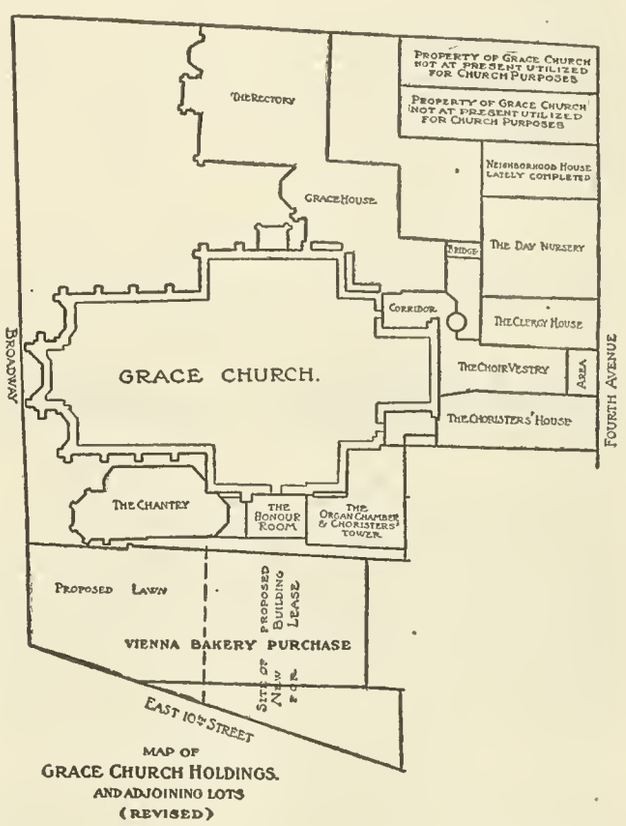
THE principle event of the week was the offering of 246 lots known as the Wolfe estate by the Domestic Realty Co. This property is located in the Bronx, facing White Plains road, Boston av, Bronx Boulevard, Mace, Barker, Waring, Olinville avs and the Bronx Botanical Gardens and Park. They were put up for sale by Joseph P. Day. The terms of the sale were generous, seventy per cent of the purchase price being allowed to remain on mortgage at 5½ per cent for one, two or three years, at the option of the purchaser. Policies of title insurance were given free of cost to the buyers.

It is questionable whether the salesroom has held as large a gathering in a long time as was assembled when the sale opened. The northerly section of the tract was offered first. The lot known as No. 159, which is located 75 ft. west of Olinville av, brought $1,150, the purchaser exercising the option of taking the adjoining lot on the east. The highest price of the day, $2,500, was paid for the lot 25x100 at the southwest corner of White Plains road and Mace av. The lowest price paid was $100 for the lot known as No. 247, located 75 ft. east of Olinville av. The old White Plains Road goes through this parcel and the title was not guaranteed, except to a small gore, which Mr. Day nicknamed the "watch-charm." Taken as a whole the prices obtained were considered exceedingly good. The total amount realized by the sale was $202,315.

Next week will be a notable one for Bronx lots. On Monday, May 11, at the stand of Bryan L. Kennelly 41 lots and one 2-family dwelling on East 232d st will be offered. This property faces on Baychester av, Kingsbridge Road, Livingston st, East 232d st and Rose pl, Wakefield, and the northwest corner of 4th av and East 211th st, Williamsbridge.

On the following day at the stand of Joseph P. Day 369 lots with water front on the Bronx River will be put up for sale to the highest bidder. This property is sold by order of the Hunts Point Realty Co. These two offerings following so closely after that of the Wolfe Estate property will pretty well determine the feeling of the investing public toward property in this borough.

D. Phoenix Ingraham, of D. Phoenix Ingraham & Co., auctioneers, said: "The market is all right. To be sure it is not rampant, but still it is in a healthy condition. There are several reasons for the poor prices obtained at recent foreclosure sales. The loans in many cases are too large in the first instance; the size of many loans makes speculators hesitate before they are willing to undertake so large a contract. In many instances the buildings are in an unfinished state. Builders being unable to get their payments on the building loans, also experience difficulty in securing their permanent loans. It is well known that the percentage of people who purchase for cash is very small. In nearly every instance a mortgage is placed on the property disposed of. The tightness of this kind of money has driven many out of the market. There is, however, a ready sale for low-priced lots."



CHURCH TO IMPROVE HOLDING.

NORTHEAST CORNER OF BROADWAY AND 10TH ST SOON TO BE RAZED.

With the last day of April the lease expired on the northeast corner of Broadway and 10th st. This property has been occupied for a number of years by the Fleischmann Vienna Bakery. In 1904 Grace Church purchased this property for $375,000. In the main there were two reasons for so doing (a) as a precaution against fire, of which the building now occupying the premises put the church in constant peril; and (b) as a safeguard against the erection of some commercial structure, such as would completely overshadow the church.

This property years ago belonged to the church. The vestry, however, disposed of it, stipulating that no building should be erected on the Broadway front of the lot. The repurchase of this holding by the church removes this easement. There is a small strip of land on this property which belongs to the Sailors Snug Harbor, and to which the church has a long-term lease.

There have been a number of plans suggested as how to improve this holding, but as yet no decision has been reached. The present structure is going to be razed and a lawn planted. This will be, however, only a temporary improvement. A blind wall will be built on the easterly side of the property, and it is proposed to cover it with vines.

MAP OF
AND ADJOINING LOTS
(REVISED)

In a parochial letter Dr. William R. Huntington, rector of Grace church, stated that it was his hope and desire that the following be done: "(1), to set apart the westerly portion of the land for some 50 ft. from Broadway as an extension of the present churchyard, fencing it uniformly with the rest of our frontage, and laying it with grass and shrubbery; and (2), erect upon the remaining and easterly portion an income-producing building facing 10th st, the rental of which would cover the interest upon the money needed for the construction of it. For the carrying out of the plan thus outlined the sum of $250,000 would be required."

The Vienna Bakery is still occupying the corner, but is a tenant only from day to day. The company has rented the northwest corner of Broadway and 11th st, and will shortly move into its new quarters.

RELEASED FROM BANKRUPTCY.—An amicable arrangement has been reached between the creditors of the J. C. Lyons Building and Operating Co. and that concern. Judge Hough in the United States District Court gave permission for an order to be drawn and submitted to him which, if confirmed by the court, will release the firm from bankruptcy. Samuel Goldsticker, the real estate broker, E. Ritzma de Grove and Simon Soldin were the trustees of the bankrupt firm. They were represented by S. S. Menken, of Philban, Beekman & Menken, and L. D. Armstrong, of Garvan, Armstrong & Conger, appeared for the company. The adjustment provides that the creditors shall receive fifty per cent. in fifteen months and fifteen per cent. in two years, secured by notes. To this the creditors acquiesce. The estate of Ernest G. Stedman, who was vice-president of the company, and was killed by a subway train shortly after the failure, endorses the arrangement.

LAW DEPARTMENT

A DISAGREEABLE SITUATION.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you kindly advise me through your valuable paper in regard to the following: A and B each have an equal interest in a house. B is desirous of selling his share. A will not consent to sell the house, or buy B's share, or sell his share to B. Are there any means, whether legal or fraudulent, by which B could compel A to take his share, or make any kind of a transaction by which he could sell the house other than by a partition sale? PROTECTION.

Answer.—We know of no other legal means than a partition suit to end the disagreeable partnership in land. As to any "means fraudulent," we would refer our questioner to the records of the District Attorney's office.

"POLICE POWER AND THE PUBLIC HEALTH."

FOR years we have been wandering in uncertainty; on the one side wondering whither the golden path might lead; on the other, how the crushing of individual liberty for which the forefathers emigrated to America might in some fashion be prevented.

Commencing with the plausible theory that the individual, upon due compensation made to him, must sacrifice for the good of the whole, we had rapidly gotten in effect through the doctrine of Police Power to the point where by mandatory departmental regulation the individual must stand and deliver for the claimed good of the public, not only without compensation, but paying the freight for his own delivery to the executioner.

But how to justify? The growth of individualism had not been choked entirely, in fact either. In spite of Bellamy's "Looking Backward"—in spite of Tennyson's description of Nature, "so careful of the type she seems so careless of the single life"—in spite of the popular Procrustean theory of the labor union that one wage shall measure all individual effort, there was life in the old tree of individualism, in at least one branch, the female branch, if we may so term. Womanhood was emerging from the side of man, and rapidly acquiring rights of individuality, intoxicating in their novelty and freedom.

Thus went on in the courts and in the halls of legislation this strange, anomalous course of proceeding—the strangling of the male individual freedom—the fostering of the female!

And again—how to justify! This line of double-dealing, if it may so be termed—not necessarily invidiously—was dividing, and was not only separating into diverse lines, but diverse lines that were rapidly spreading apart, threatening a bad tumble for legislative foundations and pillars of the law alike. It is true the courts had for the moment called a halt in the destruction of the rights of male individualism, as instanced in the refusal to justify the sacrifice of the individual without compensation for the good of the whole—the Union—by means of that far more efficient tool than any Police Law—the Boycott. But this was but a halt! And the growth of the favored female individualism had likewise received a check in the legislative refusal to require equal pay in the public school system to all women teachers as to male. But this, too, was but a halt. At any session Congress might relieve Labor from the decision of the Supreme Court, and a more gallant Governor restore the ladies to the proud position they have so long been seeking, of being just as good as the men they have so long been held superior to.

Then must the two conflicting points of view be brought face to face for logical justification—the destruction of the individual without compensation for the good of the race, if male; the destruction of the race for the good of the individual, if female!

Happily for Bellamy, happily for Tennyson, and the other social evolutionists of a system by which everybody might be made happy at the expense of the nefarious rich, the check of the queen was lifted, and the logic of her treatment—in such direct conflict with that accorded the male individual made good, by the recent decision of the "Oregon" case in the Supreme Court of the United States putting her upon a shelf—the marked favoritism of the laws of individual protection (for females) justified by classifying "her" by herself, on the score of the Public Health. In refusing her the right to labor for ten hours just like a man, the pill is sugared with "that class of society charged with the chief functions of race preservation must be surrounded with peculiar safeguards, and securely sheltered against risks and perils that the law permits men freely to incur in their daily affairs."

From now on the ladies will be protected out of their rights as individuals (for which they have so long fought, and for so long been favored alike by courts and legislatures) by the same shibboleth of "the Public Health," as will in turn be employed to club down the once prized rights of the male individual. And to close this requiem of the slaying, of the rights of "individual" man (whether male or female), logically as well as legally, might paraphrase the closing words of a justly celebrated seeker after public favor, and the justificator of a somewhat similar sacrifice of the rights of an individual. "Better that [the rights of] one man should die, than that the nation suffer"—in its Public Health.

Henceforth the individual is dead—long live "Police Power," "Public Health" and the "Children of the State" (once known as "the People")—and the greatest of these (to conjure with) shall be "Public Health!"

BILL REGULATING BRONX LEGAL SALES.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The brokers and auctioneers of the Bronx call attention to the fact that both branches of the Legislature have passed this bill by an almost unanimous vote two years in succession, and are surprised to learn that the Manhattan auctioneers are again opposing it. The reason is obvious. They don't want it to become a law because it will divide the business which they have so long monopolized. They claim the present order of things should be continued, and cite the care with which the court prescribed the area in which the salesroom should be located, while it is very well known that certain political interests were largely instrumental in restricting the area so that the Vesey street room would have to be selected, as it was the only place large enough to let at that time.

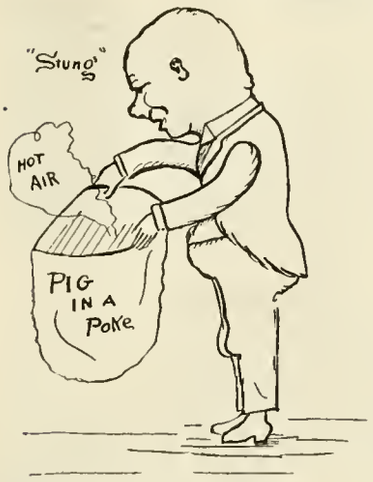
Regarding the hardship and inconvenience claimed, it might as well be argued against Queens and Brooklyn, and legal sales in these boroughs abolished. There is really nothing in this claim, as the property in the Bronx does not interest the speculators who frequent the Manhattan salesroom, as is conclusively proven on page 830 of the Record and Guide of May 2. There were six Bronx properties sold under foreclosure during the past week, every one of them went to the plaintiffs, and on five of them deficiency judgments were entered against the mortgagors. This disposes of the claim that Manhattan business men in large numbers attend sales in Vesey street.

As to opposition by the attorneys, we know of none except what we read about, as the Bronx Bar Association has endorsed the measure, and many Manhattan attorneys have expressed themselves strongly in favor of the bill. The large loaning institutions would also be benefitted if this bill became a law, as most of them don't care to go into the real estate business and are now forced to buy every property foreclosed under the present arrangement, which has already had a marked effect, causing the Bronx to be discriminated against both in size of the loan and the rate of interest charged.

The Bronx builders and operators would be benefitted by being enabled to secure more liberal loans at lower interest if the sales under foreclosure produced more satisfactory results, and this would undoubtedly be the case if the sales were held in a more convenient location. As to many people wanting to attend sales in both boroughs on the same day, we would remind all interested that there are not many at any legal sale to-day unless it happens on a day when other sales are advertised.

The best place to sell real property under foreclosure is where the people understanding the conditions, advanlages and values, can the most easily and quickly get to, and from the salesroom where the property is offered. The vicinity of 3d av and 149th st is the Hub of the Bronx, therefore the most convenient point to reach from all sections of the borough, and logically the best location for a salesroom in which to sell Bronx property under foreclosure. If this bill is signed by Governor Hughes, deficiency judgments will be practically eliminated from the Bronx.

GEO. PRICE,
(Chairman Legal Sales Committee Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers.)



THE HAMILTON TREES.

The last of the famous group of trees supposed to have been planted by Alexander Hamilton has been felled. There has been considerable discussion from time to time as to whether or not these trees were actually planted by Hamilton. They did stand, however, on the old Hamilton farm.

These trees were located on the west side of Convent av, between 142d and 143d sts. The old homestead, which is still standing, is located a block to the south, on the opposite side of the avenue. It is now used as a school and stands adjoining St. Luke's Church. The small boys in the neighborhood have been reaping quite a harvest by selling pieces of these trees for souvenirs to passers-by, at prices ranging from 10 to 25 cents.

The property in this vicinity has one of the most binding restrictions of any in the city. Special permission had to be obtained when St. Luke's Church was built, and considerable difficulty was encountered when the Catholic church on the north side of 142d st was contemplated. The stone used in this building was carried from 23d st and 4th av, and was formerly part of the old American Academy of Design building.

—F. E. Barnes moved his 2 offices at 4th av and 25th st and 217 West 125th st to 11 West 28th st. Mr. Barnes was at the first named location for 29 years. The building is now being razed to make room for a building for the Provident Loan Society.

INCOME FROM IMPROVED BUSINESS PROPERTY

What net income do holders of improved business properties in other cities than New York receive? The Seattle Real Estate Association, in a pamphlet published by them, give the following figures:

The owners of business properties in Atlanta receive 5 per cent; Baltimore, 6; Boston, 4; Buffalo, 4; Chattanooga, 8; Chicago, 6; Cincinnati, 10; Columbus, 8; Dallas, 6; Denver, 6; Des Moines, 6; Detroit, 6; Duluth, 8; Grand Rapids, 5; Indianapolis, 8; Jersey City, 8; Kansas City, 7; Louisville, 5; Lowell, 6; Lynn, 6; Memphis, 6; Milwaukee, 7; Minneapolis, 7; Nashville, 6; Omaha, 12; Philadelphia, 7; Pittsburgh, 5; Portland, 6; Providence, 4; Reading, 6; Richmond, 5; Rochester, 10; San Francisco, 5 (before fire); Savannah, 12; Scranton, 6; Seattle, 8; Spokane, 7; St. Joseph, 10; St. Louis, 5; St. Paul, 8; Tacoma, 8; Toledo, 5; Vancouver, 8; Wilmington, 6; Winnepeg, 8; Worcester, 5.

These figures give food for thought to prospective investors, in realty, of this class. When looking over the comparative prices, it would be well to remember that nowhere in the world is there as ready a market as in New York. Every day it is apparent that this view of the matter is growing, for outside capital is pouring into this city. The ideal security to have is one that is safe, which returns a good interest on the investment and for which there is a demand. Should you desire to convert an investment into cash, it ought to be of such a nature that a fair price for it can be obtained.

AN EXPENSIVE PROCEEDING.

It is declared by property owners in the Bronx that the awards for the enlargement of Bronx Park are larger than they should be. The total award of the Commissioners for less than five-sixths of the property is $603,875.35. No less than $150,000 more will be paid for the remainder, so that by the time the entire matter is closed up the total cost will have footed up something like three-quarters of a million dollars. Condemnation proceedings for the property were instituted in December, 1905. It is asserted that immediately upon the passage of the favorable resolution by the Board of Estimate "somebody got busy," and before residents in that zone fully understood the situation title to a large portion of the tract changed ownership. The outcome of the situation will be watched with interest.

WESTCHESTER R. R. CASE ARGUED.—An appeal from the order confirming the report of the commissioners in condemnation proceedings for the New York, Westchester and Boston Railroad has been argued before the Appellate Division. The principal question is whether the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway Company is a corporation, the defendants claiming that it was never organized according to law and never acquired the franchises and powers of a railroad corporation, and that if it ever was lawfully organized or acquired such powers the corporate existence and powers have ceased and terminated, and that it has not now the capacity or power to maintain condemnation proceedings. Decision reserved. Charles Gibson Bennett for appellants; Wm. B. Hornblower and J. Tredwell Richards for respondents.

URGE IMMEDIATE ACTION.

A MASS MEETING was held at Lyric Hall on Wednesday evening to urge the extension of 6th and 7th avs, and the widening of Varick st to Franklin st and West Broadway. The chief subject, though, was the matter of extending the 7th avenue subway to the Bronx, a matter of high importance to owners of property and residents of the West Side.

Much plain langauge was indulged in by those prominent in the gathering, and resolutions were adopted calling for the immediate construction of a four-track subway, beginning at the Battery and running under Greenwich st and West Broadway to Franklin st, thence under Varick st and the proposed extension of 7th av and the present 7th av, to 7th av and 59th st, and through Central Park West, 8th av and Jerome av, as laid out and approved by the authorities.

Many of those who attended the meeting represented real estate interests along 7th av and lower 6th av who are anxious that there be no delay in carrying out the improvements.

"If the construction of the 7th avenue subway is delayed until after the Pennsylvania tunnel is in operation," said ex-Borough President Cantor in a characteristic address, "the police will not be able to handle the crowd."

The chairman of the meeting was Hon. Daniel Daly, and the secretary, Michael J. Joyce.

A MEMORABLE OCCASION.

At the banquet of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange given in honor of the Hudson tunnel builders on Saturday night, Governor Fort expressed surprise at the large number of Jerseyites engaged in selling real estate. "I knew there were many real estate dealers in New Jersey," said the Governor, "but I never knew before that so near the entire population of the State was engaged in selling realty."

Much credit is due President Otto Kempner for the success of the dinner, and it is the consensus of opinion that the occasion has done much toward amalgamating a stronger tie of friendship and business interests between New York and New Jersey real estate dealers than existed before.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

I. Fragner moved his real estate office from 60 Liberty st to 95 Liberty st.

William F. Koch, real estate broker, has removed his office to 170 Broadway, room 1317.

Thomas T. Hopper has moved his offices to the Marbridge Bldg, Broadway and 34th st.

William B. Hogan announces that he has moved his real estate office to 367 West 125th st.

Simon C. Bernstein, real estate operator, removed his office from 71 Nassau st to 170 Broadway.

N. L. & L. Ottinger have moved their office to the 7th floor in the Bank of Commerce Bldg, 31 Nassau st.

Kittenplan & Rubinger, builders and real estate operators, have removed their office to 220 Broadway st, Paul Bldg.

Pocher & Co., real estate and insurance brokers, have removed their branch office from 499 to 670 Lexington av. The main office is at 126 West 34th st.

George F. Mahnken & Co. removed their office from 3610 Broadway to 3648 Broadway, corner of 150th st, where they will make a specialty of managing property.

The New York Central Realty Co., of 1133 Broadway, have removed their offices to more spacious quarters in the Marbridge Bldg, 1322 Broadway, corner 34th st.

Parish, Fisher & Co. were the brokers who negotiated the sale of the four 3-sty houses, 38, 40, 42 and 44 West 26th st to Eugene E. and Perry Hinkle for Mrs. Mary U. Strong, widow of ex-Mayor Strong.

The General Electric Co. transferred to the Broadway-Cortlandt Co. for $450,000 the property 42 Broad st, running through to 38 New st. The size of this parcel is 21 × 153.9, and is part of the site of the Edison Bldg.

William J. Roome, the real estate agent, will move his office to 175 Madison av, just south of 34th st. He has leased the entire building, but will sublet a part of it. Extensive alterations are about to be commenced.

A rather unique form of advertising has been resorted to by Joseph P. Day. Postal cards have been mailed daily to prospective purchasers with photographs showing "How to get to the Hunts Point section." There will be a sale in the Exchange salesroom, 14 and 16 Vesey st, on May 12, when 369 lots will be disposed of.

According to statistics the savings banks of New York paid out on withdrawals for the year $421,000,000. Receipts from new deposits amounted to $390,000,000, leaving a net loss in the total of $31,000,000. This loss of deposits is partly ascribed to the increase in real estate investments as well as the lack of confidence in financial institutions as a result of recent disclosures.

THE MOVEMENT TOWARD THE SUBURBS.

It cannot be denied that there is a decided movement toward the suburbs. While it is to be admitted that at this season of the year the desire to get away from the city block and into the wide country is strong, still the unusual migration to the suburban districts now in progress cannot be traceable entirely to that tendency.

There appears to be good grounds for the belief that the public has awakened to the possibilities of speculating in small dwellings in the nearby towns, which it is believed has been brought about by a fuller realization of the true import of extended transportation. Then, too, the large army of small buyers, stimulated by previous successes, are acquiring desirable parcels of land within the suburban belt, with a view of taking a substantial increment from their purchase in a year or two. Without doubt, though, the bulk of the buying in the outskirts is on the part of those who contemplate the erection of dwellings, and reports from local agents indicate that the activity in this direction is gaining momentum rapidly.

It may be stated with some assurance that in most of the near-by towns, both in New York and New Jersey, the wants of the moderately well to do can now be well and sufficiently satisfied.

ACTION TAKEN BY BOARD OF ESTIMATE.—The Board of Estimate took action on acquiring title to Van Alst av, between Hoyt and Winthrop avs. General satisfaction is being expressed by the realty companies who are developing land through which it passes. This avenue was originally mapped 150 ft. wide, but was subsequently changed to 100 ft., at which width it was laid down on the city map. The Board of Estimate confirmed the width as at present laid out. This avenue forms a direct thoroughfare from the Blackwell's Island Bridge to the northerly part of Long Island City.

Area of assessment: Both sides of the Southern boulevard, from East 138th st to Boston road, at 174th st, and to the extent of half the block at the intersecting and terminating streets and avenues. Assessment entered May 7. Payable within 60 days.

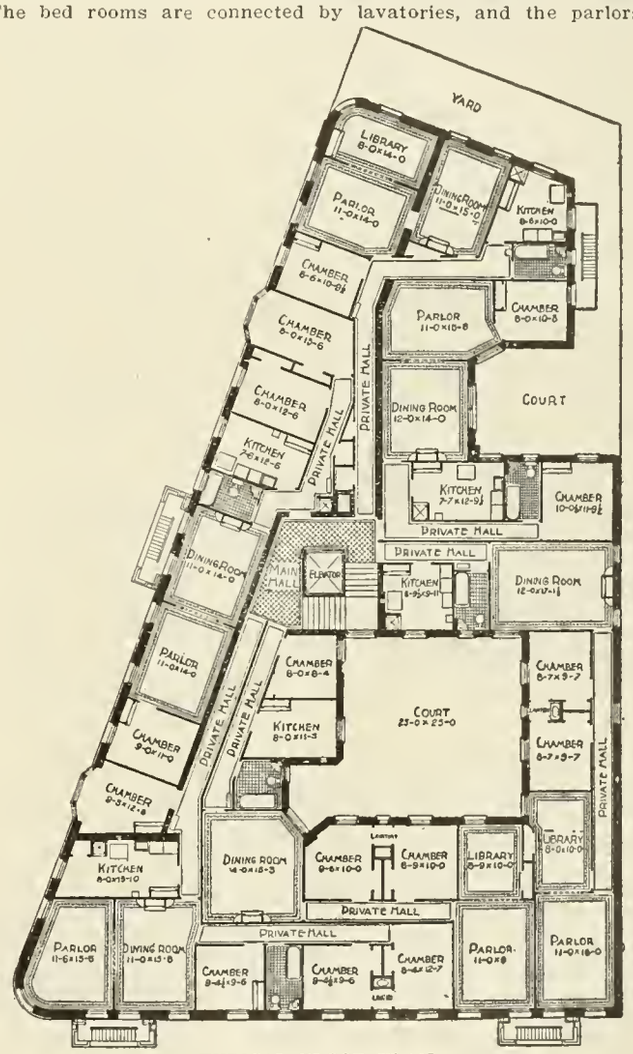
POOR TRAIN SERVICE AROUSES TAXPAYERS.

The members of the Bedford Park Taxpayers' Association are anxious to be placed on record as being in favor of more trains being run on the New York Central Railroad to better accommodate the public within the limits of the city. The association contends that the arbitrary manner in which trains are changed from time to time puts the public to much inconvenience, making it necessary for them to seek other means of getting to and from their places of business. It further asserts that this has been the policy of the railroad company for years, and that residents in the section affected feel that they are being discriminated against.

Steps are about to be taken to compel the offender to meet the requirements in the direction indicated. The matter is now in the hands of the Committee on Rapid Transit, of which Alfred J. Williams, of 373 East 207th st, is chairman.

BEAUTIFYING THE STREETS.—The Department of Parks has begun laying sod on the streets under its supervision. This work has about been completed on West 72d st, from Central Park to Riverside Drive, and the work will shortly be commenced on that thoroughfare. Similar work has been started in the smaller parks, such as Madison and Union Square, which adds greatly to their beauty.



ELEVATOR APARTMENTS PAY IN BRONX.

It has frequently been maintained by well informed property owners in the Bronx that the time is unripe for the building of elevator apartment houses in that zone. The chief argument advanced by them against the erection of such struetures is that they are likely to remain only partly tenanted, and therefore, after the deduction of fixed charges, cannot pay adequate returns on the money invested.

That the actual facts concerning their maintenance do not bear out the prevailing supposition is evidenced by the signal results attending the management of the Manhanset, at the intersection of Prospect, Longwood and Westchester avs. The building in question being the first elevator apartment to be erected in the Bronx.

So pronounced has been the success of the Manhanset that it has greatly encouraged building along similar lines, and a number of other elevator apartments have since been erected in that locality.

As will be seen by the floor plan the arrangement of the rooms in the building in question permits of wide private halls. The bed rooms are connected by lavatories, and the parlors, libraries and dining rooms are grouped together and connected by wide openings. The apartments consist of two of 5 rooms and bath, two of 6 and two of 7 on each floor above the first. In all 30 families now occupy the building. A distinct feature in the lay out is the arrangement of chambers, which are so separated from the living rooms that all the privacy of a residence is afforded.

Mr. A. Brakman, the present owner, acquired title to the Manhanset about a year ago and is enthusiastic over his purchase. "I used to be skeptical about the earning power of elevator apartments," he said recently, "but all my doubts were dispelled when I footed up the year's profit on my investment, which netted me 16 per cent. Yes, elevator apartments will pay in the Bronx, providing they are built along the line of quick transit. My apartments rent for an average of $8 per room, and vacancies are unknown."

In this connection it can be stated that preliminary sketches are being prepared, and plans will shortly be drawn for a similar apartment to be erected by a syndicate on or near Longwood av at an early date.

FILLING A SKYSCRAPER.

HOW are tenants for skyscrapers obtained? Where do they all come from? These questions are repeatedly asked by persons outside the inner circle. The replies to the questions are so numerous and varied that only a few of them can be given at this time.

In the first place, before the building is constructed the question of prospective tenants is carefully gone into. On Manhattan Island business is colonized. The wholesale furriers are in one section of the city, the woolen merchants in another, the retail dry-goods houses in another, and in the same way tenants in the same line of business congregate in a given location. Take for example a portion of William st. The majority of tenants are in the insurance business, while a great number of lawyers have chosen Nassau st for their offices. Buildings in the financial district are naturally occupied mostly by people associated and identified with the purchase and sale of that class of security. Therefore a contemplated building is laid out with the end in view of catering to the class of tenants most likely to be obtained.

In the second place, the offices are in most cases built in suites so that the future occupant can rent anywhere from one to a dozen or more rooms. The disposing of these offices is certainly a science. In many instances long leases are refused a firm which only occupies one or two rooms, on the theory that should another and stronger concern come along and require more space, it could be accommodated.

Before the building is completed the renting agents frequently go to concerns in the line of business that in the agent's opinion are possible tenants and offers to fix the offices to suit the taste of the lessee are made. As an example, a prominent railroad last fall decided to move. Their old quarters were not satisfactory because they were so scattered. An offer was made to the company of the requisite amount of space in an office building which was rapidly nearing completion. The lease was finally closed. The owners of the building secured a desirable tenant, the company obtained accommodations that suited their purposes. Much was done by the landlord in the way of decorations and laying out the offices, but the amount paid and the length of the lease warranted the expenditure.

The system inaugurated by the renting agent of the Hudson & Manhattan Terminal buildings, Mr. K. B. Conger, has worked out splendidly. A regular campaign was started as far back as last November. On the first day of that month a circular letter was mailed to each firm who had signed a lease, asking that a date be set by them for moving into their new quarters. No attention was paid to this communication.

A second circular letter was sent out in February stating, there was such a demand for moving vans, that unless arrangements were speedily completed it would be impossible to get moved in on time. A schedule was made out. A given hour, on a given day, was set aside for each concern. It was understood that if the articles to be moved were not ready, the delinquent would have to go to the bottom of the list.

Each firm was assigned one or more elevators for its exclusive use while moving in and everything made as easy as possible. All the principle movers in the city were put in touch with the tenants, and there was competitive bidding. This assured a reasonable figure.

Since April 13th on an average of 80 van loads have been moved into the building each day. Few people, however, would realize that this is true. The police on the traffic squad are notified which vans to expect and allow through. Their co-operation has greatly simplified matters.

While the buildings have their own renting force, still they do business with real estate brokers. A form of contract between the company and the broker is printed herewith which has mutual advantages. The broker has his authorization and agreement as to length of time he has to complete the negotiation. This is, in a measure, an option. In several cases where this agreement was for sixty days, and negotiations were uncompleted at the end of that time a new agreement was made out extending the time.

Dear Sir:

In consideration of the presentation to us by you of the name of Mr. ———, who desires to rent space in our Church Street terminal buildings, we agree to pay you a commission of 2½% on the first year's rental on a lease made with this party for a term of one or under three years, or a commission of 1% on the gross rental on a lease made with this party for a term of three or more years, subject, however, to the following conditions:

The commission aforesaid shall be paid to you only if a lease shall be duly executed and delivered on or before ———, 1907, at midnight. If a lease shall not be executed and delivered before said date you shal have no claim of any kind against us in connection with said lease.

That if a lease shall not be executed and delivered on or before said date, we shall be entirely free to negotiate direct and without liability to you, or to employ any other persou we may see fit to negotiate for a lease or leases with this party.

Very truly yours,

HUDSON & MANHATTAN RAILROAD CO.,

The above letter correctly states the agreement between us.

LOOKING JERSEYWARD.

By HON. OTTO KEMPNER.

In a recent number of the Record and Guide, editorial attention was called to the "turning Jerseyward" of the tide of home-buyers that is constantly seeking an outlet from the congested Metropolitan zone. The article in question states as a reason for the drift of the current in that direction "that there is no limit to the means of communication between that State and New York, and that the completion of the McAdoo and Pennsylvania tunnels, together with the improved service afforded by many new and fast ferry-boats, transportation facilities can easily be made to keep pace with the requirements of the growing population." In further proof of its claim that the New Yorker is settling westward of the Hudson River, the same article states as a fact that "to such an extent has the demand for Jersey property grown, and so profitable has become the handling of real estate in that zone, that many firms and corporations heretofore engaged in developing property on Long Island and in the Bronx have opened offices in the State in question with the view of catering especially to the requirements of the New York City business man."

HON. OTTO KEMPNER.

The keen observer of events in the realm of real estate must admit that there is no exaggeration in the above picture. It is, indeed, undeniable that the trend of suburban migration is strongly in the direction of New Jersey. Other sections around the Greater New York have had their periods of supremacy, when each in turn proved the particular "shining mark" for the home-seeker, but at present it is, so to speak, New Jersey's day in court. As "the whirligig of time brings in his revenges," so has it brought this grievously neglected and deeply maligned State to its own at last, and enabled its business men to press forward under the rallying cry of "New Jersey to the Front."

What makes New Jersey the special magnet for the suburbanite at the present time is the question that this little essay will attempt to answer. It is but natural that I should mention, in the first instance, its superior railroad facilities. Nine great trunk lines have their Eastern terminals at Jersey City, and each of them maintains a number of subsidiary branches that radiate in all directions. There are towns in New Jersey within the Metropolitan belt served by two or more railroad systems that boast of their three hundred trains per day. There is no territory anywhere around Greater New York that begins to compare with the adjacent parts of New Jersey in the excellence of its transit accommodations. As the means of communication must always be a prime factor in rural development, New Jersey in that particular respect enjoys a pre-eminence that puts all her rivals out of the running. It has six commuting roads, namely, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Pennsylvania, the Susquehanna, the Lackawanna, the Erie and the West Shore. They carry daily close on to 300,000 commuters. They run frequent trains, and their commutation rates are lower than those charged by the railroads of either New York, Connecticut or Long Island. Anyone living within a radius of eight to ten miles of the New York City Hall, in Brooklyn, or in the Bronx (except he reside on the line of the Manhattan subway) requires an hour to an hour and a half to reach his business destination in the city; but he may live even beyond a twenty-mile circle on the Jersey side and come to his place of business in about one-half that time. The Hudson River tunnels will further, and very materially, reduce the duration of his trip. It is for this reason mainly that the people are LOOKING JERSEYWARD for their homes, and that the dwellers of Flatbush and of Flushing, of the Bronx and of Brooklyn—disgruntled over their faulty transit situation—are casting envious glances at their more fortunate suburban brethren settled amid the fertile fields of New Jersey.

If the scale of transit advantage already inclines strongly towards the Jersey shore, how much stronger will be the inclination when through transit to the Metropolis becomes an accomplished fact? Obviously, there will be an onward rush of land-hungry hordes to the neighboring State the moment dependence on the archaic ferry system ceases. Just as in our Western territories, when some reserved section is suddenly thrown open to new settlers, and on the appointed hour the government removes the barriers to allow the public to enter

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assesment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) Signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against curporations, etc., will be found at the end of the list.

NONALYKE preserves the famous Yachts,—Reliance, Defender, Constitution, Shamrock, etc., and adorns and preserves the walls of many famous buildings, including THE METROPOLITAN LIFE BUILDING.

C. OLIVER ISELIN says: "The Paint supplied by you is the best I have ever had."

THE IDEAL ENAMEL PAINT!

"NONALYKE" can be applied to bare wood or plaster without using White Lead, Zinc, or other primers. It makes an enamel surface which never cracks, and is impervious to germs of disease.

BLACK OR WHITE, OR COLORS

Send for samples, prices or estimates to the J. L. MITCHELL PAINT CO., 1 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

MANHATTAN.—On Thursday recommendations were made by Fire Commissioner Hayes that thirteen public school buildings in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Richmond, Queens and the Bronx be rebuilt and many others repaired at once. C. B. J. Snyder, 500 Park av, is architect for the Board of Education.

SUMMIT, N. J.—Contract for the construction of a $40,000 school building for St. Theresa's parish has been awarded to E. M. Waldron & Co., of Newark. Brick, 176x112 ft. The work of removing the present frame school building has begun, and the new structure will be started at once. Red brick, terra cotta trimmings.

UTICA, N. Y.—The stockholders of the Utica Female Academy have secured an option on the Palmer House on Cornelia st, near Genesee, for a select school to take the place of the Balliol School property, which has been sold to the Y. M. C. A. for $40,000, possession to be taken July 1. The trustees of the Utica Female Academy intend to establish a school for young people.

TRENTON, N. J.—The taxpayers of Broad Street Park decided by a vote to tear down the present 4-room school house and erect a modern 8-room building on the same site, to which will be added nine lots directly in the rear of the school. William A. Magowan presided at the meeting and Timothy Scobey was secretary. A meeting of the school board will soon be held and plans for the new building will be considered. As soon as the bonds are subscribed ground will be broken.

Stables and Garage Buildings.

ELMIRA, N. Y.—Plans have been made for the erection of a commodious new garage, to be built by Mrs. John A. Reynolds. Bids are to be asked for and work will be commenced as soon as possible.

MERIDEN, CONN.—George Williams has purchased a lot on Morgan st, on which he will build a combined barn and garage. The lot is 140 ft. on Morgan st and 56 ft. deep, and adjoins the property of Ostrander & Vandenburg. Mr. Williams intends to erect a building, equipped both for automobiles and horses.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—From plans of Architect C. T. Beardsley, Jr., Vanstone & Vanstone will build a new garage for J. B. Cornwall on Clinton av, in connection with the new residence now under construction. It will be a frame building with stuccoed exterior. The Dowling & Bottomley Co. will do the mason work, J. Reilly, Jr., the plumbing and Neil M. Muirhead the painting.

Vol. LXXXI. MAY 16, 1908. No. 2096

IT is improbable that the rise in prices in Wall Street can be carried much further under existing business conditions. To be sure the success of the movement has been due in the first place to the much easier condition of the money market, and in the second place to the anticipation of better business to come. These reasons are probably snfficient to justify as much of a rise as that which has already taken place, but they would hardly justify any prolonged continuation of the movement. Before still further gains are made, they will have to be justified by some certain evidence that business is really on the upward grade; and no such evidence is as yet forthcoming. The railroads have been managing, by heroic measures, to cut down their expenditures; but their economies have been effected rather in the maintenance account than in that of operating expenses. They are still faced by a most difficult alternative. They cannot re-establish any proper equilibrium between income and outgo without either reducing wages or raising rates. Of the two alternates, the raising of rates is undoubtedly the one to be preferred, because the railroads are entitled to rates adapted to the generally higher level of prices, and because if wages are not lowered the revival of business will be a much easier and quicker process. On the other hand, it is by no means certain that the railroads can put an increase of rates into effect without incurring a revival of legislative and administrative interference. This, of course, is only one of the problems which faces the big business enterprises of the country; but there are many others. The revival, in order to be wholesome, must be gradual, and must be justified by much preliminary work of reorganization. The country cannot be "boomed" into renewed prosperity.

THERE is much to be said in favor of Mr. William M. Ivins' criticisms of the Robinson amendments to the Rapid Transit Act, but their whole weight disappears when confronted by one supreme consideration. It is only by such an amendment that New York can begin the construction of new subways at any time within three years. The city has no money to appropriate for rapid transit construction until a constitutional amendment can be passed; and such relief is both remote and precarious. Under these circumstances, and considering the critical need for the early beginning of subway construction in Manhattan and the Bronx, there was nothing to be done but to seek the help of private capital and offer to it a profit sufficient to tempt its owners. The city has more to lose by delaying indefinitely construction of new subways than it has to lose by paying capitalists the price of their assistance. The Robinson amendments will accomplish this object without prejudicing the future in any respect. If the city wishes eventually to return to a policy of municipal ownership there will be nothing to hinder it from so doing, and the weakness of Mr. Ivins' argument consists in the fact that he gratuitously assumes the permanence of the present policy. There is no reason to suppose, that the city, as he claims, would be likely to hold its credit for new improvements rather than use it up in purchasing existing subways. Such would only be the tendency, in case the city's debt limit for transit improvements is restricted; but long before the decision has to be made the city will be free to borrow as much as it pleases for profitable subways. If there is a large chance of profit in purchasing the existing system at a fair appraisal, we may trust the city government of that future period to take advantage of the opportunity.

THE elaborate experiment which will soon be made in Cleveland of a three-cent fare on the surface railroads will be watched with interest throughout the whole country. If, as is expected, the receipts on the basis of such a fare will be sufficient to pay six per cent. on the stock of most important of the old companies, the cause of cheap railway fares will be furnished with the strongest argument that has yet been found in its favor; and there seems to be good reason for believing that it will be successful. There can be no doubt, at any rate, that European street railways have been able to make substantial profits on the basis of an average fare decidedly less than five cents. It is usual in Europe to graduate the charges to the length of distance traveled, so that the passenger who goes only a few miles will pay less than five cents, whereas the long-distance traveler may pay more. The American system of charging a universal rate of five cents has been defended on the ground that it encourages the expansion of a city by stimulating the habitation of the outlying districts. The company gets back from the travelers for a short distance the money which is spent upon the long-distance travelers, and the real estate and business interests of the whole city are stimulated by the low fare to and from the outlying districts. There is much to be said for this system of street railway fares. A flat postage-stamp rate is much better for the growth of the whole city than is the graduated system which prevails abroad. On the other hand, there is reason to believe that the flat rate of five cents charged by the American surface railroads is too high. It is much higher than the average charge on the street railways of Europe; and there seems to be good reason why it should be. The fact that wages are higher in this country has not prevented the steam railroads from carrying freight cheaper than do the steam railways of Europe. The recent bankruptcy of the New York City Railway Company has been used as a proof that an excessive development of the transfer system and consequently a lower average fare is necessarily disastrous to a street railway company; but such an inference is wholly unnecessary. The street railways of New York have failed chiefly because they were so congested with traffic that they could neither increase their business nor handle it economically. If a subway company can afford from a five-cent fare to pay interest on a roadbed which costs several million dollars a mile, surely a surface railroad company, whose fixed charges are so much smaller, can afford to make a good profit with a lower fare. It may be added that the subway in Paris earns good dividends on a flat rate of three cents for more than five-sixths of its passengers.

THE chances that Governor Hughes will be a candidate for renomination are getting better and better. Indeed, it is being stated from apparently authoritative sources that in case he fails to pass his anti-gambling bill at the special session of the Legislature, the Governor will appeal to his constituents for another term. Mr. Hughes is needed at Albany far more than he is at Washington. He has really done nothing to deserve his immediate promotion to the Presidency—nothing, that is, compared to what his chief competitor, Mr. Taft, has done. On the other hand, he has done much not merely to deserve but to require his continued presence in the Executive Mansion at Albany. He has had placed on the statute books the most radical piece of legislation for the supervision of public service corporations enacted in any State in the Union; and he should remain at Albany until that legislation has passed well beyond the experimental stage. It may be added that another term at Albany for Mr. Hughes will be very beneficial to the interests of New York City. He has shown a better understanding of the needs of New York and more of a disposition to meet them than any Governor since Roosevelt. It is particularly important that he should be in a position of authority when the work of the Charter Revision Commission comes before the Legislature at its next session. There is, we are afraid, small chance of the passage of the proposed new charter, unless it is backed by the approval and the authority of a very influential Governor. The more New York City has of Mr. Hughes at Albany the better.

THE Public Service Commission has taken an important step which promises well for the future. It has applied to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court asking for an order authorizing an extension of time during which subways may be constructed in Manhattan and the Bronx under the original permission granted to the former Rapid Transit Commissioners. The routes referred to are, of course, those which were laid out on Third, Seventh and Eighth, Lexington and other avenues; and the fact that the Commission wants to keep them alive indicates that it is not irretrievably committed to its own Broadway-Lexington Avenue route. Inasmuch as the public interest demands the desired extension, and the rights of property owners are not at all compromised thereby, it is to be presumed that the permission will be granted. What the Record and Guide would like to see would be the re-advertisement of these old routes, under the more liberal terms, which the Public Service Commission has been empowered to grant. This plan was the best one ever made for securing New York the utmost possible increase of subways on the best possible terms. If extensions to the existing subway promise to be most profitable, such extensions are sure to result from the re-advertisement of this scheme. On the other hand, if an independent subway system offers more advantages, the independent system can be built without delay. The city keeps both doors open until the bids are received, and then the decision can be made on its merits and without pre-conception or prejudice. This plan should be revived in its entirety, and if the necessary permission is granted, new bids should be asked for as soon as such action is legally possible.

A CRY FROM WESTCHESTER.

IT is one of the amiable weaknesses of human nature to believe that its judgments are really of importance in the scheme of affairs. No amount of counter experience mitigates this illusion. If any one, for instance, had been asked 20 years ago to fortell in which direction the suburban growth of New York would be greatest as the metropolis expanded, the answer would certainly have been in and through Westchester County. How many patent facts there were to warrant this opinion! The beauty, the healthfulness, the proximity, the historic associations, etc., etc., everything correct, except the judgment. The one thing overlooked was—the territory is traversed by "America's latest, greatest railroad." Many people of ordinary judgment would be led to imagine that it is a good thing for a territory to be served by a big trunk line, but here again judgment in more senses than one misses its trolley, for, really, would not the trolley do better? It is difficult for a simple-minded trolley to be an hour late in traveling 25 miles, but this is an easy feat for a big trunk line, as one can prove for himself by an attempt to move the distance regularly with reasonable punctuality on the New York Central. There is a legend, we all know, that runs to the effect that the famous "the public be damned" referred more particularly to people who intruded themselves into the suburbs in search of a peacefully approachable home. At any rate, it is common history that this particular corporation has ever accepted its local traffic on sufferance as a rich man might his poor relations. What can you do with them? Better things are promised, no doubt, but it is this everlasting condition of promise that adds tantalization to a tortured patience. In the meantime property owners can gaze upon New Jersey and see the stream of investors build up a generally less favored country, but a country that is fortunately not served by railroads so advertisingly "great."

WESTCHESTER.

FACTORS AT WORK FOR DEVELOPMENT.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Having read in your issue of May 2d the very interesting articles on the factors working for the more intense development of the section of the city from 23d to 42d sts, and 4th to 7th avs, would say that you do not mention the McAdoo or Hudson Tunnels Co.'s subway up 6th av to 32d st (Greeley sq), which, I believe, will exert a very marked and beneficial influence when it is fully completed and developed in conjunction with its various railroad connections, like the Lackawanna R. R. and the Erie R. R., etc.

Aside from this apparent omission, I think your article is one of the most interesting and logical I have ever read on the subject of properly foreseeing the near future influence on a section of the city of an unprecedented combination of beneficial operations now well under way.

My own view as above expressed I have found entertained by a number of real estate and business men with whom I have come in contact since reading your article.

WIRE GLASS AND FIRE WINDOWS.

THEIR PRESENT AND PROSPECTIVE VALUE.

CONSIDERING the magnitude of the national fire loss, it would seem, in the natural order of things, that Materials and Devices for guarding against losses could be administered upon, in a manner to better encourage the co-operation of Architects, Engineers and Owners. In this connection we must allow that the work of fire insurance organizations have gone a great way in classifying, ruling upon, and putting in print for circulation the better methods for building, in a way to reduce fire losses. There remain, however, exceptions, some of which I believe are of sufficient value to receive comments upon.

With reference to wire glass and fire-windows in particular, it has for some reason come to be the custom to associate, in a comparative way, fire-windows and fire-shutters. The more wire glass is studied and comprehended, especially for fire-windows, the stronger becomes the evidence that the capacity of wire glass, as a retardant properly utilized and much more generally employed in building operations, is very much clouded by such an association and comparison.

The standard shutter to-day is tin-clad wood. The standard shutter, to judge from what we see at all points, ten years ago must have been the sheet-iron shutter. It has been found, even recently, that there is not a unanimity of opinion among underwriters having jurisdiction upon the fire-clad wood or sheet-iron shutter.

Regardless of whether the shutter is a single or double locked tin-clad wood shutter, or a reinforced sheet-iron shutter, the doubt is always uppermost as to whether shutters are properly closed, even if the equipments are uniformly in order. This doubt in the minds of insurance capital and owners extends equally to closed light courts, as well as to exposed elevations.

The buildings of to-day with their elaborate and architectural fronts will not always allow shutters. Hotels, office buildings, apartment houses and other various buildings are so used and occupied that shutters would be of doubtful value, as they could not be closed nights, as in factories and merchandizing houses.

The modern architecture in iron, masonry and concrete buildings, that abound with large areas of glass, with a choice of rough, ribbed, mazed or polished, between piers and mullions, to secure renting values by an abundance of light, calls for something better than shutters.

If a fire window were an auxiliary to a common window, like a shutter, I could better understand this everlasting comparison of one to the other. As it is, the fire-window in itself is a window and a retardant fully equal, if not greatly superior, to a shutter, and carries of necessity a better guarantee of protection to the spread of fire on account of its being depended upon for protection from weather and cold.

The possibility of fire by transmission of heat through the glass is a means of claiming a preference for fire shutters, and clouding the valuable capacity of wire glass to endure against heat of any intensity and duration, conditional upon one side of glass in question having exposure to the air. Against the transmission of heat into a building to a point of combustion, I can say with a strong conviction of being confirmed by fire authorities that combustion by transmission of heat through glass requires a steadier heat than can be had across an alley or street with attending currents and swirling of wind that logically accompany heat, and that such a danger can be easily anticipated and prepared for by placing inside guards in front of windows, so as to keep any merchandise 24 or 36 ins. away.

An additional thought on this question of combustion by transmission, worthy of consideration, is that against the area of glass in a room the cubic foot capacity of room should be considered, for it is an easy matter to embarrass the position of a writer by some one citing a very small room where for lack of circulation the transmission of heat would possibly raise the temperature to a point of combustion.

Considering broadly the capacity of wire glass to safeguard any city from the spread of fire by intelligent engineering, I beg that its real worth may be more thoughtfully considered and that the supervising work, as to construction of frames and sashes by the underwriters' laboratories, may find a response at least at the hands of insurance companies looking for preferred risks.

A very assuring factor in fire-window work to-day is the manufacture of fire-windows under the underwriters' tag system. Under the tag system the work is identical to window work in different window constructions that have been tested and approved at Underwriters' Laboratory in Chicago. Every underwriters' window that is tagged has a number that appears on brass plates riveted to frame (commonly called a tag). These tagged windows with destination are examined before shipment and the record, including destination, is recorded both at the Chicago Laboratory and the office of the underwriters having jurisdiction.

There is much more to be said in addition to what I have already offered. As it is, I think it better to wait for an expression of interest on this subject before submitting more.

CONSTRUCTION

BUILDERS TALK TO ARCHITECTS.

A REGULAR MEETING of New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects was held in the rooms of the Concrete Association, on the eleventh floor of the Brunswick Building, on Wednesday evening. The occasion of this meeting was an invitation on the part of the Concrete Association to the Institute to use the association's rooms for their regular meeting, and at the conclusion of the same to listen to a few addresses by men prominent in the concrete industry in this city. The meeting of the institute lasted from 8.30 to 9.30, and the addresses by the different members of the concrete profession occupied the time until about 11.45 P. M. Afterwards a collation was served.

The speakers were President R. F. Tucker, of the Concrete Association, who made some introductory remarks; Mr. H. C. Turner, president of the Turner Construction Co.; Mr. F. G. Webber, Mr. Merrill Watson, and Mr. Norris, of Boston.

Mr. Turner presented about forty-five lantern slides illustrating representative reinforced concrete work as constructed in New York during the past six or seven years. The pictures showed concrete construction of all characters, including sand bins, railroad fences, subway stairs, cow barns, farm buildings, reservoirs, factories, warehouses, mills, office buildings, loft buildings and model factories, such as those of the Bush Terminal Company in South Brooklyn. Among the larger structures thrown on the screen were the following: The Robert Gair Building, Brooklyn; the Eastman Kodak Building, 23d st, Manhattan; the Thonet Building, 36th st, New York City; the Seely factory, 15th st, New York City; the J. B King & Co. plaster mills, New Brighton, Staten Island; the Kenyon factory at Brooklyn; the Bush Terminal Factories Nos. 1, 2 and 3; the Eastern States Refrigerating Company's cold storage plant in Hoboken; the four Keuffel & Esser factories in Hoboken, and the two buildings of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company in Jersey City.

In commenting upon the pictures thrown on the screen, the first points brought out by Mr. Turner were the absolute fireproofness of reinforced concrete, the economy of this method of construction over any other fireproof construction, and the economy when compared to mill construction, provided that consideration is given the annual fixed charges, such as insurance, depreciation, elimination of vibration, availability of maximum light, waterproofness, vermin-proofness, and the assurance that fire cannot destroy a factory or mill.

In discussing this point Mr. Turner emphasized the fact that though an owner may cover the total value of his building and its contents with insurance, he cannot protect himself against the losses from dissatisfied customers whose orders he is unable to fill as the result of his destroyed plant, the damage due to his reputation because of his failure to fulfil promises, the loss in new business which he has to turn away, and the breaking-up of his organization owing to the wandering away of skilled operatives to accept positions.

In making clear this general fireproof property of reinforced concrete, a pitcure was shown of the recent fire in the Dayton Motor Car Works, at Dayton, Ohio. In this fire the fire started on the fourth floor of a 6-sty reinforced concrete factory but recently completed. Fire doors had not been installed betwwen the concrete building and the old 5-sty first-class mill construction building. Although the fire department realized at once that the concrete building was able to take care of itself and devoted their entire attention to the mill constructed building, the fire spread through the unprotected openings and gutted three stories of the brick building, cracking the walls and completely ruining the structure. The fire on the fourth floor of the concrete building burned itself out without damage to the rest of the building, and two days after the fire, the burnt out floor was tested to twice the live load it had been designed for, and shortly thereafter new machinery was being installed on this floor.

The other points taken up by Mr. Turner in his comments upon the lantern slides were the speed of construction possible with reinforced concrete construction. This is notably evidenced by the 10-sty factory recently completed for Messrs. Rogers & Pyatt, manufacturers of varnishes and shellacs, at No. 34 Fletcher st, New York City. The roof was put on this building in forty-seven work days after the foundations were complete, and in three and one-half months the owners moved in. Considering the narrowness of Fletcher st, with the consequent difficulties in handling materials, this speed of ten stories in forty-seven days is unprecedented. Mr. Turner was conservative in his statements as to costs and general conditions exlsting to-day in the reinforced concrete industry. The general tone of his remarks, however, was most optimistic, and his belief in the future of this method of construction was apparent throughout his address.

Mr. Merrill Watson, of the Expanded Metal Engineering Company, spoke for a few minutes on the permanency and absolute fireproofness of concrete. In connection with these topics, Mr. Watson referred particularly to the conditions existent at the present time in the wholesale dry goods district, where there are a number of merchants carrying very valuable stocks of goods which they cannot obtain insurance on to the full value. This is due to the concentrated valuation in that district lying between Canal and Chambers sts, and running between two and three blocks west of Broadway. Each year sees a reduction in the amount of insurance which the fire insurance companies will place in this territory. The chances of conflagration are so great that they cannot afford to carry anywhere near the full value of the property represented there. These conditions are due solely to the non-fireproof character of the buildings in this district. Mr. Watson made a plea to the architects to insist on concrete buildings for their clients under such conditions as these.

There were a number of slides shown by Mr. F. G. Webber, of the Webber Construction Company, in description of the building which they have recently completed on the northwest corner of 40th st and Broadway. This job was rushed through in quick time, notwithstanding severe winter conditions.

Mr. Norris, of Emerson & Norris, of Boston, closed the evening's discussion with an exceedingly interesting illustrated talk on artificial stone and ornamentation and decoration of reinforced concrete. Mr. Norris showed about forty slides, illustrating some of the remarkable work which Emerson & Norris have been turning out in the Boston territory during the last ten or twelve years. Particularly worthy of mention amongst all the remarkable concrete detail which was illustrated by Mr. Norris is the new addition to Gore Hall, the Library Building of Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass. In this instance, Quincy granite, which had been in place very nearly fifty years, was matched exactly in artificial stone, and the cost of the building complete ran possibly 25 per cent. under what it would have cost to make the addition in natural granite. When one considers the possibilities of work of this character and includes the thought that it is possible to reinforce the artificial stone and use it for Gothic window traceries and window sills and lintels, as well as for temples in formal gardens and ornamental vase and fountain work, the subject becomes of absorbing interest.

NEW POLICY FOR ARCHITECTURAL SOCIETY.

At the annual election meeting of the Society of Columbia University Architects, in the Avery Library, Columbia University, there were two attractions, to draw large attendance, in the lecture of Prof. W. H. Goodyear on the Cathedrals of Northern France, and in the Society's having to make a choice of a future policy and of a president as its leader, to carry it out, there being two candidates named for the presidency, both of whom had defined their views in their letters accepting nomination, and such views being of widely divergent conceptions of the future usefulness of the society.

The policy of discovering and developing fitting fields of endeavor for the society to interest itself in, in addition to its function as an alumni association, and such as would not encroach on the activities of the existing architectural societies of New York City, was one that was endorsed through the election of its champion, Henry Snyder Kissam, Ph.B. '86, of 1170 Broadway, New York City, for the presidency.

The election of Mr. Kissam was by so strong a majority that the society can be said to have fully decided the question of its policy. It is not inappropriate that Mr. Kissam should have been chosen a leader in the alumni activities of the university with which his family has been associated in the lists of trustees, professors and alumni for one hundred and fifty years.

The full ticket elected which, other than for presidency, had no opposition, was as follows: President, Henry Snyder Kissam, Ph.B. '86; first vice-president, I. N. Phelps Stokes; second vice-president, Stockton B. Colt; secretary, W. W. Jackson; recorder, F. Livingston Pell; treasurer, H. G. Emery; governors (class of 1911), W. A. Delano, J. T. Tubby, D. Everett Waid, Harold C. Werner.

The next meeting of the society will be a dinner during commencement week, commonly held on the evening of the first or second Monday in June, to which, in each year, the members of the graduating class of the Department of Fine Arts are invited as guests.

THE ARCHITECT
WHAT HE HAS DONE RECENTLY AND WHY HE DID IT.

WHAT PARIS IS DOING.

The annexed photograph is from Paris, and the block of flats which it figures is situated at the corner of Avenue Niel and Rue Rennequin. The buildings have outer walls of freestone, with simplicity in the lines, and the whole of the exterior decoration is formed by the graceful arrangement of the curves.

Three bay windows project in front, and a large cornice of wood, where the floor of the fifth story comes, surmounts all the vertical lines of the lower part of the building. In all there are seven stories, the two top ones being telescoped. In Paris, street corners must be either cantwise or rounded, and naturally they are usually designed as dominating features, and also to form a decorative "motif" at the street corners. Messrs. A. & G. Perret, the architects, have constructed a sort of tower at the corner which projects in the form of a corbel with a wide base on the first floor, and is surmounted by little turrets one above the other, the dimensions of which grow less as they rise from story to story.

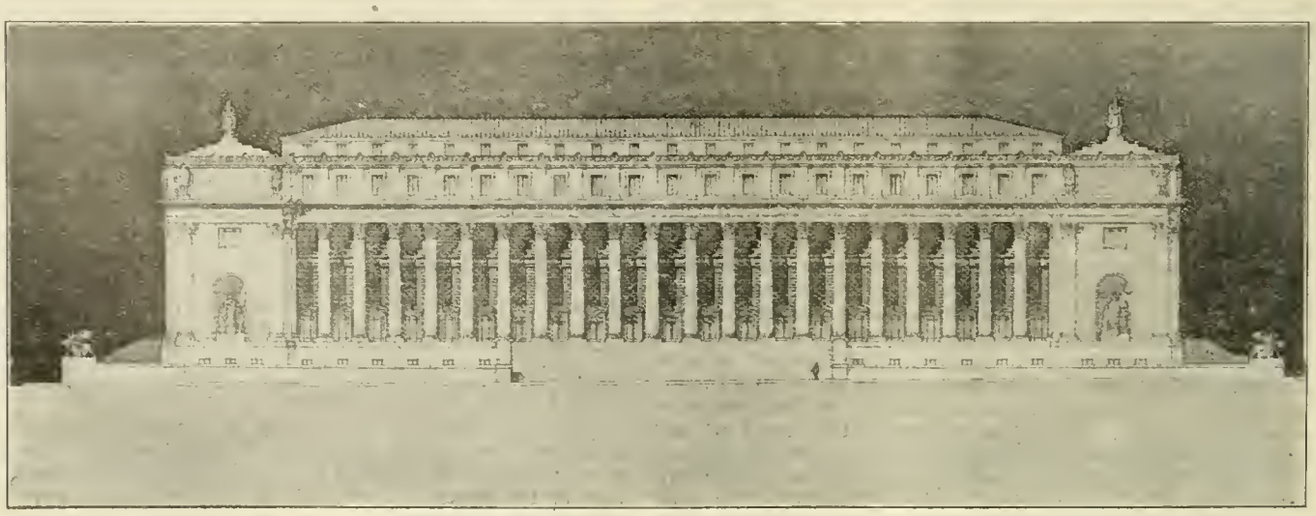
The ground floor is composed of the entrance hall, the concierge's lodge, and six shops, one of which is very large, with a back part. Each story is divided into two large flats. The flat which is at the corner and along Rue Rennequin contains a large corridor, a dining room, a small and a large drawing room, and five bedrooms, one of which overlooks the court. Except this latter all the bedrooms are provided with dressing-rooms. There are besides a back staircase with a kitchen lift, a bath-room, and two toilets, one of which is for the servants. The large drawing room is in the tower at the corner, and is lighted by three large bays.



POST OFFICE DEMONSTRATES GOVERNMENTAL EXPRESSION.

This proposed post office building is to be built on 8th av on the two blocks from 31st to 33d sts, with the principal front on 8th av and the facades on the streets extending back a distance of 335 ft. In studying the problem, the aim of the architects has been, while keeping in mind the practical uses of the building, to give it the monumental character which a government building of such importance should possess. While the design shown herewith of the exterior has been carefully studied in its relation to the Pennsylvania Terminal station now in process of erection, the object has been to give it a distinctly governmental expression. The question of the proper relation between the two buildings as regards style, material and scale has also been carefully considered.

The principal facade consists of a row of Corinthian columns, terminated at the north and south ends by pavilions containing niches. This colonnade corresponds to the public corridor which extends the entire length of the facade. The facades on the streets are a continuation of the same motive, pilasters being used instead of columns, also terminated in a pavilion at the west end. Ample access is given to the building by steps on the principal facades and on the street facades. The estimated cost of the building is placed at about $3,500,000, which was recently appropriated. For the building site the government is said to have paid the Pennsylvania, N. Y. & L. I. R. R. the sum of $1,660,085, so that for both land and building the project will mean an expenditure of $5,160,085. Estimates, it is thought, will not be called for before the fall of 1908. Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, 160 5th av, are the architects.

ARCHITECTS' ELECTION.

New officers elected by the Architectural League of New York: President (Archt.), C. Grant La Farge; First Vice-Pres. (Painter), John W. Alexander; Second Vice-Pres. (Sculptor), H. A. MacNeil; Members of Executive Com., class of 1911, Harold A. Caparn, J. Monroe Hewlett, Joseph Howland Hunt; Delegate to Fine Arts Federation, Thomas Hastings; Alternate, I. N. Phelps Stokes.

RECENT ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE BUILDER.

REINFORCED CONCRETE IN FACTORY CONSTRUCTION.

VARIOUS reasons are recognized for the introduction of a new building material, but the principal ones can be comprehended in these: that it is cheaper than existing modes of construction, or, if not actually cheaper, the results from it are superior in somebody's opinion. A great deal has been said in New York in a general way, during the last three years, concerning the advantages of concrete construction, but less frequently have we seen described specific instances to prove economy or superiority. A number of specific cases, however, have been illustrated in this paper. One of the departments of construction in which reinforced concrete has proved its efficiency is factory construction, which is considered in an intimate and informing article in a recent Engineering Magazine by Leonard C. Wason. He says that in textile mills, where there are long spans and light loads, the wood floor of standard mill construction is cheaper in first cost than concrete; nevertheless, concrete is used on account of other advantages, which offset the slight difference in first cost. Other facts from Mr. Wason's article follow:

The agent of a large textile mill stated that looms running on the fourth and fifth stories of his mill, which was of the usual mill construction, caused such vibration that it was considered unsafe to run them at full speed. This reduced the output. When they were transferred to the lower stories the output was increased by 20 per cent and in addition there was a saving in the wear and tear on the machines and in the power required to drive them. Vibration cannot occur with a rigid floor tied to the columns so that every support becomes a rigid brace.

In the power development of any plant there are many valuable applications. A large chimney can be made much cheaper of concrete than of brick, because it can be tied together to resist unequal stresses due to temperature, thus permitting lighter sections to be used. As it will withstand for an indefinite period a temperature of 500 degrees F., firebrick linings can be omitted. The chimney is tied to its foundations and thus has greater stability than one of brick.

Our forests are being rapidly cut off, and the timber which remains is of inferior quality to that cut several years ago; there is difficulty in getting large sticks of yellow pine; all this renders floors of mill construction less secure and more expensive than they have been, making less difference in cost than there used to be between wood and concrete. On all-fireproof buildings lower rates of insurance can be obtained. On a building of Merritt & Co., Philadelphia, where light iron work is manufactured, the rates on building and contents, which had been 3.57 per cent on their old building of mill construction, were reduced in the new fireproof structure to 1.82 per cent, a saving of 1.75 per cent per annum. This, considered as the interest on a permanent investment, would warrant an expenditure of a much larger sum than the actual difference in cost between mill construction of wood and brick and fireproof of all reinforced concrete. Moreover, the immunity from fire, avoiding loss of business and interruption of output, is of considerable value. In a few isolated and exceptional cases fireproof construction has been obtained for the same price as mill construction, but usually it will cost from 10 to 25 per cent more. A steel frame fireproofed will cost from 25 to 40 per cent more than reinforced concrete.

An advantage with this type of construction is that concrete is mixed and placed by common labor, which is the cheapest form of labor obtainable, with only a few experienced men to direct. This materially reduces the troubles with labor unions. Carpenters are plentiful and their unions are not so troublesome as those of the masons. Sand and stone are plentiful, and are to be found everywhere. Lumber suitable for forms is easily obtainable. The only materials coming from a distance are the cement and the reinforcing bars. Thus the greater part of the cost of a mill is returned to the community in which the work is done.

Concrete will carry its full load in one month. It is impossible to build so fast as to overload columns and walls.

CORRIDOR OF THE SINGER BUILDING.

CORRIDOR OF THE CITY INVESTING.

Two new buildings were recently opened on lower Broadway, the Singer and the City Investing, which have marble corridors of exceptionally handsome design and finish. The buildings stand side by side.

Nevertheless, this type of construction, more than any other, should be handled by specialists, as there are a number of details which they can care for which, if overlooked, would result in a building that might prove unsatisfactory to the owner.

A few general hints are given regarding design. Tests on long-span beams identical in every way except that some were plain, others reinforced, prove that those which were reinforced developed twelve times the strength of the plain concrete. The principle of all designs is to use concrete in compression, and reinforcement wherever there is any chance for tension. In footings it is cheapest to use reinforcement, thus reducing the depth and saving in excavation, often avoiding trouble with water, thus making a saving in expense. Use an octagonal footing with bars running in four directions. In columns, the cheapest form of reinforcement to resist compression is cement. Mixtures as rich as one part cement to one part of stone are safe for a load of 1,200 pounds per square inch. Use steel only to resist possible bending due to eccentric loads and to tie the joints between columns and floors rigidly together to resist wind pressure. In floors it is much better to use girder and beam reinforcement that is fabricated into units and tied in some way at the columns than to use a number of loose bars. A flat floor with bars running in all directions between columns can be made as strong as beam construction, and on account of the ease of building wooden forms, is often cheaper, and quicker to construct than beam floors. Where desired, wooden floors can easily be laid on top of concrete and are more rigid than when laid over wooden beams. It is cheaper to construct curtain walls after the columns and floors are built, supporting these walls on top of the floor.

There are several ways of treating exposed surfaces. The surface obtained direct from the wooden forms can never be considered a satisfactory finish for exposed exteriors. The cheapest and most durable way is to cut with sharp pointed tool 1/16 to 1/8 in. off the surface. This obliterates all marks of the wood, exposes the stone, and gives an even light gray color. A smooth surface can be obtained also by a wash coat of cement; this, however, is liable to be discolored by efflorescence or other cause and to lack uniformity. It is possible to obtain as handsome and ornamental surfaces as can be got from natural stone or terra cotta. These treatments, however, are too expensive to be considered in mill construction.

TOO DRASTIC.

At the public hearing on the proposed extension of the fire-limits given by the Building Code Revision Commission in the Aldermanic Chamber on Wednesday, the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, through its representative, advocated the extension of the fire limits so as to include the entire city. The Board objected to frame buildings and shingle roofed houses. There were many representatives from the Bronx, Brooklyn and Richmond on hand who reasoned that a restriction such as proposed would have a tendency to retard the development of the outlying districts and drive small lot owners to New Jersey and other parts.

Among the speakers were ex-Tenement House Commissioner Bush, who believed that the commission would have done enough if it drew the limits around the first twenty-eight wards of Brooklyn, but said it was a disgrace that frame structures should still be permitted in Brownsville.

While the enforcement of the regulation under consideration would no doubt cripple the sale of lots in outlying wards, its effect would be equally harmful to builders making a specialty of frame dwellings and two-family houses. Generally speaking, the proposition does not meet with the approval of property owners or the real estate and building fraternity, as it is considered too drastic.

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters objected to new fire limits as an injury to their trade, and President Van Clief, of the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce, thought that in Richmond the fire limits should first be applied to Stapleton and Tompkinsville and then to New Brighton, West New Brighton and Port Richmond.

Mr. Wesley G. Bush, who more particularly represented the Mechanics and Traders Exchange, said in the course of his remarks:

"Superintendent Moore and I have talked over this and our views coincide. The first twenty-eight wards should be included within the lines and the territory around McCarren Park also, and all along Flatbush av, from Newkirk av, its whole length. The 80 per cent. clause, providing that no building shall cover more than 80 per cent. of the ground it is built on, should be universal outside the fire limits."

Half a dozen Brooklynites opposed this argument from various viewpoints. As regards the Bronx the proposition is not materially different from last year's, which was not to extend the present lines, but to require frame dwellings to occupy not exceeding 80 per cent. of the plots.

MR. M'DONALD ALSO AGAINST THE BROADWAY-LEXINGTON ROUTE.

In a letter addressed to Comptroller Metz on Tuesday, John B. McDonald, the builder of the present Manhattan subway, says that the 4th av route will cost $44,000,000 and the Broadway-Lexington av route $127,000,000.

Each of these estimates is double that of the Public Service Commission, and Mr. McDonald declares that the lines would not pay a profit on the cost of construction and equipment. Continuing, Mr. McDonald says:

In order to complete east and west side lines extensions to the present subway should be made.

For the east side, extension should be made from 42d st, via Lexington av, Southern Boulevard, Westchester av to Pelham Bay Park. This will give a through line from Pelham Bay Park to the Battery, with increased facilities at the Grand Central station.

For the west side, extension should be made from Broadway and 45th st, south through 7th av, Greenwich st, West Broadway to a terminal under Battery Park. This would complete a west side line from the Bronx to Battery Park. This extension is of the greatest importance to the business interests of the city, especially in connection with the Pennsylvania terminal, which is approaching completion, is unequalled by anything of its kind in the world, and will handle more than two hundred thousand people a day, for whom transportation facilities must be provided in the very near future.

If the 4th av, Brooklyn route must be built, with a view to populating the territory, then, says Mr. McDonald, it should be made a 2-track instead of a 4-track line.

—Robert Rossman, president and founder of the Robert Rossman Company, tile manufacturers, 149 to 155 West 24th st, died May 13 after a short illness in his apartments in the St. Denis, 196 Riverside Drive. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Rossman, and his sister, Selma Rossman.

STEEL CONSTRUCTION AS I KNOW IT.

By LEROY S. BUFFINGTON.

(Part Two.)

In the previous issue, Mr. Buffington related the circumstances which led him into studying and finally solving the problem of the steel-skeleton construction. After he had received his patent papers he wrote and issued a pamphlet describing and illustrating his invention, and he makes quotations from the technical and general press of that time to show how his method was regarded. Mr. Buffington resides in Minneapolis.—Editor.

AFTER the publication of the description of my system of construction, I was criticised by the press in general, and in several hundred odd clippings I have saved, very little credit is given for the invention.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

Building Record, New York, 1888.—The erection of twenty-story buildings of steel construction has been for years regarded as among the possibilities, by enthusiastic real estate men in this city, but it remains for a western genius to conceive of anything taller than this. An architect of Minneapolis, Minn., who is neither a crank nor an ignoramus, proposes to go New York eight stories better, and has actually drawn working plans for a twenty-eight story office building. His principle of construction is peculiar. It is said that some of his devices are patented and his plans copyrighted.

DESIGN FOR FIRST STEEL SKYSCRAPER.
L. S. Buffington, Architect.

Office building, to be built in Minneapolis; L. S. Buffington, Architect. This structure is to be erected under the patent of Architect L. S. Buffington, known as "Buffington's Patent Iron Building Construction." It consists of a continuous skeleton of iron, commencing on the iron footings and continuing of iron and steel to the full height. The framework consists of a series of continuous laminated, riveted iron posts, diminishing in size as they ascend; braced diagonally after the manner of lattice girders, and horizontally braced by the iron beams of each floor, which form an integral portion of the building. The whole frame is covered on the exterior with a non-conducting substance of absolute reliability. The exterior is formed of stone and terra cotta. The stone is carried at each story, or oftener when necessary, by means of horizontal shelves of iron, fastened to the skeleton, the shelves themselves being hidden by the stone. The roof is to be of tile, except the apex, which will be formed into a glass lookout, from which a necessarily vast expanse may be viewed. The first story will be a grand rotunda, with 12 elevators and two flights of stairs situated in the centre. The elevators are arranged so that the passengers to the 22d or 23d story, for instance, may make the trip without stop, thus expediting the service greatly. No woodwork will appear in the building. When finished no portion of the constructional iron will be visible. Each office has its own safe or series of safes built in the outer wall and forming part of the structure. Another important consideration in the iron construction is the reduced thickness of walls, thereby giving more light and air to the offices. The building does not weigh one-half as much as an ordinary masonry one of the same size, and is much cheaper and more quickly built. The building is 80 by 80 feet on the ground and 350 feet to the glass lookout, and contains 728 large offices, all of which are outside rooms.

As nearly as we can gather, each story is supported independently, and is a continuous skeleton of metal. By this marvelous plan he expects that any one story will be built to stand alone, and by this means the masonry of the upper sections will be carried on shelves, thus doing away with the necessity of thick walls. As in all such schemes, the details are not for the public. This enterprising individual is regarded by his fellow citizens as an architect of no ordinary calibre. He is said to be the designer of some of the finest buildings of complex construction in the west, and it is said he will meet with success in this undertaking. The west takes the persimmons, and no mistake.

Architectural News, 1888.—L. S. Buffington, an architect, claims to have invented a system of construction to build buildings of iron. He does not know that the expansion and contraction of iron would crack all the plaster; that in a few years there would only be the shell left. Iron is good in its place, but not to build buildings entirely of.

Engineering, New York, 1888.—From time to time there have appeared in various prints illustrations of a new system of building construction which have excited more than usual interest among the architectural and building fraternity, as presaging a looked for revolution in structural methods. The system which is styled "Buffington's Patent Iron Building Construction" has received the most emphatic commendations of a large number of the foremost mechanical engineers of the country, and an examination of the elaborate drawings which Mr. Buffington has prepared shows that architectural beauty is in nowise sacrificed by the rigidly practical construction of which he is the author.

New York Herald, 1888.—L. S. Buffington, the author of a new method of building construction, and the projector of a twenty-eight-story building, has received a very flattering notice of his new departure from a prominent French scientific journal. The new method of construction seems to have created a greater stir on the continent and in England than it has in this country.

New York Sun, 1888.—L. S. Buffington, of Minneapolis, an architect, who is building that wonderful building on paper, which is to be twenty-eight stores high. To be sure, this is probably the production of a crank, but the cranks of one generation are sometimes the prophets of the next.

In 1888 not one paper, architectural, scientific, engineering or of the general press, claimed that such a system was not new and a departure from the old masonry plan. It was a new thing in 1888 AND NO BUILDINGS OF THIS CLASS EXISTED ON THE FACE OF THE GLOBE.

On November 18, 1892, I incorporated The Buffington Iron Building Co., and when this became known these same papers who had ridiculed me four years before, now said they did not suppose that I would seriously attack those who unmindfully or ignorantly had erected such buildings. That I was a great joker; had a large collection of ideas; that it was only an outgrowth; that others did it, and that there were many buildings of this construction before I got my patent, and if they had only known it could have been patented they would have got it done before I did; and it was no invention anyway; it was impudent to assume that I had any claim in giving birth to this most wondrous scheme.

OTHER OPINIONS.

Let us, if you please, go a little further and see what other minds who delve and hunt and study said about it at this time:

Judge Lysander Hill, of Chicago, patent attorney and counsellor at law—"I acknowledge you to be the creator of the new style of steel frame buildings that have come into use since your patent was issued."

Mr. Eugene F. Osborn, of Chicago, engineer and mechanical expert—"I consider it unquestionably the greatest stride in building construction that has ever been made. I saw many of your studies in 1882, before the patent was issued."

Mr. P. H. Gunckle, of Minneapolis, patent attorney—"I procured the patent and know of its great possibilities."

Mr. Emery F. Dodson, of Minneapolis and New York, contractor—"I saw and talked with Mr. Buffington about this construction years before he got the patent and have one of his drawings hanging in my office."

Mr. Melville E. Dayton, of Chicago, solicitor of patents and mechanical expert—"A feature in the modern metal skeleton is the shelf that supports the exterior masonry which came into use in 1890."

Mr. Casper L. Redfield, Chicago, mechanical engineer—"The invention is a form of construction which makes it practical to use two elements in one building of great height by building the masonry upon shelves supported by a metal skeleton."

Mr. James J. Egan, of Chicago, architect—"In the older method of construction masonry was the main supporting body, but in the new method the metal supports the masonry on shelves fastened to this skeleton at each story."

Mr. Elijah E. Myers, of Detroit, architect—"I regard it as a complete innovation in form for constructing heavy buildings, and this method of construction for high buildings assures their safety."

Mr. Edwin Anderson, of Cincinnati, architect—"I have received your pamphlet and see a great future for your new method of construction."

Mr. Robert P. Wait, Boston, architect—"The older method was essentially a masonry construction, while that of the patent and the construction used in these buildings is one in which the metal supports itself and also supports the masonry on shelves."

Mr. John C. Spofford, of Boston, architect—"I regard the change as a radical departure from the ordinary method of construction, with the framework supporting and sustaining the masonry."

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT.

THE BROKEN STONE TRADE.

Machine broken stone is being used generally in large quantities each year for building purposes. Until within the last few years its use has been restricted to the construction of macadam roads and for massive concrete in engineering structures. The fact that the co-efficients of expansion, both of iron and cement are identical, greatly enlarges the opportunity for the use of concrete as a building material and undoubtedly its use will be very greatly extended within the next few years.

Elizabethian England and France of the time of Francis I. were built up with wood structures. After the depletion of the forests, however, masonry construction gave place to wood construction, and there are very few of the old wood buildings left. This same evolutionary process is going on in the United States at the present time.

Broken stone is a heavy, bulky material and consequently cannot be transported very long distances from the point of production. The supply for New York City is almost exclusively derived from the Hudson River Valley below Poughkeepsie. About a dozen large crushing plants along the river front are occupied during the open season, quarrying, crushing and screening this material. After the stone is quarried the subsequent processes are automatically carried on by machinery and the stone is not again handled by laborers until it is unloaded from the boats.

Generally speaking, there are two grades of stone—Trap Rock and Lime Stone. The former material is largely used for road-making on account of its tough properties, which resist wear and tear. But the great bulk of broken stone is now used for concrete purposes. It is generally screened to 2-in., ¾-in. and ⅜-in. sizes. The larger size is used for heavy concrete work; the finer sizes are used in blocks, flooring, partitions, etc.

Undoubtedly the increased use of concrete has already somewhat affected the use of brick, and with the greater appreciation of its qualities which will come with more experience, it will still further supplant brick as a building material. The volume of stone produced is increasing each year with the demand.

One of the largest producers of broken stone is the Tomkins Cove Stone Company, which was established more than half a century ago, first as a lime-burning concern. The quarries of this company are at some distance from the river shore, and therefore have not changed or defaced the shore line, as some of the others have. Tomkins Cove remains one of the most picturesque localities on the river.

Close to Iona Island is a round isle which is gradually being cut down, and carried here in the form of broken stone. At Clinton Point and near Rockland Lake are other large plants. Once there were works on the south side of Breakneck Mountain which left a sad scar when they moved away. This was the most regrettable operation that the public has ever had to charge up against the stone crushing business. Nature in her slow way gradually heals and covers up most of the wounds which blasters make—but not all.

A New Enameled Brick.

The Stegmayer Enamel Brick Company has opened offices at No. 1 Madison av and is completing a plant at South Amboy, N. J. Charles Stegmayer is the general superintendent. The board of directors is mainly composed of Middletown (Conn.) men. The works have orders for seven months ahead. The Stegmayer process is based on numerous ceramic formulas which produce a non-porous material, claimed to be absolutely proof against atmospheric influences, as the bricks are vitrified in a high degree.

— Mr. S. Shanker, metal ceilings, 520 5th st, has recently appointed as his Brooklyn representatives the Eastern Metal Ceiling Co., 1234 Myrtle av, and E. P. Backie, 359 Court st. Mr. Shanker carries a large stock of material and is in a position to take contracts for artistic metal ceilings and side walls and execute same promptly.

Production of Common Brick in the Hudson.

Most of the common brick utilized in the metropolitan district is manufactured on the Hudson River. Ten counties are included in this region, nine in New York. In 1905 the product increased 31.36 per cent. in quantity and 56 per cent. in value over 1904. The following year brought a reaction. The season opened with "ten-dollar brick," but the midsummer prices broke and fell to $5.50 and $6.00 per M. as the manufacturers' prices.

The total number of bricks marketed in these ten counties by 135 firms in 1906 was 1,274,372,000, according to Government statistics, and valued at $7,672,639, or $6.02 per thousand, as compared with 1,297,389,000 bricks, valued at $9,063,753, or $6.99 per thousand, in 1905, a decrease of 23,017,000 bricks, or only 1.77 per cent., but a decrease in value of $1,391,114, or 15.35 per cent., thus emphasizing the fact that 1905 was a most extraordinary year in this region. The unusual activity in 1905 served to stimulate the industry, and as a consequence yards that had been idle or producing but small quantities of brick were put in operation, and the number of firms reporting increased from 129 in 1905 to 135 in the year 1906.

CURRENT PRICES.

BRICK.—Reports from up-river are to the effect that the manufacturers, or a majority of them, have agreed to a plan for reducing the surplus of common brick destined for this market. In view of the backwardness of building operations they consider it advisable to curtail the output, keep down the volume of shipments to New York, hold out for six dollars per thousand, and if necessary store brick in the yards until the market improves, which is only a question of time.

The operation of those yards which have resumed molding is said to be only tentative. Men depending on these yards and permanently residing in the neighborhood have been given employment, but no labor has been brought from elsewhere, as is customary in a busy season, and the yards have been run on only a small scale, none of them being operated to full capacity.

Manufacturers who pay rent for their yards are reported by the Haverstraw Messenger to be in particularly bad shape just now: "Figuring rent at one dollar, and with the scale of wages and the cost of supplies as they have prevailed for the last few years, it costs these men about $6 to put one thousand brick on the dock. During the years 1905, 1906 and 1907 the average profit was about three dollars per thousand, so that the small man or, as the ordinary rent-payer is considered, a two-machine operator, was satisfied with his complement of four million. In the vicinity of Fishkill several yards will be idle this season unless the tenants can get better terms."

Only thirty-seven cargoes of Hudson Rivers were disposed of in this market last week. Rainy weather was responsible for part of the diminution. Brick-building is even slower than it was some weeks ago. Inquiry at the Bricklayers' Headquarters elicited the statement that only about twenty per cent. of the members of the trade are employed.

Mr. Roswell Tompkins, secretary of the Consolidated Board of Business Agents, from reports coming to him from the various trades, stated that building operations were as yet comparatively very slight for mechanics. A good many excavations had been started, but only laborers were so far benefited by this. Work for trades engaged on interior work was very poor. "No doubt we shall see a very good fall and winter," said Mr. Tompkins, "judging from the plans filed, but the prospects for the summer months are poor."

Tile layers are better employed at this time than most trades, as eighty per cent. are reported as working.

Enameled bricks, although a specialty, have not escaped all the consequences of the low tide in building affairs, and concessions from former prices are said to be

CEMENT.—Though the resumption of activity in private and public works has been slower than was anticipated, there still remains a good feeling among cement manufacturers, and a very general opinion that what is ahead for the fall and early winter will more than compensate for the present slackness in the metropolitan district. A large amount of cement is being distributed throughout the country, and the requirement is growing each week. A private note from an architect residing at Minneapolis assures the writer that there is scarcely any depression noticeable in the Middle West.

Prices here in New York, for delivery within harbor limits to dealers, continue without change, but have a little more firmness than last week.

The Edison Portland Cement Company is making large shipments weekly to the Bradley Contracting Company for the bridge loop work, and to the Williams Engineering and Contracting Company for the Bronx storm relief sewer. The bridge loop will take a total of 150,000 bbls. of Edison cement, and the Bronx sewer 50,000 bbls. The Edison Company also furnished the Williams Contracting and Engineering Company with the cement for the first section of the Manhattan anchorage (just completed) for the Manhattan Bridge. An Havana contract, for 27,000 bbls. of Edison cement, is being filled at the rate of 500 bbls. weekly. The same company has an order for 25,000 bbls. from Buenos Ayres. Altogether, as the local office reports, the Edison company has pending contracts amounting to 800,000 bbls.

The members of the Engineers' Club of Brooklyn are to-day making an excursion by special train to the Edison Cement Works at New City, N. J., as the guests of the company.

IRON, STEEL, ETC.—There was a pronounced resumption of mills this week. Several which had been idle were started up, and in others many more workmen were put at work. Orders for pig iron are increasing.

The feature in structural steel was the placing of contracts with the American Bridge Co. for structural steel to the amount of $500,000. This is the most important business that has been transacted recently. Most of the material is to be used in building operations in New York City, and the greater portion of this part of the order is for the Fifth Avenue office building. Work at the American Bridge Co.'s plant in Trenton has been resumed in full, in preparation for filling the contracts, which will start toward the end of this month.

A contract for 7,000 tons, for the La Salle Hotel in Chicago, was placed by the U. S. Realty and Improvement Company. The Geo. A. Fuller Co. is the general building contractor. Another contract was for 3,300 tons, for the first section of the New York Central terminal.

The representatives of the large steel companies, who will meet in this city next week, are expected to agree on a continuance of present prices.

LATH AND LIME.—Jersey City and Brooklyn seem quieter to the lime interests than they did two weeks ago. Long Island, beyond the limits of Brooklyn, is also not manifesting that degree of activity which satisfies material dealers. In the metropolitan district sixty per cent. of the plasterers are idle, according to official statement.

Mr. Frank N. Stranahan, general manager of the Palmer Lime Company, remarked this week that selling conditions in the lime trade were not particularly different from what was true in most other building material lines. Business did not seem to pick up with the advance of spring, though the prospects were good for the fall and winter. Prices were the same as heretofore and were being firmly held, as manufacturers could see no reason for a different course.

Among material dealers generally the policy prevails that prices have now been reduced to a minimum, and business would not be improved by sacrifices on their part.

For lath the general situation has been improving every single day, and the market is now, in the view of shippers and wholesale houses, in very good shape at the $3.50 rate, by the cargo.

This is a great improvement over a month ago. Arrivals have not kept pace with deliveries, and one large house reports orders still unfilled. The local feeling also is that there will be no change from this market price for some time.

LUMBER.—The general situation for the lumber trade is improving slowly, and the effects are beginning to be felt by the wholesale and shipping interests. Large accumulations of stock have been carried off and a current of new stuff has set in.

Prices are very unsettled and within certain limits largely depend on the necessities of the selling party. Hardwood schedules show modifications in some respect. It is noted in the trade that money is getting to be rather druggy in Wall st and is constantly going into the next best thing, and that it is only a question of time when builders and lumber dealers will be getting their share.

Schedules in bankruptcy of John L. English, who did business as English & Co., lumber dealer, 1 Madison av, show liabilities of $121,651, of which $27,243 are secured, and nominal assets of $32,-521, consisting in part of stock, $9,500; accounts, $12,000; shares of stock in the English Lumber Co., $10,000, pledged as collateral. Among the creditors are the Battery Park Bank, Asheville, N. C., $17,-000, partly secured; Hugh L. McChing, Knoxville, Tenn., $21,000, of which $8,000 is secured; Snow Lumber Co., High Point, N. C., $5,229; English Lumber Co., Asheville, Tenn., $5,494, and William T. Mason, Ashville, Tenn., $5,000.

Uncle Sam's exports of forest products have shown higher and higher values during the last five or six years. This has been the case although reports show that there has not been a corresponding increase in volume. For instance, the quantity of sawed timber exported from this country has increased less than 12 per cent. in the last four years, while the price has increased over 50 per cent. Again, the amount of resin exported has increased but little, while the price has more than doubled.

The days are gone when our hearts were gay,
When the profitable orders came our way;
And we sit and think of the prospects drear
Which may not change till the end of the year.

PAINTS AND OILS.—Suburban work for the painting trade is almost brisk. Many city painters and decorators are finding good work outside in putting country places in order for the summer season. In the city there is some improvement, but only about half enough business for the available mechanics.

The market for linseed oil is very firm in tone and prices advanced one cent a gallon. Where many in the trade in former seasons have contracted for carlots, they are at present buying in smaller quantities, while other buyers are taking only such lots as they need to fill immediate requirements.

Jobbing quantities of shellac, of leading descriptions, are finding a moderate consuming outlet, but no large sales are reported, and the market is quiet, but steady, without quotable change in values.

White lead is more active, owing to the improvement in the painting trades. American zincs are seasonably active and firmly held. Consumers are well supplied with dry colors to meet their engagements for some time. The demand for varnish gums continues to improve, but prices are unchanged at former low levels.

A decision reversing the findings of the General Appraisers on a protest entered by J. A. & W. Bird & Co. was handed down in the Circuit Court. The merchandise in question was "zinc white paint" and "Repolin," also known as enamel white paint, and was classified by the collector for duty at 35 per cent. ad valorem under paragraph 53 of the tariff act as a varnish, or as paint not otherwise provided for at 30 per cent. ad valorem under paragraph 58. The importers claimed that the merchandise was dutiable at 1¾ cents per pound as "zinc oxide of and white pigment, containing zinc, but not containing lead." The Board of General Appraisers sustained the decision of the collector.

STONE.—A second hearing will be granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission to the granite interests on May 25. The classification of and freight rates on granite are in an unsatisfactory state. At the first hearing there appeared Mr. Seward W. Jones, president of the National Association of the Granite Industries of the United States, and C. E. Tayntor, of New York, and unfairness was alleged by nine railroads.

The action of the railroads in August last in increasing the minimum car load rating on granite from 30,000 to 40,000 lbs., and the failure on their part to supply cars of sufficient capacity to carry 40,000 lbs. of granite, were condemned as unfair and as discrimination. The stone classification does not provide for a restricted valuation, while the granite classification on building work, which comes in competition with the soft stone quarries of Ohio and Indiana, provides for its shipment under a 20 cent valuation. The commissioner considered that the real question was as to whether the freight charges should be under the sixth class rates, and if so, if the 40,000 minimum rule should apply.

Business in the local trades is not developing in the same degree as in April, and with most firms orders are few and these obtainable only after keen competition.

The Woodbury Granite Company has received the contract for the government barracks to be erected at Hyland Beach, N. J. It is an exact duplicate of the one the company furnished the government at Fort Hamilton, N. Y. The stone is Woodbury gray. The same company has obtained the contract for the county jail at St. Johnsbury, Vt.

Wallkill Pressure Tunnel Bids.

Four bids were opened on Tuesday by the Board of Water Supply for the construction of the Wallkill pressure tunnel, being a portion of Wallkill division of the Catskill aqueduct, crossing under the valley of the Wallkill River in the towns of New Paltz and Gardiner, Ulster County, N. Y. S. Pearson & Son, Inc., put in a bid of $3,305,000, which was the lowest bid received. Other bidders were: MacArthur Brothers Co., $4,352,000; T. A. Gillespie Co., $4,685,000, and the Bradley Construction Co., $25,003,730,000. It is stated that the bid submitted by the Bradley Co. was caused by a mistake in estimating on one item, specified in the specifications.

—The managers of the Federal Brass & Bronze Co., of Broadway and Hopkins av, Astoria, report having several large contracts on hand, among others the First National Bank of Pensacola, Fla., and the Winkinsburgh Bank, at Wilkinsburgh, Pa. Through the thorough equipment of their new plant, they are enabled to turn out work of the very highest artistic excellence at the minimum cost. From the present outlook a very busy year is predicted.

—Enameled bricks require care in manufacturing, but loss by defects is not so great as was inadvertently stated last week. In other words, the difference between bricks of first quality and bricks of the second grade is ordinarily but fifteen or twenty dollars.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Belmont Terminal to Be an Office Building.

It was learned this week that plans for the new Belmont Terminal Building, which is to be erected on the block bounded by Van Alst av, Hunter's Point av and 4th st, Long Island City, are being revised and will be arranged entirely for a terminal and office building. The original drawings called for store and offices, with living apartments above. The structure will have main connection with the Belmont tunnel under the East River to 42d st, Manhattan. The cost, it is estimated, will reach more than $500,000. The construction will be of reinforced concrete, including the floors, partitions, walls and roof. The exterior in the original plans will not be changed. It shows a facing for the first and second stories of gray limestone, and the four upper stories in stucco on common brick, with red-faced brick trimmings. The dimensions will be 175x134 ft., including a large court for light and air. There will be six stories, also a mezzanine floor. All of the interior trim will be of hardwood, and the floors will be of sanitary composition. There will be four electric elevators. Messrs. Thompson & Frohling, 114 East 28th st, are the architects; A. E. Goldsmith is engineer, and the general contract has been awarded to the Degnon Contracting Co., 60 Wall st. (See issue Sept. 28, 1907.)

Bids for Assay Office Building.

WALL ST.—There were ten bids submitted on Tuesday, May 12, for the new United States Assay office building to be erected at Nos. 30-32 Wall st. The structure will be of brick, stone and reinforced concrete, eleven stories in height, 50x75 ft., and will contain a chimney over 400 ft. high, the highest stack in Manhattan. The lowest bid, $338,250, was put in by P. J. Carlin, No. 16 East 23d st. Other bidders were: Cramp & Co., 36 East 23d st, $347,943; Calumet Const. Co., 15 East 59th st, $368,821; North Eastern Const. Co., 225 5th av, $364,000; F. T. Nesbitt, $381,000; R. E. Heningham, 1 Madison av, $421,000; L. A. Burke & Sons Co., 25 West 42d st, $443,000; D. J. Ryan, Brooklyn, $398,000; W. F. Holding, 2426 Davidson av, $446,000; Turner Const. Co., 11 Broadway, $518,900.

New Elevator Apartments for Riverside Drive and 113th Street.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—Hugo Mack and a Mr. Friedman, owners of the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 113th st, state that they will erect on a plot 85.3x104x irregular a 12-sty high-class elevator apartment house, to cost about $425,000, and that Messrs. Schwartz & Gross, of 347 5th av, are preparing the plans. The same architects are also making plans for the erection of a similar 12-sty structure to be erected on a plot, 100x104x irregular, at the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 113th st, to cost approximately $425,000. The Akron Building Company, 198 Broadway, are the owners.

Rumor of New Broadway Building.

BROADWAY.—It was rumored this week that preliminary steps are now under way for the erection of a new 12-sty hotel building on the site of the Hotel Saranac, at Broadway and 42d st. It is said that negotiations are under way with the New Amsterdam National Bank, and that the structure may be started this year. The site is immediately west of the new Knickerbocker Hotel, and the Times Building on the north. Particulars will be given in later issues.

To Erect Portable Car Barn.

4TH AV.—Work is to be started immediately taking down the steel and corrugated iron car barn, 145x280 ft., now located at the southwest corner of Lenox av and 147th st, and reconstructing its sections on the foundations of the old car stables at 4th av and 33d and 32d sts, at a cost of $10,000, for the New York City Railway Co. It has previously been announced that the New York, New Haven & Hartford R. R. would have a new terminal on the site of the old car stables, but the idea now seems to have been abandoned.

Plans for New York Press Club.

SPRUCE ST.—The committee having charge of the competitive plans for the club building for the New York Press Club, which is to be erected at the northwest corner of Spruce and William sts, on a plot 36.1x62 and irregular, have decided on plans by Architect Ernest Greene, of No. 5 Beekman st. The structure will be twelve stories, and fireproof. The building site was purchased in April, 1907, from the Ward estate, which was held by them for nearly a century. No building contracts have yet been awarded.

Cramp & Co. to Erect Taxicab Buildings.

57TH ST.—F. M. Andrews & Co., Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, have completed plans and awarded to Cramp & Co., No. 36 East 23d st, the general contract to erect the 3-sty garage, 225x144.11 ft., on the south side of 57th st, 275 ft. east of 12th av.; also the 3-sty office building, 30x30 ft., on the south side of 57th st, 275 ft. west of 11th av, for the New York Taxicab Co., of No. 546 5th av. The total cost is approximately $225,000. C. E. Appleby, 55 Liberty st, is owner of the property.

Particulars of Eighth Avenue Department Store.

No contracts have yet been awarded for the 4-sty department store, 75.5x100 ft., which Stephen McPartland, 629 8th av, will erect at Nos. 673 to 677 8th av, to cost $40,000. C. A. Jackson, 16 East 23d st, has prepared plans. The exterior will be brick covered with cement stucco, terra cotta coping, tar and gravel roof, low pressure steam, and three buildings will be demolished.

Twelve-Story Building for East 11th Street.

11TH ST.—Messrs. Schwartz & Gross, 347 5th av, have been commissioned to prepare plans for a 12-sty fireproof elevator loft building, 27x108 ft., for the Brevoort Construction Company, 229 Broadway, to be erected at No. 55 East 11th st. There will be stores on the first story, and two electric elevators will be installed. No sub-contracts have yet been awarded.

Big Improvement for Eighth Avenue.

8TH AV.—Plans are now being drawn by Geo. Fred Pelham, 503 5th av, for the construction of three 6-sty high-class flat buildings, 150.5x89x90 ft., for the Raymore Realty Co., of 150 Nassau st, to be situated at the northeast corner of 8th av and 21st st, to cost about $245,000. Along the 8th av front there will be stores, and the corner building will contain an elevator. Work on the foundation is well along.

Contract for Washington Heights Church.

FT. WASHINGTON ROAD.—During the week the contract for the new edifice to be erected by the Collegiate Dutch Reformed Church, at Ft. Washington road and 181st st, was awarded to John B. Roberts & Co., 1 Madison av. Plans for this building were prepared by Architects Nelson & Van Wagenen, of 42 West 39th st, Manhattan.

Convent Avenue Improvement.

CONVENT AV.—The Golde Cohen Construction Co., No. 171 Broadway, will soon erect at the southwest corner of Convent av and 129th st two 5-sty high-class apartment houses, 73.8x78.8 ft. and 66x101.9 ft., to cost in the neighborhood of $145,000. Geo. Fred Pelham, 503 5th av., is preparing the plans. No contracts have yet been awarded.

Bids Opened.

James Knox Taylor, Washington, D. C., opened bids on May 4 for the erection of a post office building at Bar Harbor, Me. W. H. Fissell & Co., Manhattan, $55,973 (low bid). Other bidders were: A. E. Lawrence Co., Bar Harbor, Me.; Otto Nelson, Bangor, Me.; Woodberry & Leighton Co., 166 Devonshire st, Boston, Mass.

Following are the six lowest bidders for the construction of the different sections of the 4th av subway in Brooklyn:

FLUSHING, L. I.—At Flushing, Broadway, south side, 100 ft. west Union st, will be erected a 2-sty brick Masonic Temple, 35x88 ft., by Cornucopia Lodge, F. and A. M., 69 Broadway. Milton F. Duflorg, architect; estimated cost, $25,000.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—St. Boniface's Roman Catholic Church is to have a parish hall that will cost $30,000, to be erected at Gregory and Nicholson sts. Plans have been drawn by Joseph H. Oberlies, of Rochester. French Renaissance style, cherry-red impervious brick, with trimmings of Bedford stone, 60x120 ft. The main auditorium will have a stage 20x36 ft; gymnasium, shower baths. Rev. Frederick R. Rauber, St. Boniface's rector.

Hospitals and Asylums.

MIDDLETOWN, CONN.—The trustees of the Connecticut Hospital for the Insane have decided to erect two brick fireproof buildings for the accommodation of patients.

SOHO, N. J.—Provision for the construction of three temporary buildings at the Isolation Hospital and for the installation of a larger electric light and power plant at the penitentiary was made by the Finance Committee of the Board of Freeholders. Nathaniel J. Ward is chairman.

Office and Loft Buildings.

MANHATTAN.—Westervelt & Austin, 36 West 34th st, have plans ready for enlarging the 4-sty office and store building Nos. 77-79 Broad st and Nos. 32-34 South William st, at a cost of $15,000. O. F. Zollikoffer, 49 West 54th st, is the owner. Childs Company is the lessee.

NEWARK, N. J.—It is reported that a 6-sty loft building will be erected at Clinton and Lawrence sts from plans by Frederick Phelps. It is understood that the estate of S. H. Condict will erect the building. Mill construction, about 100 ft. square. The estimated cost is $65,000.

Power Houses.

HIGH BRIDGE, N. J.—On June 9 an election will be held to vote on the question of establishing a municipal electric light plant. L. W. Dorland is town clerk.

HIGH BRIDGE, N. J.—Resolution has been passed by the borough council requesting an election to decide on whether to issue $15,000 in bonds to provide for a new municipal electric light plant.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—Chauncey T. Secor, chairman of the new Court House Commission, will receive bids until May 18 for furnishing material and constructing a power house for the Westchester County Court House at White Plains. Lord & Hewlett, 345 5th av, Manhattan, are the architects.

BUILDING NOTES.

Miss Kate Budd, architect, has removed from the Bible House to No. 500 5th av.

Wilson Potter, architect, 1 Union sq, is enlarging and rearranging his offices.

Architect F. E. Hill has moved from No. 1 Broadway to the New York Life Building, 346 Broadway.

The Parker Bruen Mfg. Co. (fire escapes), formerly of No. 1133 Broadway, has moved to No. 1170 Broadway.

The Starr Company, 302 Broadway, has closed a contract with the Hart Co., of the Bronx, for 40,000 yards of their clean steam ashes for a sewer in the Bronx.

The Williams Engineering and Contracting Company has just finished the first section of the Manhattan anchorage of the Manhattan Bridge. The work on the second section of the anchorage will not be ready for a couple of years. In the meantime the steelwork will be progressing.

George H. Shuman, contracting and electrical engineer, has recently disposed of his interests in the E-J Electric Co. and opened an office at 13 East 30th st for the transaction of electrical contracting. N. C. Solomon, consulting engineer, will superintend and direct the work for Mr. Shuman.

The Queens Home Realty and Construction Co., which was chartered in October last, reports that during the hard times since its incorporation it has received cash subscriptions for stock of over $12,000, with new subscriptions every day. It has purchased 84 lots at Broadway-Flushing, and its architect, Henry S. Lion, of 11 East 43d st, Manhattan, informs us that ground is being broken for two cottages as a starter, which it expects to follow up with building on a much larger scale. The main office of the company is at 139 East 59th st, New York.

The strike of mechanics in the Singer Building has been settled. The men were ordered back to work on Wednesday night. The trouble was caused by the fact that a non-union firm, Fisher Bros., was engaged to fit up the store of Knox, the hatter, which is on the ground floor. All the union mechanics at work on the building struck last Saturday. Fisher Bros. say that they made no concessions, but simply finished up the job and got out on Wednesday. A representative of the Singer company states that the strike was not brought to the company's attention.

The Scientific American of May 2 gives a most interesting description of the application of Toch Brothers' "Tockolith" and "R. I. W. Damp Resisting Paint No. 112" on the steelwork of the Metropolitan Life tower. It compares the method of steel protection used to result in a permanency equal to that of the Pyramids in Egypt. The New York Sun, a day or two later, also published the same matter under the suggestive headline "Built Forever." These two tributes to the effective protection of "Tockolith" and "R. I. W. Damp Resisting Paint No. 112" for steel are notable of the progress being made in steel protection through Toch preparations.

The Public Service Commission on Wednesday ordered that all work be stopped on the section of the bridge subway loop which takes in the site of the new Municipal building, at Centre st and Park row. The order was issued at the request of Mayor McClellan, explaining that it was desirable that the Bridge Department should consult with the commission in the preparation of plans for the Municipal building foundations. It has been discovered by the Bridge Department that unless the excavation for the subway station is carried deeper it will be impossible to follow the plans by McKim, Mead & White for the bridge trolley and train terminals which are to be placed in the basement of the building.

THE WEEK.

THE realty market is holding its own. There are a fair number of sales to report, and if the contemplated improvements are carried out, it will mean a building movement of no mean proportions. The upper west side and Washington Heights section are still to the fore in this respect. During the past month a number of large corners have changed hands, and in many instances, it has been stated, that large apartments are going to be built. During the week there were several large auction sales of Bronx property which interfered, in a measure, with private sales in that borough. There is going to be an exceedingly large one next Tuesday, some 700 lots being offered. The Hunts Point Realty Co. had a sale of some of their holdings last week, and withdrew about 100 of the lots advertised, on account of the lateness of the hour. Mr. Robert E. Simon, president of the company, states that there has been a good demand by investors and builders for these lots at private sale. In fact, some of them have already been disposed of. It is gratifying to the realty world that most of the foreclosure sales are a thing of the past. Many old-time operators wonder at the way real estate stood up under the strain. Owners were content to keep what they owned and not get panic stricken and throw over their belongings. Undoubtedly they will reap the reward of their patience.

Among the sales consummated was that of 29 West 25th st by the Society of the Free Church of St. Mary. This is a 4-sty building, 25x98.9, and was sold by leave of Judge Blanchard, of the Supreme Court, for $75,000. This property was acquired in 1893, when the society paid $60,000 for it. Hugo S. Mack sold to the Winthrop Realty Co. the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 113th st, 104x85.3x irregular. A 12-sty building is going to be erected on the site. The "Lucerne," a 6-sty elevator apartment house, on the north side of 143d st, 90 feet west of Hamilton place, was sold. This house stands on part of the old Colored Orphan Asylum property. The building was put up at auction about the first of the year. The Church Extension Society of the New York Presbytery purchased four lots on the corner of Home st, West Farms road and Longfellow av. In the downtown section 17, 19 and 21 Cliff st changed hands, 60x150x irregular. The buildings that occupied this premises were recently destroyed by fire. A new building will be constructed on the plot. There has been reported lately several sales in the terminal section. The 5-sty loft building, 20 West 27th st, was purchased by the Investors' and Traders' Realty Co. and Andrew F. Gilsey. These people sold 461 6th av, with an old building, occupying a lot 24.9x100. The reported price was $150,000. The upper west side also came in for a good number of deals.

There were several mortgages of importance recorded. The 44 West 77th st Co. borrowed from the Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. $500,000 on the building situated on the south side of that street, 150 ft. east of Columbus av, 100x102. This loan bears interest at the rate of 6 per cent, until the building is completed, and 5½ per cent thereafter until the due date, May 1, 1912. The Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Co. loaned James A. Farley $300,000 for 3 years at 5½ per cent on the property at the southeast corner of Madison av and 55th st, 50.2x82.6. Another loan of some importance was one for $114,000 on the property 109 and 111 West 27th st. Mary E. Coleman loaned this amount to the Marmac Construction Co. This is in the form of a building loan due May 1, 1911, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. The West Side Construction Co., Jacob Axelrod, president, borrowed from the Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Co. $150,000 for five years at 5 per cent on the property located on the northwest corner of 118th st and Morningside av West, 100.11x90. Mrs. Margaret O. Sage again was a loaner of money on bond and mortgage. She placed $212,000 on the property 31 and 33 West 21st st, 465.3 west of 5th av, 55.11x98.9, due May 1, 1911, at 5½ per cent. The Acme Building Co. was the borrower, who also mortgaged all title that they have to the land adjoining on both the east and west of this holding.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THERE were several notable sales in the auction market this week, and in the main the results were gratifying.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day on Monday a block front in Furman st, Brooklyn, consisting of about seventeen lots, was knocked down at $89,000 to James Stammalman. This was a voluntary sale. There were old buildings on the plot.

At the stand of Bryan L. Kennelly, on the same day, a vacant plot, 100x87.5, on the north side of Baychester av, 250 ft. east of Kingsbridge road, was knocked down to E. D. Phelps for $1,800. The 3-family house on the north side of 232d st, 50 ft. west of Bronxwood av, 54x120xirreg., was sold to E. Malino for $4,400.

There was a record-breaking crowd in the salesroom on Tuesday. The center of attraction was a sale of 369 lots sold by Joseph P. Day at the order of the Hunt's Point Realty Co. Martin Pletscher was the first buyer. He purchased the lot on the east side of Bryant st, 100 ft. south of Garrison av, for $1,050. The auctioneer offered him the option of taking one, two or three at the same price. "I'll take ten," said Mr. Pletscher. He got them, as well as applause from the crowd. He used good judgment, as the adjoining lots went at higher prices, though they were not so favorably situated.

Interior lots on the west side of Bryant st were knocked down for about $1,050, while across the street the prices ranged from $775 to $1,250. On Longfellow st Charles F. Pfizenmayer bought nineteen lots, paying $750 apiece for them. On the west side of this street prices varied from $800 to $925 each. The prices obtained on Whittier st were between $575 and $675. Edgewater road lots, which were extra deep and faced on the Bronx River, brought between $2,500 and $3,100.

The total amount realized by the sale was $381,275 for 269 lots. At six o'clock the sale was stopped, with 100 lots unsold. They are going to be offered at private sale.

At the stand of Bryan L. Kennelly a sale was in progress at the same time, of 63 plots of four and five acres each, at Oakdale, Long Island, at prices ranging from $110 to $950 an acre. The sale consumed about two hours. This holding is well located, lying as it does to the north of the railroad track, between the game preserves of the South Side Sportsmen's Club and the estate of Frederick G. Bourne. It is heavily wooded. The total amount that the sale realized was $53,146, which makes an average of about $843 a plot.

TRANSIT CONFERENCE OF 1908.

At a meeting held in the rooms of the Allied Real Estate Interests, 165 Broadway, New York City, on May 12, 1908, the following organizations were represented:

Allied Real Estate Interests, Allan Robinson; United Real Estate Owners' Association, Charles H. Schnelle; 12th and 19th Wards Real Estate Owners' Association, Charles H. Schnelle; Harlem Property Owners' Association, Dr. Abraham Korn; 12th and 22d Wards Real Estate Owners' Association, Ira J. Ettinger; Transit Committee of Fifteen, William Williams; Real Estate Board of Brokers of the City of New York, Irving Ruland; Brooklyn League and 22 civic associations, ex-Senator George W. Brush; Citizens' Central Committee of Brooklyn, Frederick W. Rowe; Flatbush Taxpayers' Association, Edmund D. Fisher; Manufacturers' Association of New York, T. B. Ackerson; 26th Ward Board of Trade, Brooklyn, Robert F. Craig; Employers' League of Brooklyn, F. W. Rowe; Builders' Association of Brooklyn and 44 civic bodies of Brooklyn, F. W. Rowe.

On motion, duly seconded, it was

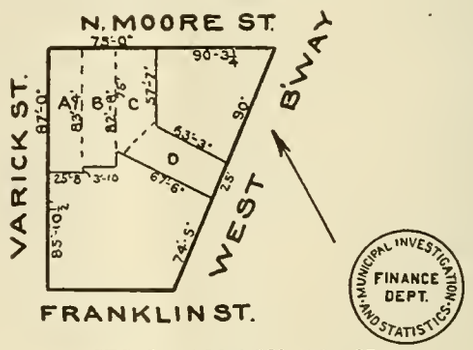
Resolved, That this conference favors a broadminded policy with reference to subway construction and operation in New York City.

Resolved, That while the policy of subway construction and ownership by the city is approved, yet the interests of the city and of its traveling public require that the Rapid Transit Act be amended so as to permit subway construction and ownership by private capital in addition to city construction and ownership, with a reservation of the right of the city to acquire such structure at a definitely fixed time in the future.

Resolved, That the leasing term of a city-built subway be increased from twenty years, as at present, to thirty-five years, in order that private capital may be induced to lease a subway built and owned by the city.

Resolved, That the legislative bill—known as the Robinson Bill, Assembly No. 2232—amending the Rapid Transit Act, and embodying the foregoing principles is approved and that the Governor be earnestly urged by representatives from this conference to sign this bill.

NEW SYSTEM INAUGURATED.



COMPTROLLER METZ DEVISES A SYSTEM OF TABULATION AND CLASSIFICATION OF CITY'S HOLDINGS.

Incredible as it may appear, the City of New York has not any complete record of its realty holdings. There is no way of telling what property the city owns without going to considerable trouble, and devoting much time in looking up the meager records at hand. Comptroller Metz was brought face to face with this condition, and immediately set about to inaugurate a system of records giving minute data of each piece of property owned by the city. Work was begun about a year ago, and a force of men have been constantly engaged in straightening out the muddle.

HOLDINGS CLASSIFIED.

The holdings of the city are divided into the following departments: Fire, Armories, Police, Parks, Borough Presidents, Health, Charities and Correction, Bridges, Docks and Water Supply. At the present time the records of the holdings of the Fire Department are about completed, but it must not be assumed that the other departments have suffered. The Comptroller has gone about it in a businesslike way, and as information concerning any of the other departments was obtained it was carefully noted in its proper place. It is estimated that the city owns about $2,000,000,000 worth of property, in Greater New York. Naturally this includes Central Park. These lots are considered worth an average of $60,000.

The first step taken was the verification that the city really owned a given parcel. A large vertical envelope was made, suitably printed, so that a complete history of the property would appear at a glance. Inside the envelope appears a card with a diagram giving the dimensions of the holding and a short statement, as per accompanying diagram. Attached to this card is the complete search, the policy of insurance and full information as to how the property was acquired, price paid and all other particulars.

Used for Hook and Ladder Company 8; storehouse; Fuel Depot 3.

ATLAS USED.

A map of the city has been prepared, in black and white, and then the parcels owned by the city are inserted in colors. For example, those holdings owned by the Fire Department are colored red, while those under the control of the Park Department are colored green, and so on through the list. It will be apparent at a glance so soon as a page of the map is opened just how much each department controls.

This system is going to be carried out in the future. When any property is acquired hereafter, it will be entered in its regular place. The Comptroller deserves great credit for devising such a method of handling the city's property, and the beauty of it is that, while it is complete, it is at the same time exceedingly simple.

LAW DEPARTMENT

TAX TITLES.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

(1) Will you kindly favor a subscriber by stating just what rights a purchaser at a regular tax sale has, after complying with all requirements, and the two years of the time for redemption has expired, and the lease, for a thousand years say, secured? (2) Also, is "Blackwell on Tax Titles" considered an authority, and are there any other monographs on this topic? (3) Also, when a piece of real estate is sold on which there is a mortgage, should not the new owner go on the bond?

Answer.—(1) The security of a tax title is affected by so many different requirements that it is generally considered as of little value beyond being an absolute lien for the tax, expenses and a large rate of interest to be repaid to the purchaser at the tax sale, at some indefinite time when a change in the title may necessitate every charge and lien on the title to be paid up for a fresh start.

This being the case, the City of New York and most cities and towns are usually the purchasers at tax sales within their boundaries, and but little more attention is paid to the sale under a tax than formerly to the unpaid tax itself. These sales are readily redeemed for the amount of tax, expenses of sale and interest. If a purchaser at a tax sale has absolutely complied with every requirement necessary and the City of New York (or other municipality or town) in making the sale has complied with every requirement to be complied with on its part in levying the tax and carrying out the sale, and he is absolutely sure that no mistakes or errors have been made in any particular, he may have a tax lease for the term for which he has bid in at the sale, upon giving the notice required by sections 1043 and 1044 of the city charter (in the case of New York City), and by filing the affidavit provided for in section 1045 of said charter, after which any person interested who has the right to redeem within six months by paying purchase money and forty-two per cent. interest (section 1047 of said charter), has not done so. Every requirement is construed strictly against the purchaser of the tax lease. (See Smith v. Buhler, 121 N. Y. 213.)

We have taken our correspondent's question to relate probably to property sold for taxes in the City of New York; if elsewhere, the purchaser at the tax sale would be probably governed by the provisions of Articles II. and III. of the General Tax Law and amendments thereto, or by provisions of local charters applicable thereto. (2) We consider Blackwell a very fair authority. (3) It is not necessary.

RIGHTS OF A TENANT.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The writer was asked recently by a friend to define the rights of a tenant in good standing who holds an unexpired lease, in the event of foreclosure on the premises by the mortgagee. Has the new owner the right to cancel or otherwise change the terms of the lease without the tenant's consent?

Your valuable opinion on this point will be appreciated by the writer and increasingly by the gentleman directly concerned.

Answer.—The rights of the tenant are dependent on many varying circumstances. If the lease were of record and of earlier date than the mortgage, the foreclosure of the mortgage could, of course, in no wise affect it.

If of later period, and the tenant be made party defendant to the foreclosure suit, duly served with summons and complaint therein, etc., the lease would be entirely cut off on the day the purchaser at the foreclosure sale took title to it.

MARKETABLE TITLES.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

When a court declares a title marketable, is it advisable to take title when a title company refuses to insure the title?

Answer.—"Cela depend," as the French say. Any court has power to enforce its say-so, while a title company has not. We have known two title companies to refuse a title while the court compelled the purchaser to take the title. In a case where so much is probably involved, recourse should be had to some competent real estate attorney who may advise you how entirely the court's say-so will obviate the stigma which will certainly attach to the title from the title company's refusal to insure.

PARTY-WALL RIGHTS.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you kindly inform me in your next issue if an owner has a right to put an addition on his house and use the party wall, without the consent of the adjoining owner? If not, could he use one-half of the thickness of the wall without the consent?

Answer.—Party-wall rights usually arise from formal instruments duly recorded and which express the terms on which one party or the other may extend, repair or vary existing use. If it be, however, a party-wall merely because of the fact that it stands partly on one owner's land and partly on the other's, any new use or modification would be a very delicate matter except by mutual agreement. If, however, the existing party-wall is deeper than the present building on your lot, we can see no off-hand objection to your inserting in it the beams of a proposed extension; where your lot line ends your beams may end.—Ed.

BRONX DEVELOPMENTS.

Few sections of the City of New York have shown such marked improvement since 1900 as the subway zone of the Bronx. In this zone the largest and one of the most active sections is what may be termed the "Areco District." This district, roughly, is all of the property south of Westchester av, between Intervale and Whitlock avs. It is intersected by Southern Boulevard, a parkway, and East 163d st, formerly Dongan st, a 100-ft. street which is already being improved with high-class apartment houses, and is destined to be one of the important streets in this district in the future.

In 1900 this whole district was occupied by country estates, the only means of access being a single-track trolley line running along Westchester av, beginning at 3d av and ending at Southern Boulevard, and the total population of the district was less than 50 people. To-day there are more than 3,000 living here, and it will ultimately provide housing for a population of 50,000 people. The past few years have seen its transformation from suburban to urban property, and the entire district is now either undergoing or fully prepared for immediate building improvement with apartment houses and 2-family dwellings of the best type.

Practically in the centre of the district at Simpson st, is a station of the subway by which the running time to City Hall is 35 minutes, and to the theatre and shopping districts about 25 minutes. At 3d av and 149th st free transfers are exchanged between the elevated road and the subway, thus affording to people in this district an optional route downtown via the 3d av elevated; also during the rush hours the 2d av elevated trains are run from South Ferry to Bronx Park, thus giving three direct lines of downtown service. In addition, there is a surface line on Westchester av, running from 129th st to Westchester and Unionport, and the Southern Boulevard line, running from the 3d av bridge at Harlem River to 177th st. The Harlem division of the New Haven Railroad, which is being made a 6-track line at a cost of more than $8,000,000, is rebuilding its station at Hunt's Point road and building a new station at Westchester av at a cost of $100,000, thus giving this section two stations on the line of this great railway system, which when completed will give thorough service over its line to a new downtown terminus.

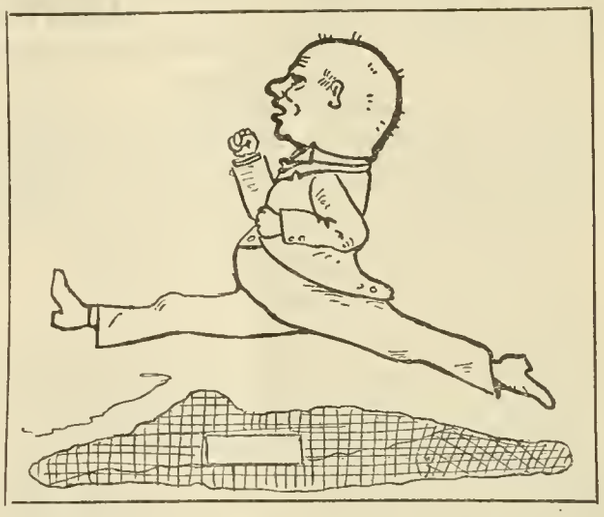
In the very heart of this district is the intersection of Westchester av and Southern Boulevard (the two main arteries of the Bronx), and from that centre its development is radiating. In this immediate vicinity the American Real Estate Co. has constructed during the past two years more than 20 apartment houses, elevator and non-elevator, with a total of 350 apartments. Thus, within a few years' time, what was formerly almost a rural district has been transformed into a busy city community, where hundreds of families are now living and where operations are in progress for the accommodation of many hundreds more. The secret of it all is accessibility.

HEARING AT ALBANY.

A hearing will be held on the Land Title Registration bill today before the Governor. It will be recalled that this bill has passed both houses and is now before the Governor for his signature. The Real Estate Board of Brokers have been heartily in favor of this measure. Last autumn there were several public hearings before the Torrens Commission, appointed by the Governor to examine this method of land registration, and many expressions of opinion were given by people who have made real estate a study.

Mr. Allan Robinson, who was a member of the Commission, and who sent in a minority report, said: "I am not interested in the Torrens bill, which has passed both houses of the Legislature and is now before the Governor. In my judgment, the cost of registration under this bill will be prohibitive. I do not believe that any one will register a title under it for two reasons. In the first place, registration will cost upwards of a thousand dollars, and, in the second place, the decree being binding only against parties who have been properly brought into the proceeding, will not obviate the necessity of re-examination.

"Owners of property will refuse to register because the market for Torrens titles will be limited. This is the case in Chicago, where the Torrens System has made no appreciable progress for ten years, and I see no reason to believe that there will be any different result in New York."



—The Public Service Commission held a public hearing on Wednesday, May 13, and received suggestions as to the location and style of stations on the proposed Broadway-Lexington av subway.

FIRST COST vs. WILD GOOSE CHASES

THIS MAN SUBSCRIBED FOR A CHEAP SERVICE AND HE GOT IT

This is an illustration why a cheap book of owners' names and addresses is the most expensive thing you can have. If during the year you want 2000 names and addresses and find 40 per cent. of errors, it means that 650 times you have run all over New York to no purpose. The cost in time, car fare, and lost opportunity is many times the cost of the Real Estate Directory, which is 95 per cent. correct.

Before the 1908 Real Estate Directory is issued every party living in the vicinity of New York, whose name appears in the Real Estate Directory, will be visited and the address verified. Out of town addresses verified by mail as far as possible.

The Real Estate Directory is not the Cheapest Service, but it is The Best

Here is what a few leaders in Real Etate think of it

WM. CRUIKSHANK'S SONS.
31 Liberty Street.

New York, May 7th, 1908.

Mr. Ronald C. Lee, General Manager, Realty Records Company, 11 East 24th Street, New York City.

Dear Mr. Lee—After a careful trial of your Real Estate Directory service, we have no hesitancy in saying that it has proven of great value to us, and we find that it furnishes by far the most accurate information which we have been able to secure.

The service is being steadily improved, and while of course it is almost impossible to make it absolutely reliable, we believe you are covering the field in a far more comprehensive manner than has ever before been done.

With best wishes for the continued success and improvement of your service, we are,

Yours very truly,
WM. CRUIKSHANK'S SONS.

Realty Records Co., 11 East 24th St., City.

Gentlemen—We wish to notify you that we have received back from the binder our blue book, and that you may therefore, call for the duplicate which you loaned us temporarily.

We are surprised to learn from you that you have not placed your book in every real estate office in the city, and imagine that the only reason for this is that some people are unaware of its value. The fact that we have had to have our volume rebound, should give an idea of the amount of use to which same has been put. We have carefully looked over the new features which you are installing, such as the giving of stated consideration, and the full description of the tenements, flats and apartment houses, and wish to congratulate you on these improvements. They have been of immense value to us especially in our mortgage loan department.

Trusting that your efforts to improve the service will meet the success which they so well deserve, and thanking you for your various courtesies, we are,

Yours very truly,
M. MORGENTHAU, JR. & CO.

Ronald C. Lee, Esq., General Manager, 11 East 24th Street, City.

My dear Mr. Lee—There is no question whatever that a real estate broker's office depends for success entirely on the accuracy of its records and we have used your system in checking our own and find very few mistakes, and so far as we can judge from our experience with various record systems which are furnished subscribers yours seem to be the best.

Until these services were instituted, it was almost impossible for a small brokerage concern to get any results through the inability of locating owners, but now it seems to me that with your records a new concern has many of the advantages of one long established in business.

We have always taken great pride in our record system and believe it is the best in the city in any real estate broker's office, and feel that we are largely indebted to your company for the results that we have attained.

Wishing you success in any of your endeavors, I am,

Yours very truly,
LAWRENCE B. ELLIMAN.

The Realty Records Co., 11 East 24th St., New York City.

Gentlemen—In answer to your favor of the 5th inst., we beg to say that we were one of the first subscribers to the Real Estate Directory and have watched its growth and improvement with a great deal of interest.

We have always realized the immense amount of work connected with your undertaking, and consider the subscription price of $100, a mere pittance to its value to any real estate office.

We notice the new features you propose to introduce into the service and consider they will be a very valuable addition to your work.

Yours very truly,
N. A. BERWIN & CO.

Ronald C. Lee, Esq., Manager The Realty Records Co., 11 East 24th St., City.

Dear Sir—The best I can say about your inquiry regarding the Real Estate Directory is that I would not be without it.

True—you have increased the price of it, but at the same time I think its efficiency has increased with it.

To my mind every real estate office should have it.

Very truly yours,
JOSEPH P. DAY.

The Realty Records Co., 11 East 24th St., City.

Gentlemen—We have found your Real Estate Directory service of great assistance to us. In fact, we would not be able to keep up to date without it.

In our opinion, it is a great improvement on the old system, and our experience has proved it, in the main, to be correct in its record of transfers and the directory of owners.

Your progressiveness, in adding new features, adds greatly to the value of the service, and the increasing of its efficiency every year.

Yours very truly,
JOHN H. BERRY.

Realty Records Co., 11 East 24th St., City.

Gentlemen—The Real Estate Directory service is a valuable assistant in a real estate office and is as essential to the equipment of an office as the telephone.

I trust you will be successful in making the new and distinctive features which you contemplate as accurate as the Real Estate Directory has heretofore been.

Very truly yours,
LEON S. ALTMAYER.
